Hoover Speeds West to Open Campaign

JAPAN CHARGES STIMSON'S TALK MENACES PEACE

TOKIO, Oct. 4.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—A war office spokesman today told the vernacular press that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's Philadelphia speech of last week was a menace to the good relations between Japan and the United States.

The spokesman asserted that Mr. Stimson, by again speaking against Japan, offered further provocation, which was a serious matter.

Turn to Stimson's Speech.

During the hostile reception of the Lytton report yesterday the American secretary's Philadelphia speech comparatively speaking had gained little attention.

(Mr. Stimson told the Philadelphia Union League club Saturday night that President Hoover had formulated a successful policy of nonrecognition for territorial gains made by force of arms. He added that the "open door policy" was necessary to preserve China's territorial and administrative integrity.)

Meanwhile the Japanese press is vigorously denouncing the Lytton report and is demanding that the government withdraw from the league of nations if the league assembly adopts the findings of the Lytton investigators.

Demand Withdrawal from League.

The press generally reflected the attitude of the war office, which issued a statement declaring that Japan would be forced to withdraw from the league if the assembly acted in the spirit of the report.

(In a statement written in Mukden yesterday Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, supreme military and diplomatic representative of Japan, declared that "neither the league of nations nor any other power can change our determination to pursue our established aim in Manchuria.")

One of the points emphasized by Japanese critics of the report was the commission's recommendation that Manchuria be governed by an autonomous government under Chinese sovereignty.

League Shocked by Reaction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—League of nations' circle were shocked today by the reception given the Lytton report on Manchuria in the British and French newspapers. That a friendly attitude toward Japan exists in Paris was shown in the reaction in the French press.

There is a striking difference between the summaries as printed in the French newspapers and as synopsized in American newspapers. The general dispatch in the Paris Le Temps last night gave the impression that the report favored Japan.

The report, implying a condemnation of Japanese actions in Manchuria, is regarded here as the league's greatest test and opportunity to prove of value in guiding international peace.

France-Japanese Pact in Force.

[Copyright: 1932; By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Although the Franco-Japanese treaty of 1907 guaranteeing mutual aid to assure security and peace in those regions of the far east in which France and Japan have "territorial rights" is still in force, it has not played any part in the present Manchurian controversy, it was authoritatively said here today.

Frequent reports have been received here recently from Geneva and the United States that France was adopting a friendly attitude toward Japan partly because of this treaty.

It was explained today, however, that it originally had been drawn up to apply to a specific case at the time Japan then was having trouble subduing the Chinese in Formosa, while France also was having her troubles because of a Chinese dictator in Yunnan province, adjacent to French Indo-China, who had a Japanese wife and Japanese advisers.

Thanks to this agreement, the question was amicably settled and both sides, feeling a continuance of the accord would strengthen their respective positions, permitted the treaty to remain in force.

GIVES FIGHTING SPEECH TONIGHT AT DES MOINES

Hopes He Can Hold G. O. P. Farm Vote.

When President Herbert Hoover delivers his address at Des Moines, Ia., tonight, W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune radio station, will broadcast the entire speech. The W-G-N broadcast will be made as a part of a nation-wide Columbia Broadcasting Sytem network and the program will start at 7:30 p. m., Chicago time.

Train Speeding West

On Board Presidential Special, Oct. 3.—President Hoover's train is speeding west. Mr. Hoover is busy on his Des Moines speech.

At Harrisburg a stop was made for five minutes. Mr. Hoover appeared on the back platform, but made no address.

At Altoona Mr. Hoover made a short address in which he said, "We are doing what a government can and should do to help its people."

Mrs. Hoover, seeing the crowd pushing forward took a megaphone to call out:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—Special.)—President Hoover headed into the middle west today to launch his campaign for reelection with a "fighting" speech at Des Moines, Ia., tomorrow night. The departure of the special train, carrying the Republican presidential nominee, Mrs. Hoover, and a corps of White House staff personnel, marked the beginning of the long awaited and widely heralded Republican drive to reclaim the revolting west and hold the east in line for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

As the President watched the capitol slowly recede into the background it was apparent that he was fully aware that traveling with him on the dark red eight coach Pennsylvania train was his political fate. The President's mission is frankly that of getting votes. The Republican candidate has been informed that unless he can swing the Republican malcontents in the middle western states over to his side through his own personal campaigning and through the presentation of his own case for reelection his occupancy of the White House may be short-lived.

Heeds Plea of Leaders.

For the President the trip will mean the launching of the personal campaign for his reelection which Republican chieftains in all sections of the country have been urging him to make since the full results of the disastrous Maine election in September became known. In carrying out his assignment Candidate Hoover will make platform appearances and in several cases short speeches at several cities in Iowa and in the states lying between Chicago and Washington. The Iowa speeches will come the afternoon before the Des Moines address, while the presidential special is moving leisurely across the Iowa prairies.

At least two short speeches are to be made by President Hoover at Des Moines in addition to his principal campaign address, a document which is to be addressed to the nation at large. Other speeches are expected to be made at Davenport, Iowa City, Newton, Rock Island, West Liberty, and other Iowa cities. At every stop the President is to make a personal appearance, greet the citizens and shake hands with as many as possible.

Attack Democratic Record.

While the President's speech has been closely guarded, it is known that Mr. Hoover plans to attack Gov. Roosevelt's silence on the immediate payment of the bonus and his expressed attitude on other issues. The President also will attack the Democratic legislative record of last winter, outline the program for reconstruction which he has sponsored and make a personal plea for the votes which will make possible continuance

DIES OF DESPAIR AS U. S. BARS WIFE AFTER 25 YEARS

Peter Lutomski, 1249 North Ashland avenue, died at the county hospital yesterday of despair, his family said, because his wife, Josephine, mother of three American born daughters and a resident of the United States for 25 years, has been ordered deported.

Last night, through the intercession of Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs, who appealed to Senator Glenn, affidavits explaining the case were in the hands of immigration authorities.

In 1927 Mr. and Mrs. Lutomski went to their native Poland for a year. When they prepared to return in 1928, Mrs. Lutomski was refused a visa by a doctor at the American consulate on the ground that she had tuberculosis. He recommended an X-ray treatment, according to the affidavit, which she took at a cost of $50. He then recommended another but in the meantime other doctors had examined her and pronounced her well. Lutomski returned alone and finally, after almost four years of futile appeals to the consulate examiner, Mrs. Lutomski returned to the United States by way of Canada, entering this country on a six week permit. The permit expired on Sept. 20.

Troops Reach Canton After Miner Is Shot

Canton, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Company F of the 130th infantry, Illinois, arrived here from Peoria shortly before midnight in command of Capt. Amerigo Bonjean to preserve order following the serious shooting of a union miner. The troops were requested by Sheriff C. C. Prickett of Fulton county. The militia was immediately stationed at vantage points throughout the city.

The situation was deemed threatening in view of the attempted assassination and because of disquieting unrest among the two mine factions which started Saturday with a riot. There are at least 1,000 miners in this region, 200 of whom have signified a desire to return to the pits under the new basic wage scale.

On Way to Visit Mine Owner.

Sheriff Prickett's appeal was made to Carlos Black, adjutant general of the Illinois National Guard at Springfield. The order for a movement of troops was transferred to Maj. J. D. Wansbraugh, in command of a battalion of the 130th infantry at Peoria, 31 miles away. The troops were in readiness.

The man shot tonight is Robert Pollitt, 22 years an influential worker at the Pschirrer and Clearview mines.

Pollitt and his wife were on their way to visit Charles Pschirrer Sr., owner of one of the mines, at the time of the shooting. They drew up in front of the Pschirrer home in South Main street, near the Canton city limits.

Suddenly a black car appeared alongside. As it swept slowly by one or more of its occupants opened fire on Pollitt. His wife dodged and escaped injury. He collapsed at the wheel, hit by a bullet which pierced his right shoulder and emerged through the back. Deputy Sheriff Ben Hunter was on the scene and took Pollitt to the Graham hospital, where Dr. Mark S. Nelson performed an emergency operation.

Car Traced to Chicago.

Witnesses told police the license on the gunmen's car, and officials tracing it said it was issued to Leroy T. O'Brien of 7466 Irving Park boulevard, Norwood township.

Immediately after the shooting, more than 100 special deputy sheriffs were placed about the city with a special guard at the home of State's Attorney G. Ray Senift. Police said they believe the assailants of Pollitt were miner pickets. Many regular union men have been threatened, they said.

PRINCESS HELEN ACCUSES CAROL AS 'PERSECUTOR'

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Daily Mail tonight published a story quoting Princess Helen of Rumania as charging her former husband, King Carol, with "persecution and bad faith."

The princess was quoted as saying that the king's ill treatment was climaxed by his decision to recall summarily Prince Michael from London. The boy has been visiting his mother for two weeks.

Princess Helen was quoted as saying the king was resentful of the sympathy the British people had shown her, and, despite a promise that her son could remain with her six weeks, an aide was ordered to return to Rumania with the lad on Wednesday.

BAGS CONTAINING $13,225 STOLEN IN BUS STATION

A thief made a $13,225 haul last night when he walked out of the bus terminal at Wabash avenue and Roosevelt road with two suit cases which had just been put down by a porter who left the bags unguarded for a moment to answer a call. The thief was described as well dressed.

The suit cases belonged to Mrs. Anna Hughes of 855 Logan street, Elgin. She notified police that the bags contained bonds and other valuables worth $7,225, but revised that figure to $13,225 after telephoning her home.

The loot, she said, included four negotiable bonds valued at $12,000; a bank book for a $1,200 balance in a St. Louis bank, and $25 worth of wearing apparel.

Evanston Residents Again Make Their Slumber Plea

One of the perennial requests that Evanstonians make of their council was made again last night. It was to make the milkmen and their horses keep quiet in the early morning hours. The drivers are asked to refrain from singing and talking and the horses are expected to wear rubber boots. Residents on Asbury avenue are the complainants and the matter was brought forward by Ald. Clinton Merrick of the 2d ward. As usual the matter was referred to the city's corporation counsel and the police committee of the council.

William S. Brock, Flyer, Is Reported Near Death

William S. Brock, who with Edward F. Schlee almost circled the globe by plane in 1927, is in a critical condition at the Presbyterian hospital and is not expected to live, it was learned last night. He entered the hospital several weeks ago suffering from cancer.

Admits Theft of $500,000 from Clients

Charles E. Glaeser, a lawyer and mortgage dealer in the Lake View district since the turn of the century, walked quietly into the office of State's Attorney Swanson yesterday. He made a voluntary confession of a series of embezzlements and frauds during the last ten years by which he mulcted his clients of approximately $500,000. Glaeser himself estimated the number of his victims at more than a thousand.

His confession was a surprise to Mr. Swanson, who received it in person. No formal complaints have been made against Glaeser, but the attorney said that hundreds of his clients were pressing him for settlements, and that it was only a matter of time before his practices would be uncovered.

Glaeser is a little man with a thin gray mustache and gray hair fringing a bald spot. He is 56 years old. His attorney, Allen W. Cook, and his two sons, Elmer and Philip, who are in their lates 20s, sat beside him as he told his story in Mr. Swanson's office. The sons were not engaged in their father's business.

Tells Story of Career.

"I started in business in the late '90s among the German people in Lake View," said Glaeser. "I'm of German blood myself, and my parents were born in Germany. Up to 1922 I had built up a good reputation selling first and second mortgages and dealing in real estate. My clients believed in me and trusted me. Many of them were my friends for many years, or my relatives.

"All this trouble started so many years ago I don't remember why I started it. But I do remember the first transactions that I got into were of this nature: I forged some mortgage notes.

"I made up the mortgage in the usual form, signed it myself, had it secured by a trust deed and then sold the notes to my clients, who accepted them without question. As I remember, those first notes were $10,000 notes. Of course, there was never any actual real estate to secure the trust deed.

"Once I began it it got away from me. It rolled up like a snowball. I was granting high rates of interest as high as 10 per cent a year, and when the coupons came in I would pay them myself. But in order to do this I had to forge more mortgages. And then these mortgages would come due, demanding still more money."

Lawyer Advises Confession.

Attorney Cook said that he first learned of Glaeser's manipulations when Glaeser came to his office Friday and made a clean breast of his affairs. He advised Glaeser, he said, that the only thing to do was to repeat the confession to the state's attorney.

"These charges might be fought and because of their complicated nature the cases would lead to a long and expensive trial," said Attorney Cook. "Mr. Glaeser will plead guilty, however.

"At one time he owned approximately $750,000 worth of real estate equities.

"I have looked over the records in his office. The properties in which he has interests are innumerable—I couldn't begin to count them. However, practically all of them are incumbered, and I doubt if his equities are worth anything now."

Mr. Swanson said that Glaeser would be arraigned soon in the Felony court and held in high bonds, but that the case will not be presented to the grand jury until a full investigation has been made by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers and Glaeser's clients have been given a full opportunity to file charges against him. Mr. Ayers will start an examination of Glaeser's books today.

Glaeser has two other children besides the sons who accompanied him to the prosecutor's office. His home is at 6342 North Irving avenue. He had an office at 127 North Dearborn street.

EMBEZZLEMENT TO BE CHARGED IN INDICTMENT

State Will Move for Extradition.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Samuel Insull Jr. arrived in town by night boat train from London, but slipped by reporters at the station, going directly to Hotel Lincoln where his mother and father were waiting for him. He declined to make any statement. He took a room at the hotel on the same floor as the suite occupied by his mother and father.

Indictment of Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin Insull, will be sought before the October grand jury this morning. State's Attorney Swanson made this announcement last evening when he failed to receive replies from the Insulls on whether they would "return voluntarily" from their havens of refuge in foreign countries. Samuel Insull is in Paris and Martin is in Orillia, Ontario.

Prosecutor Swanson said he would seek grand jury action on charges of embezzlement, larceny by bailee and larceny. He expects to present enough evidence this morning to warrant the jury in voting immediate true bills.

Brokerage Deals Under Attack.

The charges are to be predicated on the evidence gathered by the state's attorney's special Insull staff showing that $334,720 was abstracted from the treasuries of the various Insull corporations to protect dummy brokerage accounts carried for Martin Insull, as an individual, in the name of Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company. Martin Insull had a financial interest in the Lincoln company, which did all the printing for the Insull corporations.

Subpoenas for Flexner, Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of the Middle West Utilities group of the Insull empire, and for employes and bookkeepers of various brokerage concerns and Insull companies were placed in the hands of state's attorney's detectives last evening. These witnesses are summoned to appear "forthwith" before the grand jury.

Swanson Makes Statement.

"Tomorrow I shall present to the grand jury some of the matters already developed by my investigations and I shall seek the immediate indictment of Samuel Insull Sr. and Martin Insull," said State's Attorney Swanson's formal announcement.

"The Insulls have not replied to our messages requesting their voluntary return. If these people, who have caused losses of millions of dollars to investors, will not return voluntarily I shall use every means given to me by law to bring them back.

"However, the fact that we shall ask indictments tomorrow does not indicate that we have completed our investigation. We have only scratched the surface so far. Undoubtedly other indictments will be asked.

"Real Criminal Cases."

"The indictments expected tomorrow are not a mere gesture. We have several real criminal cases and we can go into court next week and try them if the defendants appear and ask for a trial."

The main case to be presented today involves a brokerage account at Paul H. Davis & Co. which was carried in the name of Flexner. Martin Insull had requested Flexner to allow him to use at least one of Flexner's accounts exclusively for himself, according to the prosecutors.

Evidence in possession of the state's attorney shows that in October, 1931, Flexner was notified by the brokers that the collateral in the account was not satisfactory and that unless it was bolstered up with additional collateral it would be sold out. Flexner has told the prosecutors that when he apprised Martin Insull of this fact he was told to go to McCormick, the Middle West treasurer, and get checks to take up the collateral then posted for marginal purposes. This collateral stock, which was owned by Martin Insull, was then sold by him to twelve of the Insull subsidiaries at a loss of $61,220 to the subsidiaries, prosecutors said.

The second deal to be taken before the grand jury is one wherein it is charged that $170,222 was abstracted from the Middle West Utilities company and the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company for the protection of Martin Insull's private accounts. These advances were made with the "authorization" of Samuel Insull Sr., the prosecutors have found.

Extradition proceedings will be started as soon as indictments are returned by the grand jury. This announcement was made by the group of Mr. Swanson's special assistants consisting of Prosecutors Charles Bellows, John Hampton, John O'Hora, and Voyle Johnson, and Auditor John J. Bailey, financial expert.

Rumors in La Salle street were to the effect that both Samuel and Martin Insull would resist to the utmost any efforts to return them to Chicago.

Procedure on Extradition.

An extradition proceeding is an involved and costly affair.

The first move in such a proceeding is to apply to the governor of Illinois for a requisition on the secretary of state in Washington for a presidential warrant. If the governor honors the request the indictment and other necessary legal papers are forwarded to Washington. The solicitor general of the government then passes on the sufficiency of the legal papers and if they meet his approval the secretary of state asks that a presidential warrant be issued to return to the United States the person named in the indictment.

Once the presidential warrant is issued a messenger is designated to go to the foreign country to present the warrant and ask for permission to return the fugitive.

If the defendant chooses to fight extradition, proceedings are started in the foreign courts. A lawyer is employed by each side and a hearing is then held to determine if the crime charged in the presidential warrant is a crime under the laws of the country on which the demand is made for the defendant. A second point is whether the crime charged is covered by the extradition treaties of the countries involved.

A Question of Treaty.

The crime of embezzlement, some lawyers say, is not covered in particular in the treaties of this country with Great Britain. Embezzlement is a creature of statute in this country and was made an offense under the law after the treaty with Britain was signed, lawyers say. However, the larceny count in embezzlement indictments is expected to be sufficient to cover a request for extradition.

La Salle street rumors were that Samuel Insull Sr. would be able to produce physicians' certificates saying that his health is such that it would not permit of an ocean voyage. That fact, according to the reports, would be sufficient to allow him to remain in Paris.

Attorney Charles Aaron, Chicago attorney for Martin Insull, refused to discuss the possible return of his client. "We have nothing to say and don't expect to have anything to say," he said.

In financial circles, however, it was reported that Martin Insull expects the fact that he is a British subject to protect him from return. He is in British territory.

Samuel Insull Jr. will return voluntarily, according to these rumors. He takes the position, according to La Salle street reports, that he was "only a dutiful son."

Another Deal Disclosed.

Another Insull deal was disclosed by State's Attorney Swanson in a statement yesterday morning. By this transaction, the prosecutor said, "Samuel Insull and his immediate family" made a net profit of $374,400 through excess valuation placed upon the stock of Insull, Son & Co.

The transaction, according to the Swanson statement, involved the exchange of a portfolio of securities held by Insull for preferred and common stock of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., of which Insull was chairman.

On Jan. 4, 1929, the statement said, Insull gave Insull Utility Investments a portfolio of securities in exchange for preferred and common stock of that company valued at $9,765,908. The portfolio turned over to the company by Insull was placed on the company's books at the same figure, $9,765,908.

In the portfolio, however, the Swanson statement continued, "were included 1,000 shares of common stock of Insull, Son & Co. at a value of $1,250,000. All of this stock was owned by Samuel Insull and his immediate family, and the net worth of this corporation as of Jan. 1, 1929, three days before the transaction, amounted only to $875,599, which shows an excess valuation placed on the stock of $374,400."

Prosecutor Swanson also announced yesterday that he will hold a mass-meeting of victims of the Insull debacle in the Criminal court Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Young Insull, in England, Defends His Trip Abroad

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—"I am here on a holiday. That is all I can say." This was the reply of Samuel Insull Jr. on his arrival in Liverpool today in his first class cabin aboard the motorship Britannic when asked about his sudden European trip. To the query as to whether it might not be considered indiscreet for him to take a sudden vacation just as the inquiry into the Insull affairs in Chicago reached a stage at which he was expected to be called in to give evidence he replied:

"It is merely a coincidence that I am here on a holiday just as the investigation is being made into the affairs of some of the companies that my father was associated with. I am vice chairman of several utility companies and utility investment companies of Chicago. I have not had a holiday since 1929 and need a rest.

"Probably Will Return."

"People think I am ducking from Chicago to avoid the investigation. I can't help it. If you study what other people are thinking about you never do anything or go anywhere. Anyway I will probably be back in the United States in November."

Asked whether he would stay in London or go to Paris, Insull said that he would go direct to Paris tonight, catching the 4 o'clock train from London. "My father and mother are in Paris," he said. "My mother is sick and I naturally want to see them. I can't say where I will go after that or what I will do. My plans are very indefinite."

He posed for photographers on the deck of the Britannic, although at first he said he would be grateful if they would excuse him from photographs, which they did not.

During the journey to London the question was broached of the future residence of his father and mother.

"I can't say for certain, but probably they will make their home in Paris or somewhere in England," the son said.

"They will be near Reading, perhaps!" he was asked. The reference was to the country estate of the elder Insull near this English town.

Young Insull seemed taken aback at the suggestion. He refused to answer the question, but remarked that some of the most beautiful countryside in England is at Reading and its vicinity.

He definitely refused to discuss the affairs of the companies formerly controlled by his father.

Fears Chicago Interpretations.

"I promised before leaving Chicago not to make any statements and I do not intend to break my word," he said. "The chief of my company already has given out a statement which I have not yet seen, but I believe it explains why I am in Europe.

"The situation is so delicate concerning father's affairs—you know what I mean—that anything I might say could be given an entirely wrong meaning in Chicago."

Insull got a real laugh when informed of reports from Paris in the London press that his father was jumping from one cheap hotel to another. He made no comment on later reports which said the elder Insull was really living in a good hotel, well fed, and clothed.

On his arrival in London young Insull was mobbed by photographers, but refused to have his photograph taken. He played tag with the cameramen around a taxicab while his luggage was being piled on, then jumped in and tore off to catch the Paris boat train, followed by a couple of taxicabs loaded with photographers and reporters.

Flyer Wrecks Plane, Saves Workmen from Being Hit

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Lieut. Harry W. Fanning of Mitchel field, Long Island, New York, while taking off at Bolling field risked his life and demolished his plane today in a successful effort to avoid hitting a group of workmen who were grading the field. Both he and the enlisted man who accompanied him as observer climbed out of the wreckage unhurt. To avoid the workmen, Fanning dug a wing tip into the field.

COUNTY'S TOTAL REGISTRATION IS PUT AT 899,243

Approximately 137,000 persons registered Saturday in Cook county outside of Chicago, according to an estimate yesterday by Chief Clerk Dan A. Carey of the county clerk's election department. Adding this figure to the 762,243 who registered in Chicago, a total of 899,243 in Cook county registered. Another registration day a week from today is expected to swell this total heavily.

Carey's estimate was based upon returns from 239 country town precincts. The complete returns will not be in for a day or two. There are 265 precincts in the country towns which are under the jurisdiction of the county clerk, and his estimate of the registration in these precincts was added to the registration in the six towns outside of Chicago which are under the jurisdiction of the election commissioners.

In October of 1928 the unofficial registration in the country towns was 267,000. In October of 1930, when the registration in the country towns was made compulsory by law for the first time, the registration was only 152,000, because many residents were ignorant of the new law.

ASK BANKRUPTCY FOR REAL ESTATE TRUST OF INSULL

Petition Lists Liabilities of $11,000,000.

A bankruptcy petition was filed in federal court yesterday against the Consolidated Property Trust, Inc., holding company for the real estate properties of Samuel Insull and some of his associates. The petition sets forth that the properties involved, formerly having an appraised value of $14,000,000, are worth no more than $3,500,000 in the present market.

Liabilities to the sum of approximately $11,000,000 are listed. Principal among these is the amount of approximately $5,000,000 owing to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. In addition the trust is incumbered by approximately $5,000,000 in mortgages and underlying liens.

Charge Interest Overdue.

The petition avers that the trust has insufficient cash to meet taxes of $70,000 and $30,000 in interest overdue on mortgages. The petition was brought by Harold Weinacker and William Knutson, as nominees for the banks mentioned. It was filed by Attorney Egbert Robertson.

Attorney Robertson said he and other lawyers interested in the bankruptcy proceedings will go before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley at Danville today to ask appointment of a receiver in bankruptcy. If the petition is granted, a trustee in bankruptcy will be appointed to sell the properties at auction and thus enable the banks either to gain title or obtain the cash of any individual or syndicate willing to outbid them.

History of the Trust.

Samuel Insull organized the property trust early in 1931 to protect properties owned jointly by himself and some of his associates against foreclosure. As trustees of the corporation he named Addison Gardner and David Taber, attorneys for the Insull interests; John F. O'Keefe, his private secretary, and Otto Gressens, as auditor in the Insull utilities organization.

Among the principal properties united in the trust were the Wilson avenue elevated terminal building, the Davis street elevated terminal in Evanston, the Westchester subdivision property developed jointly by Mr. Insull and George F. Nixon, the interurban terminals at Aurora and West Aurora, the Madison-Franklin building just beyond Chicago's loop, and the property between 159 and 179 North Michigan avenue, through which Mr. Insull expected to capitalize on air rights above the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

The Mellody Club Venture.

Also in the trust is the Mellody Farms Country club, an ill-starred venture launched by Samuel Insull in 1928, which has a history of its own.

In starting the country club venture Mr. Insull believed he was turning to good account the reverses of another financier, J. Ogden Armour. He organized a syndicate of 18 wealthy Chicagoans to acquire the 640 acres of lushly farm, adjacent to Lake Forest, which Mr. Armour had developed as the estate of the Armour family.

The magnificent $1,000,000 house was transformed into a club. About $100,000 was put into what the promoters termed a "locker" room. As Mr. Insull conceived it, the roster of the club was to be drawn from a list of selected millionaires to provide a place for recreation and for the quiet discussion of the gigantic financial deals which were then the vogue.

Mr. Insull's plan never got beyond the preliminary stage. The market crash of 1929 hit the financial world and the syndicate of 18 found a white elephant on its hands. Title in the Mellody Farms Country club was transferred to Consolidated Property Trust in 1931.

Club's Board of Governors.

The board of governors of the club comprised the following: Alexander F. Banks, Britton I. Budd, R. Floyd Clinch, H. A. Eckhart, Charles F. Glore, John H. Gulick, Martin J. Insull, Samuel Insull, D. R. McLennan, Joseph E. Otis, Stuyvesant Peabody, Arthur Reynolds, George M. Reynolds, B. E. Sunny, and George Woodruff.

For protection of this and other properties in the trust, each individual having an interest in the consolidated properties pledged an allotted sum of cash. Samuel Insull's pledge was $1,500,000, of which he has paid only $700,000. The others, it was said, have paid in full for the most part.

ROB 2 FINANCE COMPANIES IN SAME BUILDING

Three gunmen yesterday took $1,179 in robberies of two finance companies on different floors of the building at 2800 Milwaukee avenue. Going to the fifth floor, the bandits entered the Household Finance company, locked four employés and 10 customers in a closet, and walked out with $400.

On the third floor they took $779 from Commercial Finance company. Frank Pederson, the manager, and three employés yielded $279 and $500 was taken from the cash drawer.

Prentice Brannon, manager of the Household company, Miss Elsie Hanley, cashier, and two other employés and the customers were released from the closet 10 minutes after the robbery by other customers.

INSULL SAYS HE'D LIKE TO "TALK," BUT "CAN'T" DO IT

Reveals Wife Was Near Death in Paris.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Samuel Insull was interviewed again today at his hotel and repeated his remark: "I have no statement to make."

When questioned regarding the real reason for his silence, Insull burst out with this seemingly spontaneous utterance:

"I can assure you that it is not just stubbornness on my part. I certainly wish there was something I could say. My natural instinct is to shoot the works."

"Why don't you?" I asked.

A shrug and a long pause while he ground on his cigar, then:

Reveals Wife's Illness.

In the course of our talk today I got a notion of the iron nerve of the man from Insull's revelation that his wife's illness for several weeks was much more serious than even the most alarming reports and that the first disclosures of the state's attorney in Chicago affecting Insull's personal good name coincided with the crisis of Mrs. Insull's disease. On the precise morning that this correspondent was asking Insull if he had covered his brother's shady deals, doctors almost despaired of Mrs. Insull's life.

Oddly, despite Insull's persistent refusal to talk, a newspaperman does not have to disguise himself as an elevator boy to get an interview with him. All this writer did was walk into the quiet little hotel tucked away on a shabby side street between two elegant avenues and send up a card. Insull came down almost immediately.

He was dressed in a conservative gray suit, rimless glasses were clamped on his nose, and he had on a black derby hat. His face was the same shrewd, trenchant, and imperturbable, yet mobile, mask that it always had been.

"Mr. Insull, I want to know what you have replied to State's Attorney Swanson's cable, if anything," I said as he offered his hand.

"I have no statement to make," he replied without humor or irritation, studying me over the top of his glasses.

Denies He Gave Interview.

"The British papers are making statements for you. They quote you as saying you intend to stay here indefinitely," I countered.

"I can't help what the papers make up about me," Insull came back. "I have never told any newspaperman that I intended to stay here indefinitely or made any other statement. When there is a statement to make, I will make it."

It was not the first time I had "interviewed" Insull, but I had a certain ritual of questions to get off my chest and Insull gave the ritual "no statement" to each.

That finished, we sat down and talked.

"Mrs. Insull is far from a well woman," he began, hesitantly, rolling a short cigar stub in his mouth. "The truth of the matter is that she had a rather close call. She was in her room for six weeks with bronchial-pneumonia and had a day and night nurse for two weeks. One day her temperature got up to 105. We almost gave up hope. Now she is slowly getting back her strength and is able to go out a little. I have been taking her out for air because it is the only way for her to recover her strength. So you see I have had something else besides business worries on my mind."

Doesn't Know Son's Plans.

Asked if the latest revelations of the Insull crash had been responsible for his wife's collapse, Insull evaded being questioned, but said,

"You can imagine that she has been through a great deal in the last year."

The visit of his son, who was due in Paris at 11 o'clock tonight—this interview took place in the afternoon—Insull insisted is solely motivated by his mother's health. Asked if young Insull is going to return to America for questioning, he replied,

"I really don't know. I am not just saying that. I honestly don't know what his plans are."

Father Sues Chicago Girl's Husband

Quarrel Over Hotel

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Mary Lou Eitel of Chicago, who recently married Karl Adlon, son of Louis Adlon, Berlin hotel owner, is facing the first big storm of her matrimonial life. Young Adlon, who acted as junior manager for his father's Hotel Continental, was summarily dismissed shortly after he was married. He is now being sued by his father who asks the courts to compel his son and daughter-in-law to vacate the suite they occupy at the hotel.

The court originally ruled that the hotel owner should not eject the newlyweds. The case comes up before the labor court again tomorrow. Adlon ordered his servants to refuse to work for Mary Lou Eitel and his son. The couple are doing their own cleaning and their own cooking. The telephone operator refuses to connect callers with their suite.

At the time of their marriage Berlin newspapers commented that Mrs. Adlon Sr., who is an American, refused to attend the wedding. She is Adlon's second wife and the stepmother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Adlon Jr. tonight said: "We do not want to quarrel with our elders but they have been mean to us and I will help my husband fight for our rights."

Libertyville Drops Its Suit Over Missing Santa Claus

A $10,000 suit for breach of contract, filed last December by the Libertyville-Mundelein Chamber of Commerce against N. H. Dimond, of Duluth, for his failure to produce a Santa Claus and reindeer at Libertyville last Christmas was dropped yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan. Santa's coming had been widely advertised but a few days before Christmas Dimond announced the engagement could not be filled. Damages were asked because of the expenses incurred.

Girl, 15, Missing Since Friday, Returns Home

Virginia Seward, 15 year old high school girl for whom a search had been conducted since her departure on Friday from her home at 26 Pine avenue, La Grange Park, returned last night. According to her father, Leslie C. Seward, an employé of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, she was nervous and the family physician ordered that no effort to question her be made until she had rested.

DE VALERA FIRES KING'S ENVOY TO IRISH FREE STATE

President May Take the Job Himself.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—"In accordance with advice tendered to his majesty by the president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, the king has approved of Mr. James McNeill relinquishing the office of governor general of the Irish Free State."

This announcement, formally issued this afternoon from the offices of the Irish high commissoner in London and from Buckingham palace, disclosed the culmination of an extraordinary situation in Irish politics.

Briefly, it means that Eamon de Valera, as president of the Irish executive council, has fired McNeill and called on the king to implement his action. McNeill, who is an Ulsterman, came to London today, lunched with the king, and was informed of the situation, of which he was already fully cognizant.

De Valera May Take Post.

Some time before the election which put De Valera in power the Irish leader declared that one of his first acts would be to abolish the governor generalship and amalgamate that office with that of president of the council. A few weeks after taking office De Valera said he had changed his mind since he was convinced that some formal head of the state was needed for ceremonial functions and to crystallize the idea of the state in the minds of the people. At any rate, to abolish the office would have required an amendment to the constitution, and it is doubtful if he could get a majority for that.

It was reported from Dublin today that De Valera intends to take the office of governor general himself, but it is not clear whether he intends to hold two offices or surrender that of president of the council. The Irish cabinet has the sole right to nominate the governor general and the king has no power to veto or control the nomination.

De Valera Going to London.

De Valera is now in Geneva, where he presided at sessions of the league of nations council. He is expected in London tomorrow, when he will meet J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, to discuss the Anglo-Irish tariff war over the nonpayment of land annuities to Britain.

It is learned that McNeill did not resign but was forced out. The trouble dates from the time the De Valera government took office and started with a series of studied insults to the king's representatives.

Two Irish cabinet ministers left a diplomatic reception at the French legation when the governor general arrived, he was ignored in all state functions during the Eucharistic congress and in numerous other ways efforts were made to humiliate him.

McNeill Defies De Valera.

McNeill declared he would not resign and invited De Valera to fire him.

McNeill will return to Dublin tomorrow and will continue for some days, at least, in the office at the vice regal lodge.

BOARD EXPLAINS REFUSAL TO VOTE INSULL QUIZ CASH

Charges Swanson Has Exceeded Budget.

The county commissioners, meeting as a finance committee, yesterday indignantly denied that they intentionally hampered investigation of the Insull utility empire collapse by State's Attorney Swanson through their refusal to vote him funds for the work. They expressed approval of the inquiry, but declared that it would be impossible to grant the money now.

At the end of the meeting the state's attorney's request for $50,000 for investigation of the Insull collapse and also of bank failures was tabled for the second time without action.

Swanson's Budget Exceeded.

The petition had been presented to the board a week ago when State's Attorney Swanson appeared personally to argue his case. The commissioners refused to consider it and the state's attorney, Republican candidate for reelection, later charged that the predominately Democratic board wanted to hamper his efforts.

During the discussion of the state's attorney's charges, however, the board members indicated that they would not ignore bills accumulated by the state's attorney's office during the course of such an investigation.

Commissioner Marie Plumb asserted that it would be folly to make a new appropriation, since the state's attorney has already exceeded his budget for the fiscal year 1932, which does not end until next Nov. 30.

"We can't ignore any debts which that office accumulates," Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor told her. "We will have to provide for them in the 1933 budget. That's what we will have to do if he carries on the work without funds."

Board Tells Its Side.

The discussion which followed is reproduced here:

COMMISSIONER PLUMB—Our efficiency expert, Thor Madsen, says his records show that the state's attorney already has exceeded his appropriations by $39,000. Now if that is true it is proof that we have not hampered him. We might have demanded that his overexpenditures cease, but we have not.

COMMISSIONER DAN RYAN—Well the same conditions exist in other offices. It's my contention that in the 1932 budget we cut pretty close to the bone.

COMMISSIONER PETER M KELLY—Ha. Next year we will cut twice as close.

COMMISSIONER AMELIA SEARS—Yes, indeed. These county officials haven't seen anything yet. Anyway a new appropriation would be a violation of our budget laws and I wouldn't vote for it if we had $3,000,000 in idle funds.

COMMISSIONER KELLY—Well, we wanted to make it clear that the board is for any investigation which will protect investors, and that includes even those on preferred lists of Mr. Insull's companies.

Rob Medical College of $3,000 Tuition Fees

Four bandits yesterday held up the Chicago Medical college, 710 South Lincoln street, and took approximately $3,000 in tuition fees which had just been collected from students. One member of the gang remained in an automobile outside while three entered with drawn revolvers. One placed a gun at the head of Miss Elizabeth Keating, switchboard operator, another covered several students and faculty members, and the fourth took the money from Jay J. Deal, actuary of the college.

SIX PRISONERS FACE DEATH IN LOOP LIGHT WELL

Two Are City Bred and Should Know Better.

Six small brown birds are trapped in the deep well formed by the four inside walls of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company building at 231 South La Salle street.

Two are city sparrows, which ought to know better than to fly down into a light shaft, but the other four are migratory thrushes from the woods, which have some excuse for their predicament, in the opinion of Nicholas Becker, superintendent of the building.

Baffled by High Walls.

"This happens every fall," Becker said. "The light shaft must form some sort of a vacuum that draws the birds down. Once they are in they don't seem to know how to get out. At first these birds tried to fly out but they only butted their heads against the windows. They couldn't learn to fly in circles, or to pause on windowsills to rest on the way up.

"They sit there all day in a huddle, looking at the sky seventeen stories up. We tried to catch them, but they fly away. Some of the tenants bring bread to feed them, but without shelter they will be unable to endure the winter with its cold and snow and sleet. The Humane society called up last week and told us to rescue the birds. We told them to come themselves and try to trap them. It can't be done.

Prisoners Become Resigned.

"They must be worn out by their efforts to escape, because they don't try any more. They just perch on the wire screen above the skylight and doze all day. Their only chance to escape is to fly into one of the office windows, through the building and out another window opening on the street.

"We have had 'chippies' down here before that have escaped in that way and maybe the two city birds will do that, but I don't think the wood thrushes will. Maybe they'll follow the sparrows. But there isn't much we can do to help them unless they help themselves."

JUROR'S ACTIONS BRING MISTRIAL FOR DAVIS CASE

Accuses Another; Judge Calls Inquiry.

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—A mistrial was ordered by Federal Judge Coleman today in the lottery trial of United States Senator James J. Davis.

According to Charles J. Margiotti of defense counsel, juror No. 7, Henry J. Moore, a photo-engraver, had called upon him Friday night. Moore, the attorney said, had been drinking and had issued a warning that one of the alternate jurors, Abe H. Weintraub, a broker, was "poisoning the rest of the jury" against the defense.

The trial had run two weeks. Defense counsel, expressing regret at its unsatisfactory outcome, said they would ask adjournment of the new trial until after Nov. 8, as Senator Davis is a candidate for reëlection.

Accused Juror Cleared.

All the other jurors, called in an inquiry begun immediately after the order of mistrial, denied Weintraub had said anything to them. Weintraub was cleared and Moore held in contempt of court.

Moore was released on his own recognizance until tomorrow morning, when he is to appear before Judge Coleman in chambers.

Judge Coleman made this announcement when court reconvened this morning:

"A matter brought to my attention by counsel for the defense requires a mistrial in this case. I wish to commend Counselor Margiotti particularly for his scrupulous adherence to professional honor. This in no way reflects upon the defendant, who, I understand, joins with counsel in this matter.

"The reflection is on jurors No. 7 and No. 13. I intend to conduct an investigation to decide on what disciplinary action may be taken for contempt of court. I have no supposition now as to the guilt or innocence of the jurors, but it is unfortunate that the occurrence makes a mistrial essential."

Attorney Tells Story.

All jurors except Moore and Weintraub were taken into an anteroom and Mr. Margiotti told his story.

He said he had been called at the Pennsylvania hotel Friday night by a man who said he was a "brother knight"—that is, a member of the same lodge.

Surprised to See Juror.

When the man arrived, Mr. Margiotti said, he was surprised to see that he was juror No. 7.

"He said he had a matter to tell me about," Mr. Margiotti said. "I cautioned him not to talk about the merits of the case and he said he would not. He said he wanted to tell me something about a juror who was putting poison in the minds of the jury against the defense by telling the other jurors at every opportunity that defense witnesses were lying."

Mr. Margiotti consulted with his associates and subsequently told the story to Judge Coleman at the latter's home in Larchmont.

Meets Brother-in-Law.

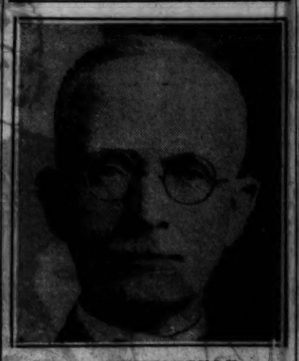
According to Mr. Margiotti and his brother-in-law, a Dr. Gatti of Pittsburgh, Moore found out where he was stopping from an accidental meeting with Dr. Gatti in the subway.

Dr. Gatti, it was testified, had come to New York for the world series and had been addressed by Moore in the subway on the strength of his lodge emblem. As the conversation progressed, it was said, Moore learned that Dr. Gatti came from Pittsburgh and was brother-in-law of the counsel for Senator Davis.

Dr. Gatti testified that the conversation was brief, as he had boarded the train at Chambers street and left at 33d.

Moore, examined after all the other jurors, including Weintraub, had been heard, offered three instances to support his contention that Weintraub had been seeking to influence the other jurors. No other juror, however, corroborated him.

FALLS TO DEATH



F. R. HUNTINGTON.

F. R. Huntington, 70 years old, 5342 Dorchester avenue, was killed yesterday in a plunge from a 17th story window in the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive, where he had rented a room a few minutes before. He was a former department manager for Armour & Co., having retired on a pension in 1918. He suffered an attack of infantile paralysis ten years ago, police were told.

SUE TO TRANSFER MRS. FARWELL'S WILL CASE HERE

The First Union Trust and Savings bank, as co-executor of the estate of Mrs. Ava W. Farwell, who died on Dec. 21, 1931, at Beverly Hills, Cal., filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday to reverse a ruling of the Probate court which allows her will to be probated in California rather than in Cook county. The suit is the outgrowth of a fight made by John Arthur Farwell, 68 year old sportsman and scion of the Chicago merchant family, to have his mother's will probated in California.

At a court hearing last July, when Farwell's estranged wife, Mrs. Loretta B. Farwell of the Knickerbocker hotel, 163 East Walton place, sought temporary alimony pending hearing of her divorce suit, it was disclosed that he is the chief beneficiary under his mother's will.

From a trust fund he will receive $15,000 annually until he is 60 years old, when the entire trust income of $65,000 a year will be given him. If he has no children at his death the principal will be divided among four Chicago charities.

REDUCES BOND OF McGOORTY BOMB SUSPECT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles Fields, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Joseph Derre, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Rocco Montano, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 99 years in the penitentiary; Tony Adams, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry A. Lewis.

Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday reduced the bond of William McDaniels, a suspect in the bombing of Judge John P. McGoorty's home, from $50,000 to $30,000. Prosecutor Harry Ditchburne said that he needed more time for investigation and was granted a continuance to Nov. 4.

Meanwhile William McSwain, chief of the Chicago branch of the United States bureau of investigation, obtained a federal warrant charging McDaniels with interstate transportation of explosives. He said the warrant would be used if prosecution in the state courts fails. The state charges McDaniels with bringing explosives into Illinois without a permit and conspiracy to possess and store explosives.

McDaniels, a former miner, was arrested as the owner of 18 sticks of dynamite found in a south side apartment after the bombing on Sept. 30. He was identified by a neighbor of Judge McGoorty as one of the men who rode past the McGoorty home in an automobile on two nights before the explosion.

Bond of $10,000 each was set for three other men in whose possession the dynamite was found. They are George [Red] Gustafson, 34 years old, 1116 West 59th street, and Oscar and Normall Hall, brothers, of 7043 West 59th street. They are charged with conspiracy to possess and store explosives.

Leo Wilbur Koeppen, 16 years old, 4305 Oakenwald avenue, was blinded, and Mrs. Ada Miller Moyer, 16 year old mother, was scarred by the bomb, which exploded as they passed the McGoorty home.

The Woolens in Our Suits Are Different, Too

To begin with, a great many of them are woolens—as distinguished from the hard-finished worsteds that have become increasingly tiresome over the last three years.

We appreciate the wear resisting and shape-retaining qualities of good worsteds—and in our selection of worsteds we yield to no one.

But in addition—and you will find this is rare these days—we have a refreshing array of Shetlands, Cheviots, Tweeds, and Saxonies. The kind of goods that give weavers a chance to blend colorings under a napped surface; that give tailors a chance to put drape and expression into clothes; and the kind of clothes you instinctively associate with prices away above those we are now asking.

AS YOU DESIRE ME to animate your skin and emphasize its youth

this much OLIVE OIL goes into every cake of Palmolive

STROKE your face gently. Is it soft, smooth, firm yet yielding? If not—how can it win the admiration you seek?

Skin can be young—made young, or kept young—indefinitely! It is never too early, never too late, to follow expert advice. And leading beauty experts have one simple rule. More than 20,000 of them urge you to use olive oil.

Olive oil gives youth!

Olive oil is definitely protective, soothing, beautifying. How to use it? In soap, say experts. They tell you, use it in Palmolive—the one great soap into which olive oil enters, generously, abundantly, as the chief beauty ingredient.

Use it on the whole body. Rub its youth-giving lather right into the skin. Rinse with plenty of cold water.

See the result!

See how Palmolive actually soothes, smooths and softens skin. Your reward will be the skin of youth—that charm, that freshness—that something which makes you, keeps you desirable.

AN ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH

Palmolive contains only vegetable oils—no artificial coloring. Photo shows actual amount of olive oil that goes into each 10c cake.

CLEARS AWAY STUBBORN ACNE

"For nearly two years I was troubled with a very stubborn form of acne which marked my face with a scaly rash. It was a very unusual case and various lotions and ointments were prescribed but with only temporary relief. After a year and a half of experimenting with these treatments, I tried Resinol Ointment. In two weeks the blotches on my face were hardly noticeable. After three months' use of Resinol Ointment and Soap, the disorder was completely cleared away and my complexion is now something to be proud of. You can count me a faithful user of Resinol Ointment, as I find it a gentle, soothing and very effective remedy for skin troubles." (Signed)—Fred Haase, 29 Eldert St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

FORM NEW BODY FOR COOK COUNTY WELFARE WORK

Emergency Fund Headed by R. D. Stuart.

A new organization was created yesterday to carry on welfare work in Cook county, other than unemployment relief. The organization was named the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., and was formed by the leaders of last year's organization, the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook County, Inc. R. Douglas Stuart, first vice president of the Quaker Oats company, was elected president of the new organization.

Two other major relief activities during the day were performed, one by the Cook county unemployment relief agencies of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and the other by the state and county committees for the passage of the $20,000,000 state relief bond issue. The county unemployment relief agencies put into effect the 50 per cent reduction in perishable food orders ordered by the state commission for October, in the first food orders that were given out.

Sargent Organizing Campaign.

The state and county bond issue committees were being organized to conduct the campaign for the passage of the bond issue in a referendum at the coming election on Nov. 8. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, returned to the city and began organizing the Cook county campaign, which he will head.

Edward S. Martin, secretary of the committee on public affairs of the Union League club, yesterday told a meeting of ministers of the Evangelical Synod of North America that people in Cook county are under a moral obligation to the rest of the state to vote for the $20,000,000 emergency relief bond issue. The Illinois League of Women Voters laid plans for a corps of speakers to campaign for the bond issue throughout the state.

Formation of the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., was described by relief officials as a step toward self-support on the part of Cook county. The organization plans a drive for a fund of $7,500,000 this fall, all of which is to be spent for relief other than unemployment relief. The fund will care for a relief load that has been imposed upon first the state, then the federal government, since last Feb. 6, when county funds, both public and private, were no longer able to support established welfare work, the officials said.

Funds to 130 Organizations.

The fund will be dispensed through 130 welfare organizations, many of which also will receive allocations from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to pay for the unemployment relief work they are doing. The list of organizations includes fifteen children's aid groups, thirty-one health agencies, thirty-six neighborhood work agencies, ten protective agencies, five major and five minor agencies. The major agencies are the Red Cross, Catholic charities, Jewish social service bureau, Salvation Army, and United Charities. The minor agencies are the Urban league, Children's Scholarship league, Jewish free employment bureau, women's shelter and Good Will Industries.

Robert A. Gardner will head the committee conducting the $7,500,000 drive. Other officers of the new organization are Clifford W. Barnes, A. B. Dick Jr., and Victor A. Olander, vice presidents; Frank D. Loomis, secretary, and James B. Forgan Jr., treasurer. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., who headed last year's drive, withdrew to devote his time to the Illinois emergency relief commission, of which he is chairman.

MRS. MORRISSON RETURNS TO AID HOOVER DRIVE

Mrs. James W. Morrisson of Groton, Conn., formerly of Chicago, has returned to aid in the mid-west campaign for President Hoover. The women's division of the Republican national headquarters announced yesterday that Mrs. Morrisson will speak over a national radio network on Thursday at 2 p. m., urging women voters to reelect the President.

Mrs. Morrisson has been a Republican leader for many years. She was an organizer of the "rain parade" staged by the suffragists in 1912. She helped to organize the National League of Women Voters, and actively supported President Hoover in 1928.

"As I see it," Mrs. Morrisson said, "the question to be answered on Nov. 8 is: Has the terrific hammering of the past three years left us so battered, heartsick and angry that we don't care what happens so long as we get a change? Or can we forget our very natural feelings long enough to stop and think whether a change will help or hurt?"

League Admits Iraq; Britain Surrenders Her Mandate

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—Geneva has turned into at least a four ring circus, disarmament proceedings, preparations for the world economic conference, and meetings of the league of nation council and assembly, which today admitted the Garden of Eden—Iraq—to membership.

The British are making a bid for an opposition show. They put out an idea as coming straight from Prime Minister MacDonald that the crisis of the disarmament conference could best be met by holding a five power conference in London. Thus, conversations begun some weeks ago by Secretary of State Stimson at his Lakeview manor here would be transferred to London and Chequers.

Iraq Comes of Age.

In what was cracked up to be the center ring, the kingdom of Iraq, first of the mandatory powers to come of age, took a seat as a sovereign member of the league after a unanimous vote. Iraq, which holds vast oil fields, has been under a British mandate since after the war.

"After long centuries of foreign dominations," said Nicholas Politis, Greek president of the assembly, "Iraq has finally recovered her liberty and can, if she desires, return to traditions and civilizations that have passed which are bound up with the names of Nineveh and Babylon. Henceforth Iraq will be bound only by that obedience which is common to us all, which is obedience to international law. Once more the world has been given striking proof of Great Britain's liberality."

The speakers all mentioned the fact that King Feisal has been released from his mandatory obligations and merely assumed quite thorough treaty obligations.

Syria Hopes to Follow.

Iraq is the first country in the Arabian world to obtain a place in the sun via Geneva and the hint that Syria, which is still under a French mandate, would expect to follow is heard here.

"The example given by the greatest empire deserves to be studied and followed," said Nuri Pasha, King Feisal's prime minister.

The French were noncommittal.

Sir John Simon in congratulating Iraq and his own government recalled that the new league member encloses within its boundaries the place which was once the Garden of Eden.

Iraq also recalls scenes from the "Arabian Nights." "Sinbad the Sailor" lived at Basra, and the "Thief of Bagdad" is recalled.

Iraq was formed after the world war out of the former Turkish provinces of Mosul, Bagdad, and Basra. Its area is more than 175,000 square miles and its population, by the census of 1920, was 2,849,282.

SPECIAL SESSION FOR RELIEF FACES 5 WEEKS' RECESS

Outlook Seen Gloomy for Quick Action.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When the fourth special session of the Illinois general assembly reconvenes at Springfield this morning it will be with a general recognition that probably the most important business on the program for the next two or three days will be taking a recess of five weeks that will carry over until after the election of Nov. 8.

The week-end brought no change in the situation left by the assembly when it recessed last Thursday. There were no conferences of importance designed to advance measures for the relief of the unemployed. Chicago members, before they left for the capital last night, said the outlook for action on this main purpose of the extraordinary session was as gloomy as ever.

Fear for Sufficient Votes.

As was true last week, perhaps the chief worry again is whether the attendance will be sufficient to produce the two-thirds majorities in the two houses needed for emergency legislation. The doubt on this score now is greater even than it was a week ago.

But an even more tangible fear among those members who insist Illinois must keep faith with the Reconstruction Finance corporation and pass some substantial relief measures is that even if the attendance is sufficient the necessary votes cannot be lined up for bills of this character which are ready for final action.

The one definite step proposed in the way of relief—the bill for an optional county sales tax—went all wrong last week and failed by a vote of 29 to 5 to pas the senate. A moment later the record of this roll call was expunged and the bill is back again on third reading, giving it another chance this week. It is agreed that the chances is slight. Even if it should pass the senate with the required 34 votes, it still would have to go to the house and there is little belief that it could be acted upon before the long recess is taken tomorrow or Thursday.

Amendment Alters Situation.

The crisis in the senate last week was the result of downstate action amending the county sales tax bill to limit it to Cook county alone. Cook county members saw themselves, in this altered situation, as forced to stand alone in voting to open the way for new taxes on their constituents. Eight of them "bucked," four voting against the bill and four not voting or absent from the chamber.

It is expected that Cook county members will endeavor to restore the state-wide character of the bill by a reconsideration of the Lantz amendment to confine the operation of the bill to a single county. But the indications last week were that downstate would not consent to this reversal of its decision.

128 Pieces of Property Are Forfeited for Taxes

Morris, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Residence and business property in Morris, 128 pieces, were forfeited to the state for nonpayment of taxes and no purchasers at the tax sales. Besides the regular tax, the extra burden of sewer and paving assessments was more than the owners could pay or prospective tax purchasers dared to risk. Only one piece was purchased out of 139 offered.

MEXICAN HOUSE VOTES TO DEPORT ENVOY OF POPE

Urges His Expulsion as "Pernicious Foreigner."

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies tonight approved a resolution to send a commission to President Abelardo Rodrigues with a request that Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Flores, papal delegate, be expelled from Mexico as a "pernicious foreigner."

The archbishop is a native citizen of Mexico, but deputies alleged, he had lost his citizenship by serving a foreign government, and the reference was to the Vatican.

The resolution was adopted after an animated discussion of last week's papal encyclical reiterating the intention of the church to accept under protest laws dealing with the Catholic church.

Approved by Acclamation.

The resolution was approved by acclamation. It follows:

"The undersigned deputies of the federal congress have seen with displeasure the bad faith shown in the very rude, unjustified attack that the government of the papal state has directed against us in the papal encyclical which is under discussion here.

"Apparent to all true revolutionaries of vision, although disguised, is the bad design of the Roman clergy that pretends vainly to draw upon our government the fury of the foreign public, which is wrongly informed by the news the same Vatican furnishes.

"This attitude of a foreign entity constitutes a frank hostility and, taking into account that there resides in this city against all our legal dispositions a representative of the pope, who is called the apostolic delegate, who has to answer for his conduct above referred to, and inasmuch as it can be proved that he has been violating the religious laws of this country, we request the appointment of a commission to go to see the president and ask him in the name of the people we represent to order the expulsion of the said papal delegate as a pernicious foreigner."

Replies to President's Threat.

The Archbishop Ruiz y Flores previously today had issued a statement replying to one by President Rodrigues yesterday. The president threatened to convert churches into schools and shops if the "insolent and defiant attitude of the recent encyclical" should continue.

The archbishop said the encyclical directed the clergy and the people not to rise up in arms, and denied that the document incited the Mexican clergy to disobedience of law. He added that the pope had every right to instruct Catholics in their duties despite that the laws of Mexico did not recognize his juridical personality.

NEW YORK G. O. P. FAVORS DONOVAN FOR GOVERNOR

F. Trubee Davison to Be Running Mate.

G. O. P. Roosevelt

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late Theodore Roosevelt and aunt of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was named a presidential elector-at-large for New York state at the Republican state convention here tonight.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Following a conference of Republican leaders which came to a close early today, it was announced that the Republican state convention at its final session today would make the following nominations:

Governor—William J. Donovan of Erie.

Lieutenant governor—F. Trubee Davison of Nassau.

State controller—Charles S. Owen of Monroe.

Attorney general—Moses G. Hubbard of Oneida.

Platform Is Completed.

After the slate had been announced the committee on resolution, which had been at work all through the afternoon and evening, completed the platform, the adoption of which will be the first order of business this forenoon.

The prohibition plank, on which interest was focused will follow closely the elaboration by President Hoover in his acceptance speech for the plank in the national platform.

The platform will start out with 100 per cent approval of President Hoover and his administration, concentrating on his efforts for economic recovery and unemployment relief. There will be no mention of the President's stand against immediate payment of the bonus.

"Hold on to Hoover" was the campaign slogan projected by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. in his keynote speech at the opening session of the convention yesterday morning.

Campaigns for Hoover.

Col. Donovan helped the Hoover campaign of 1928 and for a time was mentioned for attorney general of the United States. Mr. Davison is assistant secretary of war, dealing with aviation.

The convention held two sessions yesterday, the opening session at which the keynote speech by Representative Hamilton Fish was the outstanding feature and the evening session at which W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of the Republican state committee, spoke. Both attacked the policies announced by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on his western trip.

Assails Banking Department.

Macy attacked what he called the Democrats' efforts to capitalize "the misery of millions" in their appeal for votes. Fish declared Gov. Roosevelt had offered "panaceas ad nauseam." Macy assailed the state banking department as to honesty and vigilance in the case of the City Trust company and the Bank of the United States. He said one superintendent of banking had been sent to jail and another was tried, the governor and lieutenant governor appearing as character witnesses for him.

Mr. Macy praised the legislature for cutting down by $21,000,000 the "irreducible minimum" of the executive budget submitted by Gov. Roosevelt this year.

Mr. Fish invited disgruntled Smith Democrats to join the Republican party by terming Mr. Smith the "original forgotten man with Gov. Roosevelt."

Turn Against Hofstadter.

The Tammany bi-party nomination of Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter for the Supreme court, it is emphasized here, may well have been detrimental effect.

Republican leaders in his own home district—the silk stockinged Fifteenth—such as Representative Ruth B. Pratt, Assemblyman Abbott Low Moffat, Ald. Joseph Clark Baldwin and Keyes Winter, the leader, virtually have repudiated Hofstadter, and the movement is growing to have the G. O. P. organization in New York City indorse Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee for mayor on a fusion ticket.

Albrecht was a widower. His son was killed about eighteen months ago in an automobile accident. Relatives said the father had since been despondent and had threatened several times to commit suicide.

WALKER REACHES PARIS; SAILS FOR NEW YORK TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—James J. Walker arrived in Paris this morning on the second leg of his dash back to New York. He came here from Gibraltar, where he left the disabled liner Rex to catch the Europa tomorrow. The former mayor refused to talk politics.

Mr. Walker spent the afternoon with Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. and other friends, including Betty Compton, the actress.

He declined discussing his plans to run for mayor of New York City, declaring that his candidacy depends upon if the Court of Appeals rules that an election must be held next month. Friends, however, said he was virtually certain to run.

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, AL SMITH JOIN TO AID LEHMAN

Test with Tammany Hall Is Due Today.

Odds on Roosevelt

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—A bet of $3,000 to $1,000 that Gov. Roosevelt would be elected President was made today on the floor of the New York Stock exchange, according to Dow, Jones & Co. Previous odds were six to five in Gov. Roosevelt's favor.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and his estranged friend, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, are working in harmony tonight for the first time in years, and they seem together to have assured the nomination of Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for governor of New York on the Democratic ticket.

With the numerical strength of the Brooklyn delegation added to the loyal Roosevelt delegates, and with other state leaders who have indicated they would fall in line, it is considered that even without Curry support Lieut. Gov. Lehman will be nominated before many ballots are taken, and possibly on the first ballot.

The nomination will be voted upon at tomorrow's session of the Democratic state convention, which opened deliberations today.

The two national leaders of Democracy, once the Damon and Pythias of New York politics, have so engineered the cause of Mr. Lehman, their mutual friend, that the power of Tammany Hall may crumble somewhat as a result.

Curry May Lose Allies.

John E. Curry, Tammany leader who has stood opposed to the Lehman nomination, and who has favored the nomination of John Boyd Thacher, mayor of Albany, is said to be in a perilous political position tonight, with the possibility that he may be deserted by some who have been his strongest allies.

There is no evidence that Roosevelt and Smith have met personally during their Samaritan efforts for Mr. Lehman, but there is a possibility that the convention tomorrow may enjoy the significant event of hearing Al Smith nominate the lieutenant governor for promotion, and of hearing Franklin Roosevelt second the nomination.

Awaiting Developments.

Gov. Roosevelt had planned to go before the convention tonight to make an open declaration of war on John Curry, and to ask the delegates to repudiate the Curry type of leadership. But he was persuaded to await the developments overnight, which may bring Curry to a realization of his predicament and it was announced the governor would not speak.

But it is considered certain that if Curry still is holding out tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt will carry out his purpose to attack the Tammany boss.

An indication that Curry was retreating from his attitude was seen in a conversation between Gov. Roosevelt and Curry over the telephone tonight just after the evening session of the conventioin began.

Curry Calls Governor.

The Tammany leader called the governor, it was learned, and in a conciliatory attitude said he hoped to be able "to work it out." This was taken as a sign that by tomorrow morning Curry may abandon the Thacher cause and line up for Lehman.

The governor's associates have declared that John H. McCooey, veteran borough leader of Brooklyn, somewhat reluctantly has agreed to support Mr. Lehman and to follow the Roosevelt-Smith program. It was reported that McCooey's own delegates had conveyed to him their intention of supporting Lehman and it is doubted that McCooey would be able to keep his Brooklyn delegates in line if he did not join the new entente.

Al Smith, who has thus far in the campaign given but half hearted indorsements of the national Democratic ticket, will deliver a big speech tomorrow when he nominates Lehman. It was learned that Smith will discuss national issues, attack the Hoover policies and uphold the Democratic platform pledges.

The Roosevelt adherents have been hoping that Smith will go farther in this speech tomorrow, in the light of the new common cause he has found with Roosevelt, and take the opportunity afforded in his nominating speech for Lehman to deliver himself wholeheartedly to the presidential cause of Gov. Roosevelt. Efforts have been made, tactfully, to win Mr. Smith over to such a course.

Wants Harmony Ticket.

Gov. Roosevelt is anxious to procure the Lehman nomination not only because of his strong personal friendship for him, but also because he desires harmony in the state so as to improve his chances of winning the state's 47 electoral voes in his own presidential race.

Today's sessions of the convention were desultory affairs, marked by the keynote speech of United States Senator Robert F. Wagner and the adoption of a platform.

In his keynote address Senator Wagner devoted most of his time to an attack on the economic policies of President Hoover. The senator spoke of the President's "sterile hands," called him wrong, late, and futile" on vital economic issues, and blamed him for the increase of the army of unemployed. The Republican platform stand on prohibition was characterized by Senatotr Wagner as a "shifty see-saw," aimed at letting the drys climb on one end and the wets on the other.

Roosevelt Gets Applause.

Twice during the session the delegates were given the opportunity to show their sentiment for Roosevelt and Smith, and each time the presidential candidate got a better hand.

The platform was a dull compilation of routine party pledges, in general following the major pledges contained in the much more concise national platform.

During the early session the convention adopted a resolution offered by Tammany leaders praising the qualifications of their national candidates, Roosevelt and Garner, and pledging the party to "vigorous and unceasing effort" on behalf of the ticket.

GARFIELD RAPS GOV. ROOSEVELT ON REPEAL ISSUE

James R. Garfield, who was chairman of the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention in a speech before the Union League club last night assailed the utterances of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on the prohibition issue.

"Gov Roosevelt and his party, by mere repeal of the 18th amendment, would restore the intolerable conditions which existed before the amendment," he said. "We Republicans recognize existing evils and seek to find an effective way to lessen them. We do not propose to go backward nor to permit those who, either legally or illegally, sell liquor, to control our destiny. Society must control liquor—not liquor society.

"We would have the states not only assume their responsibility and fulfill this duty, but we will retain in the federal government ample power to safeguard communities which wish to be dry against the violation of their laws by the liquor interests.

"The governor seeks to wear the mantle of Theodore Roosevelt. It doesn't fit. I do not recall that the governor was a follower of that great leader when alive. Let no one be deceived by the governor's campaign praises of the great dead."

CRIME CUT 10% IN HIS REGIME, SWANSON SAYS

State's Attorney Swanson issued a statement from his political headquarters yesterday citing statistics that crime has been reduced 10 per cent since he became prosecutor and that his staff has raised the percentage of convictions.

"More has been accomplished in the first three years of my administration than by any predecessor in a full four year term," said the prosecutor's statement. "These facts are revealed in the records of the Criminal, Appellate, and Supreme courts.

"In the first three years of my administration 3,327 persons were sent to prison at Joliet and Pontiac reformatory. In the three years preceding my term of office the total number sent to these institutions was 2,433. The increase in effectiveness of crime enforcement, as shown in the conviction of major criminals, was 57 per cent."

The statement also called attention to the fact that during Swanson's regime, Timothy J. Crowe and others were convicted in the sanitary district graft case.

ROBBERS BIND MAIDS IN HOME AND TAKE $5,650

Pretending to be prospective buyers of a bedroom suite which had been advertised for sale, two gunmen yesterday afternoon entered the home of Arthur J. Lindheimer, 6329 Paxton avenue, and after terrorizing two maids escaped with $650 and jewelry valued at $5,000.

Mr. Lindheimer is a brother of B. F. Lindheimer, south park commissioner, and is secretary of the Colonial Bond and Mortgage company.

After tying up the maids the robbers cut telephone wires in the house and fled. Mrs. Lindheimer was attending a Democratic meeting at the time the robbery occurred.

3 CASUALTIES BRING RODEO'S INJURED TO 8

Three more cowboys were injured last night at the second annual world championship rodeo now being held in the Chicago Stadium. Five others have been hurt, one seriously. Last night's casualties were Jack Ireland of Sonoma, Cal.; G. T. McMillan of Fort Worth, Tex., and George [Jasbo] Fulkerson of Oklahoma. Ireland suffered a bone fracture in his left foot when his stirrup became caught in a gate as he charged out on a bronco. He was dragged half way through the arena. McMillan was kicked on both legs. Fulkerson was bruised and suffered a bone chip in his left wrist when his horse fell on him.

HOOVER ON WAY WEST TO LAUNCH VOTE CAMPAIGN

Delivers Fighting Speech at Des Moines Tonight.

d that program under Republican supervision.

The business-like departure of the special train was the climax to a busy morning for the President. With Secretary of State Stimson he conferred concerning the probable effect of the Lytton report on the Manchurian situation. With Secretary of Agriculture Hyde he discussed that portion of his Des Moines speech which will deal with the farm problem.

There was no fanfare as the President and Mrs. Hoover arrived at the Union station and walked to the waiting train. The group of persons with them were a working party and not a guest list. The eight car train was fitted up as perambulating campaign headquarters.

Des Moines Speech Still Incomplete.

With the President were Walter H. Newton, his political secretary; Theodore Joslin, White House contact man; Miss Myra McGrath and Miss Ann Shanky, the President's personal stenographers; three mimeograph operators, and two mimeograph machines. There was also Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician.

With the Des Moines speech still incomplete and with five less ambitious speeches and numerous carefully chosen words of greeting to be distributed along the way, the westward journey was scheduled to be a working tour for Mr. Hoover and his staff.

Crowd at Capital Station.

Though the exact hour of leaving had not been announced the President's departure drew a considerable crowd for Washington, where the passages of Presidents and personages are routine matters.

On reaching the train Mr. and Mrs. Hoover paused for a moment on the back platform of the observation car in which they will travel. The cameras of a group of photographers clicked.

A small man who had strolled up snatched off his hat and waved it high above his head. He shrilled, "Good luck, Mr. President." The President turned as he was about to enter the car door, smiled, and the small man scuttled away.

No Political Handshakers.

Carrying out the businesslike motif the swarm of political handshakers and well wishers usually attendant upon a candidate's departure were left at home.

Waiting for the train to start, Mrs. Hoover bobbed her head and smiled to two or three friends on the platform like any other traveler trying the impossible task of making parting words pass through the double glass of a Pullman window.

The President was already immersed in a newspaper.

As the train started, however, he came out from behind the paper long enough for one final appearance on the rear platform with Mrs. Hoover, a final snapshot and a bow and smile to those left behind.

Leaders to Board Train.

Almost from the time the President's train leaves Chicago tomorrow morning until its arrives back in Washington Thursday the President will be engaged in political conversations with Republican officials. Arrangements have been made for local Republican delegations to board the Hoover train, ride a short distance and then give way to another group. The President by this plan of action will thus have an opportunity not only to meet personally the rank and file of the party leaders but also be enabled to take a firmer grip on his personal management of the campaign.

Gov. Turner of Iowa will join the presidential party of Rock Island, Ill., and Mr. Hoover is expected to deliver a short speech at that point. The next scheduled stops will be Davenport, Ia., West Liberty, Iowa City, and Newton. The train will arrive at Des Moines around 4 o'clock.

Des Moines Flag Bedecked to Welcome President Today

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 3.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Hoover, natives of Iowa, Tuesday will be welcomed by a "homecoming" celebration in a city already bedecked with flags.

Banners were flying throughout Des Moines, capital of Iowa, and the route of a parade of welcome was gay with holiday dress. Pictures of the President were prominently displayed.

Large crowds are expected to gather in Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Grinnell, and Newton, where the presidential train will make five-minute stops. Business houses have declared a holiday and schools will be dismissed for part of the day.

21-Gun Salute Will Boom.

The booming of a 21-gun salute from Rock Island arsenal will mark the entry of the President's special train into Iowa at Davenport. There a committee headed by Gov. Dan Turner will extend Iowa's official greetings.

Members of the welcoming group will board the special train for the trip back to Des Moines. At West Liberty the President will be greeted by a delegation from West Branch, where he was born.

Detailed arrangements for the Hoover day parade were completed today and a four mile route laid out through the Des Moines business district. National Guard officers, troops from nearby Fort Des Moines and former service men and members of the American Legion will lend a military air to the event.

Advance Guard Arrives.

At one point the parade will pass under a silhouette of the President five stories high and 50 feet wide.

Des Moines tonight was filling with the advance groups of the 150,000 visitors who are expected here for the address.

The President's train is expected to cross the Mississippi into Iowa at 11:25 a. m., leaving Davenport five minutes later.

The President and Mrs. Hoover will be escorted to the home of Gov. and Mrs. Turner, where they will be dinner guests. It is planned to let the President rest in the interval before dinner, which will be served at 6 p. m. He will leave the Turner home at 7 p. m. for his address at the Coliseum a half hour later.

Reception for Editors.

Following his speech, the President will appear briefly before crowds at the Shrine auditorium and the capitol plaza and later will attend a reception for some 500 Iowa newspaper men in a downtown hotel.

About 2,400 Republican county precinct committee women from over the state have been invited to attend an informal reception in the evening.

As the presidential special left Washington today it was indicated that the President's opening campaign speech would deal principally with the farm situation.

Girl in Blue with Gun to Match Robs Shop of $215

A tall, blonde young woman whose ensemble in blue included a blue steel revolver, held up the dress shop of Miss M. Bellim, 4736 Sheridan road yesterday with the aid of a male companion. They got $215.

The woman visited the store earlier on the pretense of making dress selections, police were told.

HOOVER TRAIN REACHES CHICAGO THIS MORNING

Special Measures Taken to Guard President.

President Hoover's special train of three sections will pass through Chicago about 7 o'clock this morning on the way to Des Moines, where the President makes one of the outstanding speeches of his campaign this evening.

The exact time of the arrival and departure of the train was not made public, every possible precaution being taken to prevent attempts to harm the President. Two detective squads commanded by Supervising Lieutenant Edward Birmingham will meet the train at 63d street. They will remain on guard duty during the switching of the train. A guard of Washington secret service operatives accompanies the presidential party.

It is understood the train will not come into the Union station, but will be switched over the belt line at Englewood from the Pennsylvania to the Rock Island tracks.

Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the secret service in Chicago, has gone on to Des Moines to arrange for safeguarding the President there.

G. O. P. Hopes for Upset.

As the campaign stands, Gov. Roosevelt so far has done nearly all the running, being the only major presidential candidate on a platform tour. About five weeks remain of the campaign. Among most Republicans the belief is that to win they must turn the present situation upside down in October.

In launching the October campaign in his native state of Iowa, President Hoover speaks in perhaps the strongest Republican state in the west. Iowa went Republican even back in 1856, when it voted for Fremont, and since then it has always been Republican on President except in 1912, when it went to Woodrow Wilson, who carried the state by a minority vote in the Bull Moose split of that year.

Republican leaders have been disturbed by straw votes out in the corn belt, especially in the Des Moines Register newspaper poll, embracing all counties in the state, which gave Roosevelt 45,321; Hoover, 27,562; Thomas, 683; scattering 918.

AFRICAN CHIEFS WELCOME ITALY'S KING TO COLONY

MASSAUA, Eritrea, East Africa, Oct. 3.—(AP)—High dignitaries from Abyssinia and other African countries were here today to welcome King Victor Emanuel of Italy, who arrived for the first visit he has ever made to this Italian possession.

The king arrived on the royal yacht Savoia, escorted by two destroyers. He was escorted to a throne at the governor's palace, from which he distributed medals to native chiefs and military leaders who have distinguished themselves in Italy's service.

Later he went by train to Asmara.

WIFE OF PATRON CAUSES RAID ON EVANSTON STILL

An Evanston police squad yesterday broke into a garage on the property of Nels Nelson, 2635 East Railroad avenue, Evanston, and seized a still, some intoxicating liquors and supplies for making mash.

The search warrant was sworn to by Mrs. Esther Dahl, 604 Dempster street, Evanston. Her husband, Carl, was arrested on Sunday for driving while intoxicated and she told the police that Dahl obtained his supplies from Nelson. Nelson is a building contractor. The police were searching for him last night.

The still was of twenty gallon capacity.

PICK LONDON FOR WORLD PARLEY; RUSSIA IS INVITED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—The world economic conference will meet in London. This was decided today by the commission charged by the Lausanne conference on reparations with organizing the economic parley. Moreover, it will really be a world conference, for Russia is to be invited.

The date for the meeting was not set today, but indications are that although January is still mentioned it cannot take place much before March.

Is He A FOOL or is he Not?

HERE'S a fellow with a mighty bad sense of proportion. He polishes his golf clubs till they shine—but he's careless about his teeth, and he practically ignores the condition of his gums!

Morning after morning he sees a trace of "pink" upon his tooth brush. His gums are touchy and tender. Why? Because modern foods are too soft to keep them firm! They need care. They need Ipana and massage.

"Pink Tooth Brush" is a warning! Nobody wants to have dull teeth. Nobody cares to take chances with gingivitis or Vincent's disease or any other gum trouble. Certainly nobody wants sound teeth endangered!

Check "pink tooth brush" this way: Clean your teeth with Ipana. Then—each time, rub a little extra Ipana into those sluggish gums. Ipana contains a splendid toning agent called ziratol.

Almost at once your teeth will begin to brighten. Soon your gums will be decidedly firmer. Continue with Ipana and massage—and you won't be bothered with "pink tooth brush."

avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" with IPANA and MASSAGE

CALIFORNIA MAY SWING ELECTION AS IT DID IN 1916

Johnson Again Dislikes G. O. P. Candidate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—California holds the political spotlight because of the possibility that Mr. Hoover will lose his home state and of the further possibility that the electoral vote of the state, now increased to 22, will decide the election as it did in 1916.

With the President's strength centering conspicuously in New England, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania and with multiplying indications that Roosevelt will sweep a large portion of the west it is evident that Roosevelt might be elected in much the same manner as was Woodrow Wilson to his second term—without the east, without the central states, except Ohio, but with the south and nearly all the far west, including California.

Johnson Again Is Hostile.

And the great outstanding factor of the Wilson victory, which put California in the Democratic column by a narrow margin of 4,000 votes in 1916 is again figuring in this election. The failure of Charles Evans Hughes to call on Gov. Hiram Johnson when they were stopping in the same hotel in Los Angeles cost Mr. Hughes the presidency. Mr. Johnson did not bolt Mr. Hughes, he just froze up and let nature take its course. The Johnsonites voted for Wilson in sufficient numbers to do the business.

Once more Mr. Johnson, now United States senator, is turning a glacial eye upon the candidacy of the Republican presidential nominee.

He does not like Mr. Hoover, never has; thinks Mr. Hoover is a man of a very low order of ability, a tool of big business and the international bankers and an insidious promoter of cancellation of the war debts, and much more which space limitations forbid to detail.

Mr. Hoover, it is only fair to say, most cordially reciprocates this feeling as has been manifested by withdrawal of federal patronage from Mr. Johnson and the striking of his name from the White House invitation list.

Roosevelt Courts Johnson.

Senator Johnson has not declared for Roosevelt formally but he is praising him not only in his private but his public utterances and comparing him most invidiously with President Hoover whose policies the senator omits no occasion to excoriate.

Roosevelt began courting Johnson the moment he crossed the California line. At Sacramento the Democratic candidate made a speech in which he lauded the senator to the skies as a forward looking, progressive statesman. After reading the complimentary reference to himself by the Democratic candidate Senator Johnson gave the following statement to the press:

"Gov. Roosevelt was very gracious and generous in his address at Sacramento. I personally immensely appreciate what he said and I am sure it is equally appreciated by the progressive Republicans of this state.

"The attitude of Mr. Roosevelt is in sharp contrast with that which Mr. Hoover has maintained toward progressivism and the progressives of California.

"For twenty-two years I have been making the progressive fight here. For the remainder of my years I will continue to make that fight."

Appeals to Bull Moosers.

The New York governor also took occasion to associate himself in the minds of the California voters with his great cousin, Theodore, who, in the days of the progressive Republican revolt against stand-pat rule, was a patron saint in these parts. Gov. Roosevelt told in one speech how, although a Democrat, he cast his first vote for his kinsman.

Thus the stage was set for the Johnson following to flock to Roosevelt in this election. To what extent they are doing so is a matter of speculation. According to the Democratic leaders, the Johnson men are with Roosevelt almost to a man, most of them enlisting in the newly formed National Progressive league, headed by Senator Norris of Nebraska, which is shepherding the progressive, liberal and radical Republicans into the Roosevelt fold. According to the Republican leaders, the Johnson bolt is of no great moment. Three-fourths of the Johnson keymen, they assert, are out working for Hoover.

To offset the effect of Johnson's aid to Roosevelt's candidacy E. Forrest Mitchell is organizing a Hoover Progressive club to be composed of Johnson followers. The chairmanship of this organization has been accepted by Chester Rowell, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who was a leading Bull Mooser when Johnson was Theodore Roosevelt's running mate in 1912.

Democrats Confident.

What with reinforcements from the Johnsonites and the impoverished farmers and urban unemployed, who are all set to vote against the party in power, the Democratic managers are already counting California's 22 electoral votes for Roosevelt.

While discounting Republican defections, the Hoover managers point out that the Democrats are far from united. They contend that the 86,000 dry Democrats who voted for the Rev Robert P. Shuler for senator in the Democratic primary will never vote for Roosevelt, apostle of repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

They cite the well known fact that the Catholic Democrats are in revolt against William G. McAdoo, who, with the aid of Hearst, engineered the Texas-California delegate delivery that compassed the nomination of Roosevelt.

The Catholics hate McAdoo because of his Ku Klux Klan affiliations in the 1924 convention and are girding to defeat his candidacy for senator in this election. The Republican managers think they have reason to believe that these Al Smith followers will visit their resentment upon Roosevelt as well as McAdoo.

The Roosevelt canvass in the state is being managed by veteran politicians while the Hoover campaign is in the hands largely of amateurs in politics, such as the professionals have derisively dubbed "Hoover Boy Scouts." Thanks to these boy scouts, however, California is one state in which the Republicans have a campaign fund. Mark L. Requa, the millionaire oil man, is national committeeman by grace of his friend Hoover; Louis Mayer, millionaire moving picture producer, is chairman of the state committee, and other millionaires have been given key positions and tapped for funds.

Dry Law Repealed, Saloon Owner Tells U. S. Raiders

Felix Dimitchellie, owner of a speakeasy in East Chicago, Ind., protested to raiding prohibition agents yesterday that the prohibition law had been repealed. He produced as evidence a newspaper clipping of the Democratic repeal plank. The agents arrested him and seized his stock.

HORNER RECALLS FAT PAY ROLLS OF SMALL'S REGIME

Cites Report on Boost in Expenditures.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Hammering away at the tender spots in the administrations of Len Small as governor of Illinois, Judge Henry Horner, the Democratic nominee, charged today that his opponent had increased the state pay roll by an average of 500 employés annually during each of his eight years in office.

"These padded rolls and an increase in the costs of state government of 300 per cent during his first term leave Small little room to talk of his record," said the judge, "unless he wants to promise the voters that he has reformed."

Speaks in River Towns.

The Democratic candidate began his fourth week of formal campaigning today, speaking in the river towns of Meredosia, on the Illinois, and Quincy, serene upon its hill above the Mississippi.

The thrusts at Small's padded pay rolls were backed with figures.

"In July, 1920," said the judge, "there were 7,371 employés on the state pay roll. In July, 1928, in the eighth year of my opponent's term, there were 11,233 employés, an increase of almost 4,000 employés—or of about 500 per year. This increase did not include National Guard employés or employés in the division of highways.

Cites Report of Committee.

"It must be remembered that Gov. Lowden, who preceded my opponent, had the so-called 'code' departments established by the legislature for the purpose of giving the state sufficient help to carry on its work. Yet his successor increased the operating expenses of government by putting more and more persons on the pay roll, most of them doing 'no fair share of work,' according to 'the report in 1923 of a nonpartisan committee of the legislature.'

"With this sort of statesmanship operating in Illinois it is not surprising that during my opponent's first term the operating expenses increased from 37½ millions annually his first year to 119 millions his fourth year—a jump of 300 per cent.

"I am not going to dwell at length upon my opponent and his candidacy, for I am concerned with the future, not the past, but, strangely enough, the is discussing neither the issues of the campaign nor his record. It seems to me that the public is interested in knowing if he will reform, if elected, or remain consistent with his old time practices in public office."

Several members of the American Legion attended the meeting at Meredosia. Judge Horner applauded their stand of keeping the Legion out of politics and reasserted their rights to vote as individuals, an adjuration he extended to his entire audience, asking them to throw aside the thought of partisanship and "Vote your own ideas, for once."

FIND WISCONSIN GANG VICTIM TO BE CHICAGOAN

The body of a man found riddled with bullets Sunday on Mount Thom, five miles from Burlington, Wis., was identified yesterday through finger prints as that of Joseph Phillips, alias Filipo, 30 years old, a Chicago gangster. The identification was made at the Chicago detective bureau.

Records there showed Phillips was first taken into custody here in February, 1919, and was sentenced to a year in the house of correction. He had been arrested frequently since for burglary, disorderly conduct and robbery, but never was convicted of a felony. He said he lived at 821 Lamin street.

The killers fired a dozen bullets into the body. The place where it was found is in a 2,000 acre game preserve maintained by farmers and the state. Signs posted conspicuously on the tract, read: "Do Not Shoot."

SHERIFF IN INDIANA SLAIN AS HE LEADS PROHIBITION RAID

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Ray Compton, serving his second term as sheriff of Rush county, was killed this afternoon when he was shot twice by an unidentified man in a small house south of here. He and two deputy sheriffs had gone to serve a John Doe warrant for liquor violations and to raid the housee.

Before dying Compton fired two shots at the man.

Compton was accompanied by his uncle, Ed Compton, and Sid Hunt, another deputy. Hunt also fired on the man who killed Compton.

The house is the same in which Walter Garrison, patrolman, was killed a year ago when he went to investigate a stolen car reported there. Garrison was killed by William Smith, Indianapolis, now serving a life sentence for murder.

Austrian Pilot Puts Glider Through 6 Successive Loops

VIENNA, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Robert Kronfeld, veteran glider pilot, put his new sailplane, Austria II., through six successive loops in a flight here yesterday. It was believed to be the first time this had been done in a motorless plane.

ASK HIGH COURT TO RUN CHICAGO SANITARY CANAL

Four States Petition for District Receiver.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—A proposal that a Supreme court administrator be sent into Illinois to run the Chicago sanitary district was laid before the court at the opening session of its term today by Gilbert Bettman, Ohio attorney general, acting on behalf of Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan.

The court took under advisement the application of the four states, in which it was claimed that Illinois and sanitary district officials had willfully neglected to construct the sewage tweatment works which must be built to preserve Chicago's health if the decree of the court limiting the lake water diversion is carried out.

Instead of the eight years allowed for building the works before the diversion is cut to 1,500 feet in 1938 it will require 37 years at the present rate of construction, the applicants' brief declared.

They asked, therefore, that the Supreme court issue a rule for the state of Illinois and the sanitary district to show cause why a receiver, a commissioner, or United States marshal should not be placed in charge of the district's construction work with power to issue bonds, bind the credit, and exercise the taxing power of the state and district.

Politics on the Side.

Attorney General Bettman's appearance with the four lake states' application caused a buzz which was not confined to the legal issues involved, for Mr. Bettman is Republican candidate for senator from Ohio, opposing the Democratic senator, Robert J. Bulkley. It was rumored that the Republican cause in Ohio would not be harmed just at this time by the candidate's show of activity in his constituents' behalf.

The brief which he presented showed that since the issuance of the court's decree, in April, 1930, in the lake diversion case, the Chicago sanitary district had spent $10,306,832 on treatment works' construction, and in the past six months had spent virtually nothing. It recognized the difficulty which the district had had in selling its bonds, but did not recognize this as a valid excuse, blaming the situation in Chicago on a period of bad government of which the sanitary district management "was an outstanding example."

"By a course of conduct characterized by neglect, incompetence, defiance, or bad faith, as the case may be," the brief declared, "the district had failed to live up to the court's decree and the state of Illinois had viewed the inactivity of the district with complacency, if not approval."

The petition believed that this conduct was part of a traditional policy on the part of Illinois of defying other lake states and then pleading the health of Chicago when brought to task.

Based on Sewage Disposal.

The requirements as to sewage disposal plants, the brief contended, were understood to be the basis of the order.

"Throughout the long history of the controversy," the brief stated, "every consideration extended to the defendants on the grounds of equity or in deference to the dignity of the state as a quasi-sovereign, either by the executive officers of the federal government or by this court, has been taken advantage of by these defendants to magnify the then existing obstacles or to create further obstacles."

Out of court, Mr. Bettman stated that to send a federal marshal into Chicago to sell sanitary district bonds and take charge of the construction work would be better for the taxpayers of Chicago, since it would do away with the heavy pay roll.

"Chicago is not so poor that she has to steal our property," he asserted. "Chicago might plead poverty for twenty years if we let her get away with it."

PROGRAM YEAR BEHIND.

The sanitary district is seeking a loan of $36,450,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to catch up on its $269,000,000 sewage disposal program, William Rothman, attorney for the district, explained. The district has expended $100,000,000 to date, he said, but, lacking additional money, building has been halted and the program is now about a year behind.

"As yet there has been no violation of the United States Supreme court decree," he said. "The decree specifies that the project must be completed by Dec. 1, 1938, but does not say that any certain amount of work must be done each year."

BYRD CALLS FOR UNITED STAND TO HALT HIGH TAXES

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd delivered a denunciation of the bonus payment proposal today before setting out for Baltimore on the first leg of an airplane tour sponsored by the National Economy league.

"Appropriations for specially privileged minorities saturate our whole governmental system," he said in an address before the Advertising club of New York. "The great majority pay without voice taxes that are imposed by small groups and privileged sections. It is the minorities who have representation."

Says Majority Must Rebel.

"For the first time since 1776 there is need for a second declaration of independence to break the servitude to organized minorities of the great majority of our people. The only way to accomplish this is for the great majority also to organize, for masses of pepole cannot act in unison without organizing."

Veterans Head League.

Addressing "those veterans who have so bitterly attacked this league by abusing and discrediting its leaders," Admiral Byrd said the organization was formed by veterans and that two of the officers, Granville Clark and Archibald Roosevelt, were veterans.

"On the league's advisory council," he continued, "there is an ex-commander in chief of our whole armed forces, commanders of the European force of our army and navy during the war, and our wartime secretary of war. It is inconceivable that these men would intentionally do anything unjust to veterans.

From Baltimore, according to a tentative itinerary, Admiral Byrd will fly to Wilmington, Del., Buffalo, N. Y., Cleveland, O., Toledo, O., Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Lexington, Ky., Louisville, Ky., Nashville, Tenn., Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Hartford, Conn.

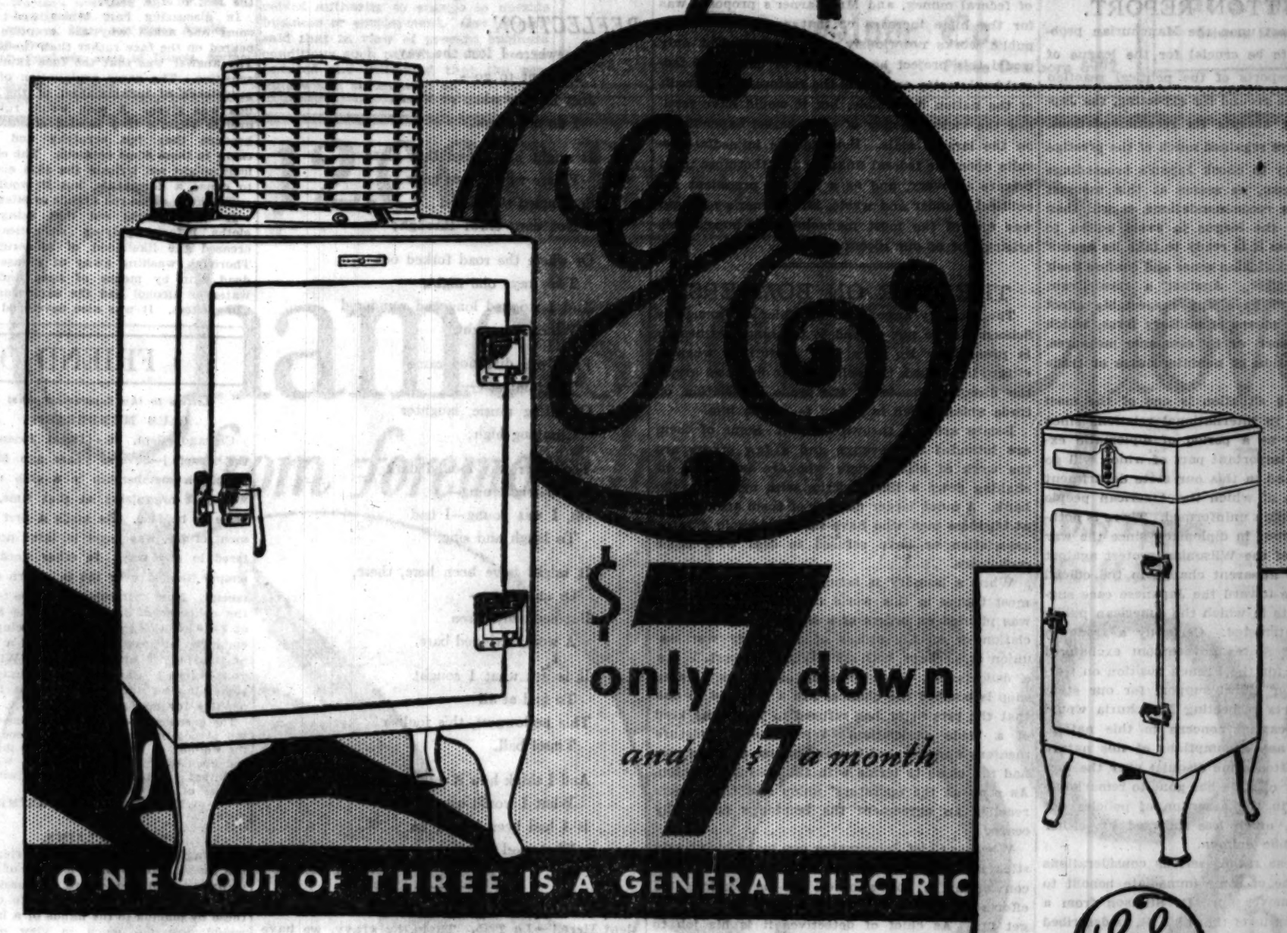
Now a GENERAL ELECTRIC for every purse!



GE JUNIOR

• 1 out of 3 homes having electric refrigeration has a G-E Monitor Top Refrigerator. • Product of 15 years of research . . . with an unparalleled 5 year performance record. • Famous sealed-in-steel Monitor Top mechanism . . . requiring no attention, not even oiling. • All-steel cabinet built to last a lifetime . . . . with sliding shelves and exclusive easy-cleaning features. • The lowest COST refrigerator you can own . . . . backed by an unequalled 4-Year Service Plan.

FOR as little as $7 a month . . . less than its savings on food alone . . . you can buy a General Electric—the world's finest and lowest cost refrigerator.

The General Electric Monitor Top refrigerator is universally recognized as the standard of refrigeration excellence. Born a leader, it continues a leader. Today, one out of every three homes with electric refrigeration has a G-E Monitor Top. Built to last a lifetime, it provides the lowest cost refrigeration you can own.

The simple Monitor Top mechanism is entirely sealed in walls of steel, guarded against air, dirt and moisture. It is safe from neglect or abuse . . . requires no attention, not even oiling . . . and is guaranteed, for three years in addition to the standard one year warranty, by the General Electric 4-Year Service Plan.

Gleaming white cabinets are all-steel, with one-piece porcelain interiors, sliding shelves and exclusive G-E easy-cleaning features.

Why wait longer to have the daily convenience, the year 'round economy and protection to health a General Electric assures you? Start now and you will be more dollars ahead next spring—waiting is actually wasting. The novel G-E registering bank provides a simple plan of accumulating the savings your G-E brings you—and these savings will more than meet the small monthly payments of $7.

There is a General Electric model, size and price to meet the requirements of every home.

In addition to the famous Monitor Top refrigerator, General Electric now offers the lower price conventional type model—G-E Jr.

The General Electric Junior was designed by the same engineers, and is manufactured in the same factories that build the renowned Monitor Top. The attractive low-price makes it the outstanding value among conventional type refrigerators.

In the General Electric complete line you will find the model and price that just suits you.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE LYTTON REPORT.

The Lytton report upon the Manchurian problem would seem to be crucial for the league of nations. If, as reports of the political reaction in Japan give little ground for expecting, the Japanese government accepts its recommendations, the league will have regained much of the prestige lost by its inability to check Japan's proceedings promptly. If Japan, as seems at this moment likely, refuses the recommendations, it will then be impossible for the league to avoid action to enforce them unless it is ready to take its agents' findings in the Pickwickian sense and confine itself to diplomatic protest. Against a recalcitrant Japan, pressure to have any respectable effect must be either by means of military force, which is an unlikely resort, or by economic measures, such as a declaration of nonintercourse or trade embargo.

In any case the situation is one of the most serious developed in international relations since 1914. There will be a period of diplomatic exchange, the most important part of which will go on under cover, and in this our state department will have a share of which the American people seems likely to remain uninformed. There is nothing more conspicuous in diplomacy since the war than the neglect of the Wilsonian protest against secrecy. But the apparent change in the official attitude of France toward the Japanese case suggests arrangements in which the American public might well be interested. Certainly a trade in which the United States government exchanged its moral support for the French position on German armament for moral support for our state department's efforts respecting Manchuria would be a matter of capital concern to this nation. Without making any assumptions of this nature we may be permitted some disquiet over the fact that our secretary of state has gone to remarkable lengths recently in the assertion of policies not yet submitted to, much less indorsed by, either the senate or public opinion.

Apart from these rather serious considerations the report may be of some immediate benefit to us in that it removes our Mr. Stimson from a situation reminding us of that of T. R. as described by Mr. Dooley, "Alone in Cubia." He is not now in the position of putting Japan out of Manchuria single-handed, a heroic rôle, no doubt, but one to which the common sense of Americans does not aspire. The league, indeed, is not bound to adopt its agents' report, but, except for the unfortunate possibility of Mr. Stimson's being encouraged by the report to enter the lists again, we may hope that responsibility for defeating the Japanese project will be at least more evenly divided than it has been up to this stage.

THE LATE UNPLEASANTNESS.

It may be that this subject is so close to misery that both good taste and good judgment would leave it alone, but it may be also that there are still readers of THE TRIBUNE who rely exclusively on this department for their sporting intelligence, and if they are happy there is no good reason why they should continue to be, an affront to the rest of their fellow townsmen.

The worst news can be broken by reporting to such as rely exclusively on this department that the management of the Chicago National baseball team is refunding the money paid by the customers for the fifth game in the series with the New Yoicks. There is no fifth game and that's the short of it. The details are tears and agony and lost bets.

Not infrequently a New York hit does not stay long in Chicago and this New York piece had a run of only two days, being shipped back east Sunday night after opening Saturday. It was the shortest run ever known, but nevertheless much too long. There were at least ten years in those two days, and if Chicago never wins another championship in either league it will be too soon.

Several managers have lost their jobs in this city because they could not bring a championship team to Chicago. One was Mr. McCarthy, who on Saturday did bring such a team here and in consequence the city wants no more truck with championships. A manager whose young men show any possibility of getting above third place will be fired. If there had been a fifth game Brother Grimm would have had to borrow some pitchers from the White Sox, a thought which might have been worth something before the first game.

Mr. Pegler has treated the subject on the sports page with distinguished scholarship. A team playing sand lot baseball, with its main mugg a fat and decrepit old gentleman in his late thirties who knows where his feet are not because he can see them but because they hurt and with other muggs who kick the ball around when they ought to be fielding it, from a city which does not know whether Mr. McCarthy has a ball team or a cricket club and which thinks that Cubs are bears in a bull market, rubbed all the polish off big time heroics and took the big end of the purse simply by hitting everything that was pitched with one end or the other of a baseball bat. It's been known on the sand lots for ages, before the civil war, that if you run around the bases often enough you can win ball games. With that baseball goes to the camphor.

GARNER AND THE PORK BARREL.

Republican campaign tacticians are wise in directing an offensive at the Democratic running mate, the Achilles heel of the Democratic campaign. Postoffice Jack has been somewhat muffled by the Democratic tacticians, which is also good tactics, but after all he is running for the vice presidency, and Vice Presidents have on regrettable occasion become President. But Mr. Garner is more than vice presidential candidate. He is a member of the house of representatives, and was speaker under the Democratic organization, as he was minority leader before his party won a majority in the chamber.

Thus Mr. Garner cannot be dismissed, as some vice presidential candidates of the past might have been, as a negligible political quantity. He is a power in the party and an important part of its control of government. His ideas of public policy and his record as a legislator and a leader are of material concern to the nation and a subject for serious consideration by the voter.

Mr. Garner's parentage of a proposal in the last session for the expenditure of two billions on postoffices and other public buildings is, therefore, an appropriate subject for Republican attack. The proposal was defeated, fortunately for the country and federal solvency, but it expressed an irresponsibility on the part of Mr. Garner and his majority in the house of representatives that opens up extremely serious possibilities. The country at this moment is involved in one of the gravest crises of its history largely and indeed primarily because of the reckless and wasteful expenditure of federal money, and Mr. Garner's proposal was for the huge increase of that expenditure upon public works notoriously unnecessary. Not only would this project have invited or compelled federal bankruptcy and made the restoration of credit of the nation impossible, but it would have fortified the vicious policy of pork barrel expenditure on the largest scale. Both for its immediate results upon the federal finances and therefore upon private recovery, and as a further precedent for political plunder and waste, Mr. Garner's proposal was one of the most menacing and inexcusable arising out of our recent politics.

THE WAR ON BOMBERS.

The strategy announced by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker to put an end to bombing in Chicago is promising. He says that in future, when a citizen is bombed, the police are to find and arrest the directing heads of the trade association or trade union which is trying to coerce him.

Bombs are not thrown for fun. Some of them are intended for revenge and a few others are the work of blackmailers who are interested in shaking down a likely victim with money in the bank. A much larger number of them are directed at business men who have refused to join a trade association or have refused to deal with labor racketeers.

When a laundry is bombed it is as certain as most things in this world can be that the bomb was planted on orders of a laundry owners' association or on the orders of a laundry workers' union or, perhaps, both operating in concert. When a delicatessen, a barber shop or a shoe shining shop is bombed the chances are a hundred to one that the proprietor has refused to join some kind of a trade association. When moving picture theaters were bombed it was because their owners had not come to terms with the operators' union. As soon as the operators' union and the owners reached an agreement the bombings practically ceased.

Whether Chief Schoemaker can make his arrests stick is another matter. Whether he can obtain convictions is still another. If he confines his efforts to questioning the suspects he may not get far. As chief of detectives it is his job to connect the trade association and union officials with the crimes which have been committed at their orders. That sounds a good deal harder than it really is. In the nature of things the storekeepers who are bombed are first warned by some one. Furthermore, a good many men in the association or the union concerned must be aware of what is going on. Good detective work will produce the desired evidence. A determined effort could put an end to restraint of trade by bombing in six months.

Editorial of the Day

FARMERS SHOW GREAT COURAGE.

[Chicago Drovers Journal.]

A better spirit than Illinois farmers are showing would be hard to find in any industry or walk of life, according to R. R. Hudelson of the College of Agriculture. He and his associates have visited 1,585 farmers during the past summer in connection with their farm record keeping work, and he says that while many of them have suffered loss "they realize that during times like these the man who knows most about his business has the best chance to pull through. While the depression is the most severe that any of them have ever known, they are facing the facts and going ahead."

The stability of the farm people of this country has been well demonstrated the past few years. Conditions have been such as to propagate wild ideas and radical movements, but there has been very little of that sort of thing. The agitators have been busy trying to arouse popular clamor in one direction or another, but they haven't made much headway. Unsound economic preaching has made relatively few converts. Common sense has prevailed. This is indeed remarkable in view of the strain under which so many have been living. High interest, coupled with high taxes, has swept away the life savings of thousands of families, yet, apparently having in mind the old adage about jumping from the frying pan into the fire, not many people have flocked to the support of proposals that in their judgment would put the very life of this country and its government in jeopardy. Possibly one reason for a relatively calm political atmosphere is the realisation that distress has been confined to no one class. All have suffered pretty much alike this time, and there is no particular place to lay the blame.

The composite judgment of the American people has always been pretty good. When the facts of any situation have become known they have moved in the right direction. And fortunately they have always had statesmen with courage enough to give the facts, and by the same token have turned thumbs down on office seekers whose first aim has been to be on the popular side. Our most useful politicians of the past became statesmen by having on occasion the courage to say "No" so emphatically and so clearly that there could be no misunderstanding of their position. Cleveland was a shining example.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND ANYHOW, TRY AND STOP 'EM.

A doctor says that a man who gets mad because he makes a dub shot in golf should give up golf. Not at all; a golfer's anger is really the most harmless of any kind. When a bridge player gets mad at his wife [or her husband] for playing the wrong card he [or she] pulls a gat—boom, boom! [Oh, Laura, I'm so sorry, it's your deal, but you just can't now, you've got to call up the coroner.] And the chess player hurls the chess board through a perfectly good glass window and it flops down on a perfectly innocent pedestrian down in the street. Even checker players sometimes reach over the board and biff each other in the nose and once we saw a backgammon player hurl two counters and the dice box right on the floor and shriek out: "Oh, fudge! I think it's a perfectly horrid game." Yes, and there were ladies present, too.

But the worst a golfer does when he foozles his putt or drives in the rough or whatever a golfer does that makes him seethe with anger is to throw his clubs into the water hazard. But right away he gives his caddy a quarter to fish them out and another quarter to keep his head shut and say nothing about it. So there's no great harm done. No, let the golfers get mad if they want to. And let them keep on playing.

And while we're on the subject something should be done about croquet players. We once saw a croquet player who had missed his arch fly into such a horrible passion that he took his mallet and hit the wicket a horrid blow and bent it all out of shape as he hissed through clenched teeth: "There, you miserable wicket, take that!" It was a dreadful sight and two lady croquet players fainted. Yes, indeed, before we make the golfers quit playing because they get mad now and then let us turn our gaze on croquet and backgammon. Especially backgammon!

REFLECTION.

Somewhere I lost the way
I meant to go—
Just how or when or where
I do not know.

It might have been that place
Where wild thorns grew
So tangled that I did
Not dare crawl through;

Or where the road forked out
Two ways one night,
And I stopped long and wondered
Which was right.

From one direction came
The faintest cry
Of lilting music, laughter
Climbing high;

The other way looked dark
And frightening—
Oh, I was young—I had
To laugh and sing.

It might have been here, there,
Or anywhere—
But suddenly I see
A world stripped bare.

It is not what I sought
To find at all—
This hollowness, this foolish
Tinsel ball.

And I think how it might have been,
What I would own,
If I had been braver on
That road alone.

FERRY ADAMS.

"SOCIALIST PARTY Candidate for Vice President Here."—La Trib. There, by gravy, we have too got a candidate for Vice President! We've got Norman Thomas for President and somebody for Vice President. Now, quit kidding us, will yuh?

A CHICAGO MAN has been rescued from the lake three times after jumping in with the intention of committing suicide. Which proves our point that suicide is just a habit and can be cured like any other habit if one only sets about it the right way. Counting to one hundred or even five hundred might be a good way, or washing out the mouth with soap and water might help. We knew a man who cured himself of the suicide habit by tying a string to his little finger every time he caught himself trying to die. It is, indeed, a very bad habit, but if one is determined and patient and starts early enough the suicide habit can be as easily broken as the tobacco habit, coffee drinking, whistling in the office or eating pie with a knife.

AND IN SPITE of the public clamor now against picking up hitch hikers let us remember that circumstances alter cases and that a gentleman standing pathetically out in the middle of the road wriggling his thumb may be merely a Republican spellbinder going to a rally where he's to speak on the subject "The Return of Prosperity."

NOTE ON THE POLITICAL CHOICE.

Said Tweedledum to Tweedledee,
"There are two others, quite as we."
"Id est (which means 'that is,' you see)
In presidential rivalry
Differing in no one degree,
Identic both as pea to pea;
The common cit. is sure to be
Unbettered by either nominee
Though claims of perfect pedigree
Be yowled by each one's devotee,"
Said Tweedledum to Tweedledee!

AND NOW the Japanese declare the league of nations is a joke. Which makes it unanimous.

ALFRED EMANUEL SMITH, when he predicted a Democratic victory this year, did something that has always been regarded as impossible. He gave us Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

CAUSES OF ERUPTIONS.

At the 1931 meeting of the Southern Medical society Dr. E. S. Lain of Oklahoma City flung the subject of eruptions due to the use of cosmetics into the arena. When the physicians present got through kicking the subject of cosmetics around it needed the services of a plastic surgeon.

Dr. Lain was as considerate as he could be. Cosmetics had a rich historical background—aye, almost a sacred one. The Bible tells of the use of cosmetics in the times and places covered by sacred history. They had a part in some religious observances and they served the purposes of personal adornment even as they do today.

Cosmetics had another friend amongst those at the ringside. One physician thought there was not much cosmetic dermatitis considering that so many million people use them.

This about ended the testimony of what might be called the character witnesses for the defense.

Dr. Lain reported the results of an investigation of the cause of 285 cases of skin trouble. Of the number 42 were eruptions of the face. Of these three out of every four were the result of cosmetics. The proof was that when a patch test was made, using the cosmetics the patient was using, it was found that a dermatitis was set up. A patch test is made by applying the substance under investigation to, say, a square one-third inch of skin on the arm or body and binding it there for a day. If a person is sensitized the patch area will become inflamed and little blisters, like those of poison ivy, form—that is, in some cases they do.

In the debate some one said there would be more reactions if the patch test could be made on the face, since the skin there is more sensitive than the rest of the body.

In discussing hair tonics and dyes some one asked why the eruption appeared on the face rather than the scalp. The answer was that the face skin was sensitive. The same explanation of the prevalence of inflammation of the eyelids was given. A man would rub his eyelids because they needed cleaning or because they felt scratchy and thus carry to them some cosmetic. The chemicals might not irritate the skin enough to cause a dermatitis, but it would be sufficient to cause red eyelids or sties.

It was brought out that using hot cloths before applying cosmetics increased the likelihood of an eruption. Thorough washing away of grease and dead skin by means of soap and hot water or alcohol had the same contributing effect. It was also developed that if the skin were sweat soaked or very greasy the dangers were increased.

When it came to indictment of cosmetics it seemed that nothing escaped—powders, paints, creams, dyes, tonics, lipsticks, nail varnishes, sweat inhibitors, deodorants. All came in for a share of the blame.

TOO MUCH EPSOM SALTS.

M. L. C. writes: Is it dangerous for one 50 years old to take a teaspoon of Epsom salts three times a day? A friend of mine is taking that amount, and I fear it will harm her in time. I would be thankful to know what the danger is, and in what way it is harmful to her, so that I may warn her about taking that amount.

REPLY.

It will harm her. In fact, it probably has done so. Taking saline purges regularly causes constipation. It may cause spastic colon.

LARGELY DUE TO HABIT.

H. A. Al writes:

1. Ever since childhood I have been troubled with constipation. I am told this is due to a condition known as acid stomach.
2. What is the most effective way of relieving this condition?
3. I am underweight and have been drinking a considerable amount of sweet cream, alternated by malted milks prepared at home from the various malt powders on the market. Do you think this causes increased constipation?
4. Does such a condition lead to piles?
5. What are the symptoms of piles?

REPLY.

1. You have the cart before the horse. Constipation may cause acid stomach.
2. It is a habit. Bad habits result from faulty training. They are cured by training. Diet should help. Eat freely of vegetables, fruit, molasses, oils, fats, and sour milk.
3. No.
4. Yes.
5. The presence of the tumorous masses. Sometimes itching and hemorrhage are present as symptoms.

SENILE PRURITUS.

Miss F. M. H. writes:

1. What is the treatment for senile pruritus?
2. Is there itching with senile gangrene?
3. What is the difference between the two?

REPLY.

1. Grease the skin often. Stay in moist air as much as possible. Laundries, kitchens, and greenhouses have moist air. Avoid too frequent bathing. The skin can be cleaned with creams.
2. No.
3. In gangrene the parts die and slough off. In pruritis there may be nothing more than itching.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

CLUB MEMBERSHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years ago Mr. A bought a membership in a club which was just organizing at that time, full price to be $450. He made a first payment of $50, was never initiated nor entered in any way. In other words, he simply handed over $50 in return for a receipt. Now he receives a notice to pay the collector of internal revenue a tax of $4.50 on this membership. Being unemployed at present and without a home or funds he is unable to pay. What is your advice? Can a man be taxed for something he never had? What is the penalty for nonpayment? A. W.

The question whether he is a member for the purpose of the tax would depend upon the wording of his agreement with the club and upon the bylaws of the club. We suggest that you take the matter up with the officers of the club.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SMALL CLAIMS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there a court of small claims in Chicago where a storekeeper may collect small bills due? To collect these by placing in the hands of a lawyer would cost too much in view of the amounts involved. 2. If there is no such court how can such bills be collected at small cost? S. T.

1. Most such cases are handled through the Municipal court of Chicago.
2. If they are too small to be worth employing an attorney to collect, they are probably too small to be worth your spending your own time upon.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RENEWAL BY IMPLICATION.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My lease expired before I moved to the first floor after occupying the second floor flat in the same building. Now I want to move, but the agent says he will hold me on the lease which I signed for the second flat. 2. Can he do that? The rent was not the same for the two flats. A. D.

1. We assume that you mean that you held over beyond the end of your first year. This would have resulted in a renewal by implication for another year. If during such year you moved with the consent of the landlord, then in our opinion there was a surrender and accepting terminating your tenancy as to the second floor apartment and creating a new oral tenancy as to the first floor apartment. Presumably the new oral tenancy was for the balance of the year and was enforceable.
2. See 1.

BLOOMER SUITS! MY WORD!

Chicago, Sept. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What costumes are women permitted to wear at public beaches? H. B.

Section 4231 of the 1931 city code is in part as follows: "Women's blouse and bloomer suits may be worn with or without skirt, and with or without stockings, provided the blouse has one-quarter arm sleeve or close fitting armholes and the bloomers are of a pattern that is full and not shorter than four inches above the knee [top of patella]; women's jersey knit suits may also be worn, with or without stockings, provided the suit has skirt or skirt effect with one-quarter arm sleeves or close fitting armholes, trunks not shorter than four inches above the knee [top of patella] and the bottom of the skirt is not shorter than two inches above the bottom of the trunks."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 4, 1916.

LONDON.—Sweeping across the Danube river into Bulgaria midway between Rustchuk and Turkuai, the Rumanian army threatens to encompass the German-Bulgar-Turk army in Dobrudja, commanded by Gen. von Mackensen. Fearing such a disaster, the German field marshal has evacuated the Danube fortresses of Silistria and Turtukai, captured by him several weeks ago. The Rumanian thrust has been delayed for the time being due to the fact that Austrian and German monitors have partially destroyed the pontoon bridges across the Danube in the rear of the Rumanian forces which have invaded Bulgaria.

BERLIN.—The Russian artillery turned its guns on Russian infantry to force them forward and prevent retreat in fierce fighting west of Lutsk, according to an announcement by the German war office. All of yesterday desperate storming attacks by the Russian masses broke down under the German fire. Wherever the Russians penetrated demolished trenches they were driven out by counter attacks. In this fighting it is charged the Russians killed German wounded.

PETROGRAD.—German forces have taken the offensive south of Dvinsk, attacking the Russian lines in force near Novo Alexandrovsk, the war office announced. They were met by an intense defensive fire from the Russian guns, however, and forced back to their positions. In the region west of Lutsk, near Zaturze, the Russians scored advances in stubborn fighting. In the Zlota-Lipa district and along the other sectors of the front in Galicia fighting of a desperate nature is continuing, neither side scoring any marked advantage.

LONDON.—The French on the Somme front have won an important trench north of Rancourt in their effort to cut the German line between Bapaume and Peronne.

BERLIN.—Heavy fighting continued north of the Somme. The war office announced that ground had been gained by the Germans in the Thiepval region.

ROME.—The Italian war statement says: "At the head of the Cismon Brenta valley our troops after climbing, under the enemy fire, precipitous walls, succeeded in capturing the second peak of Col Bricon, at the south west of the first peak, 2,604 meters high, which was already in our possession. In the upper Cordevole during the night of Oct. 1 a determined bombing attack against one of our advanced positions on the slopes of Monte Sief was decisively repulsed."

NEW YORK.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, foes since 1912, clasped hands for a moment at the Union League club reception to Charles E. Hughes. "How do you do?" said Mr. Taft. "How do you do?" Mr. Roosevelt rejoined. Each bowed and Mr. Roosevelt passed on to shake hands with other guests, leaving Mr. Taft to greet those who followed. "We shook hands," Mr. Taft said afterward, "just as any gentlemen would shake hands." Col. Roosevelt refused to comment on the meeting. Tonight's reception was arranged some time ago and public announcement was made that Prof. Taft and Col. Roosevelt would meet.

CHICAGO.—State's Attorney Hoyne promises to carry the investigation of the Sportsmen's club and its alleged relation to the city hall from the stage of publicity to that of grand jury investigation today. Henry Berger, who is conducting the inquiry while Mr. Hoyne is confined at home with a broken ankle, thinks he can promise that indictments will be voted. The charges are: Conspiracy to perform an unlawful act. Embezzlement. Larceny by bailee. Obtaining money under false pretenses.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer of New York, who is in Chicago campaigning for the Woman's party against President Wilson, led an auto "flying squadron" into the downtown section. She, with the other women of the party, spoke to a street corner crowd of men. When a man heckled the speakers he found they were more than a match for him. He was jeered out of the crowd.

CATO AND THE WOMAN OF 49.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I have read with interest THE TRIBUNE editorial on "The Education of a Woman Aged 49." I agree with you that it is meritorious on the part of a woman, and even of a man, to undertake the study of Latin at that age. Cato, the Roman, we are told, took up the study of Greek at 80, but with this difference: That he took it up at his own expense, while the lady in question has taken it up at the expense of the state.

This leads to the inquiry of the editorial why this should be so. Of course, there is absolutely no reason for it. This whole state policy of free education from bottom to top is becoming a back-breaking burden upon every state and community. As THE TRIBUNE points out, a common school education is defensible because of the nature of democratic institutions, of which all children are, or may be, beneficiaries. There may even be some defense for a city high school or a city college, in which a very large percentage of the youth of a city may be educated. But there is no defense to the existence of the modern state university, capable of educating only an insignificant percentage of the young men and young women of the state. Of over a million young men and young women of college age in Illinois not over 12 or 14 thousand can enjoy the advantages of the state university with its nominal fees for tuition. To say that the other 990-odd thousand should help, with their elders, to pay for the education of a selected few is not a democratic but an aristocratic idea.

Our own state university, which began as the "Illinois Industrial university," financed largely by the United States government for the teaching and maintenance of agriculture and the mechanical arts, has been expanded to include schools of law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, accounting, journalism, and other white collar professions—schools often maintained for a mere handful of students. Surely the taxpayer should not be burdened with this expense in addition to the expense of local schools. New York state has managed to survive to the present day without any state university and keeps up its quota of professional men.

Moreover, in all the large cities of the country, Chicago included, there are thousands of young men and young women who are earning their living by day and paying for their professional education at night, paying anywhere from $100 to $240 per year for instruction. Why should not the state pay for their education, too? The fact is that higher education in the state has been promoted and exploited by professionals and experts on the plea that their departments are all open to the people of the state, when as a fact not 1 per cent of the people of the state can avail themselves of their opportunities. Why should not the functions of a state university be limited to those industries essential to the welfare and progress of the state, leaving the individuals who desire classical and purely cultural studies to seek them elsewhere? Why should an institution founded for industrial and agricultural purposes teach, doubtless very small classes, in modeling in clay, still life, Theocritus, Latin epigraphy, Latin satire, when better satire can be found in THE TRIBUNE any day; prosthetic dentistry, ethics of journalism, advanced sports writing, history of the ancient Greek states, the British people of the Victorian age, Geoffrey Chaucer, Walther von der Vogelweide, La Comédie of Honoré de Balzac [in French], Spanish literature in the sixteenth century, Dante, metaphysics, intermediate clogging and tap dancing? Evidently the intelligentsia must be included among those riding the taxpayer today.

EDWARD T. LEE.

WE THOUGHT WE HAD MENTIONED THEM.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 26.—Why do not the papers lay more stress on state and county taxes? These are worse than government taxes. The average man is not hurt bad by direct government taxes, but my taxes in Indiana are nearly 5 times what they were in 1917.

JOHN NOLAN.

BUYING BALL PLAYERS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The frank admission that the Athletics sold three of their best players to the Sox for the purpose of strengthening the team will act as a boomerang and will cause less interest in commercialized baseball. This continual trading of players among the major leagues is disgusting many fans. One year we root for a player. The next year he is on some other team and we boo him.

There should be no interchange of players in the big leagues. If a team cannot build itself up by drawing men from the minors or colleges it should not be deliberately strengthened by some other team simply to rake in more shekels. Do we see the colleges that have the strongest football teams helping out another school that happens to have a losing combination? No! Amateur sports are much more honest and honorable than professional outfits.

When a major league ball player is through he should be released or transferred to the minors, never again to be drafted or returned to the major leagues. Next year if the Sox win the pennant it will mean that Philadelphia was the cause of it! No wonder baseball is losing out!

J. C. WAGNER.

SUBURBAN RATES AND SERVICE.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—The writer is a resident of the far south side and is dependent on the Illinois Central suburban line for transportation. Despite the fact that the 20 per cent increase in rates of 1926 is still maintained, the trainmen received a 10 per cent cut, another 10 per cent cut is about to be proposed, 59 trains were laid off in the spring and 15 on Sept. 25, the consumer is still paying the same mileage.

Were the Illinois commerce commission, presumably the people's watchdog, less impotent, a hearing by that body would probably disclose that the users of the suburban service are carrying the brunt of the deficit incurred by the railroad in loss of passengers and freight.

Query: Who does the Illinois commerce commission serve? Should not the existing rate structure be reëxamined in the light of falling incomes, wages, and prices?

A HELPLESS KITTEN.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 26.—I write in the hope that the guilty one will read this or others of his kind who are too sensitive to decently do away with unwanted pets. Monday, in the very midst of the speeding traffic of an Indiana highway, I picked up a mite of a black kitten huddled in the rain, but brave in wild eyed defiance despite its injured jaw and broken leg. Hungering for warmth, it even tried to crawl closer to the dog in the car. In a nearby town I got the necessary tin box, cotton, and two bottles of chloroform. The poor little waif was purring when I placed it in the box to end its misery. It doesn't seem possible that there are still people who will leave a helpless animal to suffer a long and painful death of starvation, injury, and terror when a dime's worth of chloroform or a call on the humane society will do the trick so efficiently. The extra bottle of chloroform I am now carrying in the car for emergency.

TAXPAYING BY INSTALLMENTS.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—For a number of years I have been using a Christmas savings account as a means of accumulating enough money to meet my taxes. This year, owing to the failure of my bank to open its doors one sunny morning, the idea will not work out so well.

However, it seems to me that the county treasurer could arrange a similar method that would meet with great success. Instead of waiting until taxes were due and payable, why not permit taxpayers to deposit money in advance with the county treasurer, the same as Christmas savings accounts are handled at the banks?

Say my taxes amount to $300. I could deposit $6 weekly with the county treasurer for a period of 50 weeks and when the bill became due, there it is—and safe, too. No bother, no worry for either me or the collector.

HOPE FOR ACTION TO FINISH STREET WIDENING WORK

Want Moody Institute's Buildings Moved.

After the trial of a damage suit brought by the Moody Bible institute against the city, which is pending now in the Superior court, city officials believe that some action will be taken to move the institute's buildings back to the new building line along the widened North La Salle street at Chicago avenue.

Until the structures are moved the city is unable to complete the widening project, according to members of the board of local improvements. Buildings owned by the institute jut out from two to fourteen feet over land condemned by the city, preventing the construction of 17 foot sidewalks and curbs such as have been built along other sections of the improvement.

Call Sidewalk Dangerous.

Plats in the city hall show the sidewalk in front of some of the institute's buildings to be only 2½ feet wide. This condition is considered dangerous by city engineers, one of whom said that the life of any one walking on it would be jeopardized should an automobile jump the curb.

"Two persons," he said, "hardly can pass on a sidewalk of that width when it is narrowed by a building on one side and a parked automobile on the other."

The institute was awarded $896,227, according to the records, for its land condemned by the city. Payment of $530,445 has been made, the records show, leaving a balance due of $365,782. Joseph F. Grossman, second assistant corporation counsel, said yesterday that the city has no authority to take possession of condemned land until the property owner has been paid in full.

"In this case, however," said Mr. Grossman, "there are other factors to be taken into account. The amount of the award ordered by the courts was increased by the former administration when it appeared that a lawsuit would tie up the improvement indefinitely, and officials of the institute signed a written agreement that when the original award was paid they would move the buildings.

Original Award Paid.

"The amount of the original award has been paid in cash and a judgment has been given for the balance. But the only action taken by the institute was to demand further damages and interest on the judgment. The city cannot go beyond the terms of the agreement, so no money will be paid to the institute until it delivers title to the condemned property and the buildings are moved.

"And, because the city has no money to give to the institute, we asked its lawyers to sue the city for further amounts which they are seeking. That suit is pending in the Superior court, and we would like to get it to trial so the entire matter can be adjudicated and the improvement finished."

Hearst Operated On at Cleveland Hospital

Cleveland, O., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The condition of W. R. Hearst, newspaper publisher, tonight was reported as "very satisfactory." Mr. Hearst, who arrived in Cleveland last Thursday for a physical examination, submitted to a minor operation at the Cleveland Clinic hospital today, his secretary, J. Willicomb, announced.

PUBLIC RALLIES TO NEW HUNGRY CHILDREN'S FUND

Begins Giving Cash and Planning Benefits.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The announcement yesterday that THE TRIBUNE again would sponsor the Hungry School Children's fund was received with enthusiasm in many quarters. Some readers immediately sent what they could spare, while others went to work planning benefits to give the fund a new start. One of these was a school of music which is starting practice on a special program for the fund, while another is a woman's club which plans a ball.

The Hungry School Children's fund will start with an empty treasury. The books for last year, when nearly $49,000 was collected and expended for free noonday meals for thousands of needy pupils, have been closed. The task ahead is a great one. It will demand again the support of club women, school children, parents, teachers, shop girls, office workers, churches, and business men.

Every Penny Used.

Last year the gifts came from rich and poor when it was learned that children were fainting in classrooms of the public schools because they were hungry. Contributions flooded the fund, but even the widespread generosity of a sympathetic public was none too much. Every penny of the $49,000 was used, but more was needed.

There is little need to repeat the appeals of William J. Bogan, superintendent of the public schools, and Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department, who asked in yesterday's TRIBUNE, in behalf of thousands of underprivileged, that the fund be resumed this year. The need for free lunches exists—those of the parent-teacher group know it and so do the children who depended on the Hungry School Children's fund all last school year for their one hot nourishing meal of the day.

Mrs. Silberman First.

Mrs. S. Silberman, who contributed regularly all summer to the ice and camp funds sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, was the first to send a gift for the 1932-'33 Hungry School Children's fund. She sent $5, and Lauretta Bosch, another friend of the two funds, sent $2. An anonymous $1.10 gave the fund a start of $9.10, received before the ink was scarcely dry on the announcement that the fund was to function again.

In order to close the books for last year acknowledgment is now made to those contributors who sent gifts from time to time during the summer after daily acknowledgments were discontinued. These are as follows from June 28, 1932, to Sept. 13, 1932:

$58.85—Employés, state of Illinois, Springfield.
$20—A. M. O.
$5—Florence, Mary and Patsy Stapley.
$2.20—Fees.
$2.17—Employés, state of Illinois, Springfield.
$2—Matilda McKinley.
$1.40—Serths Hirsh club.
$1.15—Fees.
$1—Mary E. Combs.
Total—$200.27.
Previously acknowledged—$48,883.01.

This gives the Hungry School Children's fund a grand total of $48,591.28 for the season 1931-'32. Hereafter the fund will carry the new total started yesterday.

Contributors are requested to use the coupon to be found elsewhere in this issue. Both should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

PANAMA CANAL TO BAR EMPLOYES FROM BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Panama Canal Zone, Oct. 3.—Several hundred Canal Zone employés who are engaged in private business outside their regular work received a setback today. Acting Gov. J. L. Schley instructed department heads to give him the names of such employés who had received authority to engage in outside business or employment. Gov. Schley said that in view of present business conditions such permits should not be granted and intimated that the permits would be canceled on Nov. 1.

2 LITTLE GIRLS STRUCK BY AUTO IN ROGERS PARK

Two little girls were seriously injured last evening by an automobile driven by Mrs. Effie Bumgardner of 7755 Haskins avenue, in front of their home at 6908 North Clark street. The victims are Carmella Lepore, 6 years old, and her sister Jeanette, 3 years old. At the Rogers Park hospital it was said each had suffered a fractured skull.

Two unidentified Negroes, believed to have been Chicagoans, were burned to death yesterday when their automobile struck a tree a mile east of Litchfield, Ill. The license plates on the car were issued to Calbert Sobrian, 3615 Giles avenue.

John Klewczyk, 40 years old, 7553 West 63d place, Argo, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries suffered Sunday night when he was struck by an automobile in Summit. His death brought the Cook county motor toll for 1932 to 856.

Edward Fichter, 71 years old, of Fox Lake, was killed yesterday by an automobile while walking in Fox Lake road. Fichter formerly operated the Mayflower hotel and pavilion in Fox Lake.

Osborne Triggs, 42 years old, engineer at the Kane county tuberculosis sanitarium, died yesterday of injuries suffered Friday when his automobile was struck by an interurban train. He was a former president of the Aurora real estate board.

Bark of a Dog Causes Serious Traffic Accident

Greensburg, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—A dog's bark caused a serious automobile accident in state road 29 near here early today. The dog snapped and barked at the heels of a horse being led along the highway. The horse jumped in front of an automobile driven by Joseph Drake, Indianapolis, wrecking Drake's car and seriously injuring him, and killing the horse.

SOURCES OF TAX INCOME DRIED UP, COUNTY WARNED

Expert Demands Curb on Spending.

As city officials arranged for a meeting today to discuss reduction of 1931 tax levies, members of the county board were warned by their fiscal expert yesterday that the tax-paying "goose that laid the golden egg" is dead and that they must prepare for drastic cuts in their expenditures.

Mayor Cermak will head the city hall delegation which meets this noon with the citizens' committee on public expenditures, headed by Fred W. Sargent, to discuss reductions totaling $8,761,332 in 1931 tax levies for various city institutions and purposes other than those of the corporate fund. Mr. Sargent's committee has recommended to bankers that they make no further purchases of tax warrants from the city until these cuts are made, to be reflected in tax bills for 1931 which will be sent out in January.

Where Cuts Are Asked.

The citizens' committee asked no reduction in the $50,009,810 levy for the corporate fund, nor in the $22,898,683 levy for bond and interest payments, against which tax warrants have been issued up to a large proportion of their total. The other levies as they now stand, and the amounts to which the committee asks that they be cut, follow:

Fund.	At present.	Committee request.
Working cash	$4,000,000	Eliminate
Library building	365,035	Eliminate
Library	2,196,210	$1,500,000
Tuberculosis sanitarium	2,737,763	2,300,000
Judgments	1,400,000	1,000,000
Police pensions	3,413,078
Fire pensions	4,315,246	*7,300,000
Municipal pensions	2,640,000

*For all pensions.

The library board and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium trustees have already adopted ordinances putting into effect the reductions in their tax levies demanded by the committee. These ordinances, which must be approved by the city council, have been presented to the latter body and have been published pending action at the next council meeting.

Expect Pay Roll Negotiation.

The discussion today is expected to include also arrangements for obtaining funds for city pay rolls by renewed purchases of tax warrants by banks. Besides the mayor, City Controller Szymzak, Corporation Counsel Sexton, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] will represent the city.

The next meeting of the city council is scheduled for Nov. 10. Since both the council and its finance committee must approve the tax levy reductions, special meetings may be called for this purpose. It is considered likely by city officials, however, that upon the promise of the city administration to put the cuts into effect, banks may buy enough tax warrants this week to permit disbursement of two weeks' back pay to city employés.

The warning to the county commissioners that they must cut expenses in view of dwindling revenue was voiced by Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, as the board was considering means of getting pay roll funds for county workers, whose pay is now four month in arrears.

Employés in the office of County Assessor Jacobs requested the board to give them their back pay in tax warrants. It has been rumored about the county building that Mr. Jacobs has found parties who are willing to buy these warrants from the employés at par. Representatives of other county offices reported to the board yesterday, however, that their employés were opposed to accepting tax warrants and the board refused to issue warrants to the assessor's employés or to any other office.

President Whealan of the count board told the employés' representatives that the board expected to sell loop banks a $455,000 tax warrant this week, which would furnish funds for a half month's pay.

Later Mr. O'Connor reopened the discussion, suggesting that it would be the fair thing for the board to give tax warrants to those employés who want them. The commissioners overruled him. Then Commissioner Marie Plumb started to question him.

"During the last two months," said Mrs. Plumb, "we've been told from time to time by you and President Whealan that negotiations with bankers were coming to a conclusion and we were going to get some money. We've never been informed just what is holding up the deal. I'd like to know what it is."

"We have only one warrant to offer," explained Mr. O'Connor. "That is the $455,000 warrant on the gas tax fund [which is not dependent upon property tax collections for redemption]. The bankers' attitude is that, since 1931 taxes are going to be paid in two installments and that now only about half of the taxpayers make any effort to pay their taxes, it will mean that when the first installment comes due only about a quarter of the levy will be paid. They think that's very bad.

Demands Curb on Spending.

"The goose that laid the golden egg is dead. I told the people around this county building just that three years ago. We can't go along as we have in the past.

"We've simply got to stop spending money. It's the only way to cure our situation. Our revenue next year will be less than at any time for 16 years, and our expenses, undoubtedly, will be just as high as ever."

"Well, I wouldn't say that," said Mrs. Plumb. "We reduced expenses this year by $5,000,000."

"Our revenue next year is going to be reduced a far greater percentage than that," countered Mr. O'Connor.

At the suggestion of Commissioner Amelia Sears, Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee, appointed her, Commissioner George Miller and President Whealan members of a committee to confer with bankers on the tax warrant and pay roll situation.

The finance committee adopted a resolution by Commissioner Walter J. La Buy, providing that the board apply to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for loans to pay mothers' and blind persons' pensions, an obligation of the county. The resolution also asks that funds be sought to meet county pay rolls. The city sought pay roll loans several months ago, but its plea was refused.

STOCKHOLM REDS PLASTER LABELS ON WALES' AUTO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 3.—An unpleasant incident marred the prince of Wales' Scandinavian trip last night. A party of communists plastered gummed labels on the prince's automobile as he was leaving the royal opera.

The labels urged Wales to use his influence with the American government for the release of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, imprisoned in California for the Preparedness day bombing in 1916, and besought liberation of Indian anarchists.

It was officially announced today that King Gustav has bestowed upon Prince George the Order of the Seraphim, highest distinction granted to foreigners. One of the latest recipients was the duke of Brabant, Belgian crown prince, before his engagement to Princess Astrid. Wales received the order in 1923.

PETITIONS URGE SCHOOL CLOSING IN PAY CRISIS

Plot Is Charged by Men Teachers' Union.

Active dissatisfaction among Chicago's 14,000 unpaid school teachers appeared to be spreading yesterday.

President L. E. Myers of the school board was called upon by the Men Teachers' union to explain why the teachers had been forgotten by the citizens' committee and the bankers after their demands for a reduced budget had been complied with. Another group launched petitions in all the schools to be presented to the board asking that the schools be closed immediately. Another petition is to be launched today seeking a special session of the legislature to protect teachers' jobs in the event they should walk out.

Charge Pledges Unkept.

"It seems to these employés [of the board of education]," the letter of the Men Teachers' union to Mr. Myers read in part, "that the citizens' committee on public expenditures has, to put it mildly, fallen down on its pledge to the board of education. Representatives of the teachers' organizations heard the solemn and deliberate pledge by the chairman of that committee to the board of education in open meeting early this summer, that if the board would meet the demands of his committee and cut $18,000,000 from its tax levy for 1932, the committee would do everything in its power to secure financial relief for the schools. Particularly would it put on a campaign to get taxes paid. At that same meeting representatives of the bankers stated that they would be guided by the recommendations of the citizens' committee in their attitude toward board of education tax anticipation warrants. . . .

"With its objectives of the moment secured, however, the committee seemed to forget its pledge. According to press reports, the banks definitely refuse to buy board of education warrants. According to the pledge made, therefore, it must be that the Citizens' committee has advised the banks not to buy board of education warrants.

Charge Plot to Ruin Schools.

"In these circumstances it is hardly surprising that there is now a widespread and rapidly growing conviction among the teachers and other employés of the board of education that not only are they being deliberately made the victims of the financial and power purposes of a small, powerful, and ruthless group, but that there appears to be an intention on the part of that group to gradually ruin, and so abolish a considerable part of tax supported education."

Mr. Myers said he would confer with members of the Citizens' committee and banking leaders before making a reply.

FUNEREAL SETTING MARKS OPENING OF NEW WOMEN'S COURT

The 160 women and girls who appeared in the new Women's court which opened yesterday on the tenth floor of the police building at 1121 South State street hardly recognized it for what to most of them was the familiar old Morals court.

The usual buzz of conversation was hushed. Huge baskets containing stiff floral pieces flanked the bench. The women led before the bar by policewomen stared dazedly at the sombre floral array, which lent a funeral cast to the proceedings which kindly smiles from the new judge, Judge Joseph A. Graber, could not entirely dispel.

Deputy Bailiff James Gorman, a rose in his buttonhole, politely suggested that the women take seats on one side of the room, the men on the other. One object of this arrangement, it was explained, was to discourage soliciting by attorneys. Up in front, attorneys who in the old Morals court had done a brisk business, now sat glumly. Representatives of bonding companies appeared subdued.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court made a speech in which he said the court was created partly in interest of reclaiming wayward women.

ANOTHER $600,000 SAVED NEW YORK BY MAYOR McKEE

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Continuing on his way with his economies in spite of the fact that the budget making power has been taken from him, Mayor Joseph V. McKee ordered the commissioners of the city today to relinquish 128 high priced motor cars before the first of November, adding a saving of $600,000 to his long list of economies.

Some of the cars will be placed in a city "taxi service" for the use of the commissioners in pursuance of their duties; others will be scrapped; still others will be sold at public auction. The commissioners affected are only those under the appointment of the mayor.

At the same time the mayor revealed that he was opposed to the fifty year subway financing scheme advocated for several years by Controller Berry.

He revealed, too, that previous to the board of estimate's action in stripping him of his budget making power he had evolved a modification of the Delaney plan that would insure the continuance of the 5 cent fare and save the city in the neighborhood of $25,000,000 in next year's tax bill.

80,000 People in this picture with 53 MILLION Dollars to Spend

WHAT a crowd! Every walk of life, every trade and vocation, every neighborhood and near-by town represented here. Bankers and lawyers, clerks and stenographers, mechanics and drivers—all rubbing shoulders—all with money to spend, and spending it—all laughing, thrilling and shouting a welcome to the Indians' first game in Cleveland's new stadium.

● These 80,000 folks spend 53 million dollars each year for Retail Merchandise. And there are 3,000,000 like them whose annual expenditures reach the staggering total of TWO BILLION DOLLARS!

But don't go after it blindly! Make every advertising dollar do double duty. You can—in Cleveland!

For blind buying is gone. Advertising prefaced on guesswork and theories passed with the speculative boom days of '28 and '29—passed with the advent of a NEW DAY of MERCHANDISING in Cleveland.

Today you can move with certainty in selling this market. You can focus your advertising and merchandising on any desired objective. You can definitely cut sales costs in Cleveland. For the Market Survey Department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer has found the Buyers—traced them home into every neighborhood in the city—into each of the 145 cities and towns in the Cleveland Trade Empire. We know who the buyers are—where they live—how they buy and how much they buy.

We know how and why they respond to advertising—how much they spend for food, clothes, furniture, automobiles, books and seeds—not only as a whole but by each of *268 separate small physical groupings of approximately 1,000 families each in Greater Cleveland.

We know how many are working, how many are illiterate, their country of origin, their age, sex, health and marital state.

In short, we know all the vital population characteristics about Cleveland that determine SALES!

For the Market Survey Department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer has put this market under a sales microscope of exceeding accuracy. We've discovered and uncovered every pertinent figure and fact that make for sales. And SALES, after all, is the primary objective, the vital need, today as never before!

It was the collection, the correlation, the publication of only a part of these data that caused Col. Leonard P. Ayres to comment that "Cleveland has more information concerning the composition, the distribution, and the characteristics of its population than exists in any other city in the world!"

These facts are yours without obligation. The Plain Dealer is glad to give them to you, not as an advertising solicitation, but as a direct help to sales, when sales mean so much to everybody!

Newspapers Can Sell Your Merchandise NOW!

*If you failed to read the previous Plain Dealer pages in this paper, write now for full description of the 268 census tracts.

3 STAGES OF A COLD

Far Easier Relieved in the First Than in the Second or Third Stage!

It has been discovered that a cold ordinarily passes through three stages. The first is the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours. The second is the Watery Secretion Stage, 1 to 3 days. The third, the Mucous Secretion Stage. A cold is far easier relieved in the first stage than in the later stages.

The wise thing is not to let the cold get into the second stage. Check it quickly. This you can do by taking Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A few of these tablets taken immediately upon catching cold will usually expel the cold over night and thus prevent the infection spreading within the system. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine routs a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels — kills the cold germs, infection and fever in the system—relieves the headache and grippy feeling—tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

No worry about what you're taking when you take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is utterly safe. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. Does not upset the stomach or make the head ring. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Quinine. It has been the standard cold tablet for years. Handy, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. Remember, anything less than the treatment afforded by Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is taking chances. Get it today.

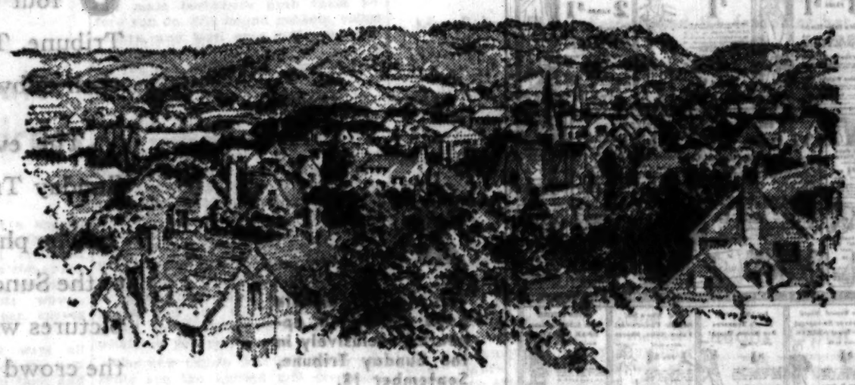
RARELY DOES ONE NEWSPAPER COVER SO THOROUGHLY A GREAT CITY AND SUBURBS



as The Philadelphia BULLETIN

IT is a rare advertising economy when one newspaper thoroughly covers a great city and suburbs.

It is still rarer when the advertising cost of that newspaper is one of the lowest in America.

Philadelphia is one great market offering this combined economy . . . offering an opportunity for sales work, today, at rock-bottom cost.

The Philadelphia Bulletin sensed the need of a home newspaper in this City famous for homes; placed a proper value upon news; avoided sensational handling of news.

In return, Philadelphians have given The Bulletin a great growth . . . an enormous increase: From 6,000 circulation in 1895 to 505,528 net paid daily in August, 1932.

Philadelphians have transformed a small daily into one of America's great newspapers, giving The Bulletin more than double the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined:

And every copy is net paid, every purchaser an interested reader, because premiums and contests have never been used.

Philadelphia has much to offer the advertising investor today: Here, half a million families earn more and spend more than the average family elsewhere. They live in individual homes—85% of them—and 55% own their own.

And their reading habits have eliminated duplication and waste from advertising costs, because nearly everybody reads The Bulletin.

Paralleling Sales Opportunities

The Philadelphia Bulletin gives increasing coverage as incomes grow. Its greatest coverage is in the higher income groups as shown in the following tabulation taken from Philadelphia Newspaper Reader Survey, compiled by American Association of Advertising Agencies. (Complete tabulations sent upon request.)

INCOMES	$5,000 to $9,999	INCOMES	$10,000 and over

ON SUNDAY, Sept. 18, Mandel Brothers ran four pages of advertising in the Chicago Tribune. Two pages featured a dollar day event in their subway store.

The event was announced exclusively in the Sunday Tribune.

The photographs show how the women readers of the Sunday Tribune responded on Monday. Both pictures were taken Monday morning. One shows the crowd in the hosiery department and the other the crowd in the shoe department. All day long similar throngs packed the aisles of the subway store.

"Monday was the greatest Dollar Day in our history!" said the Mandel Brothers advertisement in Tuesday's Tribune.

The fact is that the Sunday Tribune double page ad had packed more people into Mandel's subway store on Monday than that department ever before had accommodated in one day. Subway store sales in dollars were reported to be six times those of a comparable day a year ago.

Thus the evidence piles up that you can get business right now in the great Chicago market when you put across your sales messages in the newspaper which has the attention and the confidence of the largest audience of women in Chicago and suburbs.

Daily and Sunday, the newspaper that can do a big job for you at low cost is the newspaper with the dominant coverage—the Chicago Tribune.

All day Monday, September 19, a crowd (see the upper photo) packed the shoe department of Mandel's subway store in response to the Sunday Tribune ad reproduced here. Here's how (below) the women of Chicago responded to Mandel Brothers' subway store hosiery offers advertised exclusively in the Sunday Tribune.

Mrs. Lowndes Is Pleasant in Tale of Crime

Deals with Simple Class in England.

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

THE forthright, pleasant manner in which Mrs. Belloc Lowndes expounds her gruesome tales makes them always something of a treat. In "Jenny Newstead" [Putman] she uses as the basis of her plot the general scheme of that ingenious Britisher who drowned his successive brides in their Saturday night baths, the idea being to accumulate savings other than his own. Jenny, certainly the most appealing and gentle of the brides, proved his undoing, and very pleased you are that matters turn out so well for her and her morose second lover. A book like this reminds you that there is a class in England that America lacks, very simple people, asking little of life but a quiet and comfortable home and an affectionate family circle.

Through Mrs. Lowndes' skillful pen you watch their one troubled period wax and wane, each incident adding its weight of suspense and contributing to the horrific whole. She's a grand writer of the kind of stories she chooses to write.

A conspiracy for acquiring the savings of others is the backbone of "Three Dead Men" [Brentano], by Paul McGuire. It's a good story featuring various sorts of detectives and a variety of murders. In the good old days we might not have believed what some people would do for a few thousand dollars, but now, we see their point and, though disapproving, understand how they get that way.

I don't know how you'll feel about it, but I am delighted that for the moment, at least, H. C. Bailey has laid the lackadaisical Mr. Fortune away in moth balls and is exploiting instead in the "Red Castle of Mystery" [Crime Club] the very remarkable Mr. Joshua Clunk who alternately rouses and allays your suspicions, singing hymns the while. The story revolves around an ancient and ruinous castle, inhabited by an ancient and impoverished family whose mystic heirlooms are their last possession. There is nothing very probable about it but it is highly entertaining and keeps you guessing to the bitter end, after suspecting wrongly a number of semi-innocent people and misplacing your confidence in one or two wrong 'uns.

George Simenon is a young Frenchman who makes his bow to American detective story fans with "The Death of Monsieur Gallet" [Covici-Friede]. This is one, so says the jacket, of 280 books that M. Simenon has written in 25 years. We arrive at these figures by deciding that he could not possibly have written even this book before he was 3 years old and he is now announced to be 28. It's not a bad story at all, considering, and you can read it almost as fast as M. Simenon wrote it so you might as well take a try.

And now we move to the American scene. Drury Lane is with us again in "The Tragedy of Y." [Viking Press] by Barnaby Ross. The distiguished ex-actor gloomily tracks his criminal through monstrous attempts at crime and entangles the reader in a plot so complicated that even the solution seems possible. A dreadful family are the protagonists and your chief regret is that so few of the various attempts at painful death are successful. But it is a rich and meaty book and will please immensely those who take their stories of crime and detection seriously.

"Red Herring" [Morrow], by Edward Acheson, is a queer kind of story and well handled. You assist at the crime which turns out to be more drastic than was intended and from the very beginning you know what it is all about and become really interested in the nefarious scheme of the young newspaper man who is the inverted hero. The book is recommended as good reading and would be better if it moved to a ruthless conclusion. Our hero should have stuck to the rigors of bathtub gin and never succumbed to the lure of Riviera cocktails.

And if you never did like bridge here's just the book for you, "Death of a Bridge Expert" [Simon & Schuster], by C. C. Nicolet. What you don't learn about that bridge playing lot isn't worth knowing. Dead or alive they seem more like those century-old Chinese eggs than merely hard boiled. But its a new milieu for detective stories and very mysterious in its way. Ever since reading it I have been wondering how Mr. Nicolet ever makes up a table of bridge these days.

New Divinity Quadrangle Is Dedicated at Yale

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—At the dedication of the new Sterling divinity quadrangle of Yale university today, President Angell said that in a time when many voices are pronouncing obituaries upon religion, Yale proclaimed her faith "in the enduring value of spiritual forces by dedicating to their cultivation these gracious and beautiful buildings from Yale's great benefactor, John W. Sterling. As an organic part of Yale university, the divinity school shares the true university ideal of complete freedom in the pursuit of truth and equal freedom in the promulgating of such truth when found," President Angell continued.

The Short Bob Returns

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Elinor Smith models "La Caprice" hairdress at the meeting of Illinois Hairdressers' association. The hairdressers announced that the short bob has returned for a long stay.

The Style of Perky Little Hats Brings Change in Hairdress

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Those perky little hats the stylists have fashioned for fall have played havoc with milady's coiffure. A shoulder bob once thought so stylish is now about as neat as a soldier with long hair wearing a trench cap.

Long bobs are out and short ones are in to stay. At least that is the ultimatum issued by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association at a meeting last night in the Hotel Sherman.

A bevy of models in afternoon, sports and evening frocks demonstrated the correct coiffure for each occasion. Each coiffure had a special name such as caprice, rhythm, le plume, la charmant, and coquette, but on the whole they were somewhat the same, hair off the face, parted on the right side, deep soft waves, rather wide, from ear to ear, curves at the nape of the neck.

The coiffures presented were all short. It was explained that the hair must not be more than an inch and a half below the natural neckline, and must be curled outward and up off the neck. The hair is dressed to the left, exposing the left side of the head.

One beauty shop owner exhibiting the new styles warned that the shorter bob necklines demand constant attention. No letting the hair go to seed. Weekly visits should be made, she said, to the hairdresser in order to keep a neat coiffure that will set of the new style hats, and hats, she added, dictate the style of hairdressing.

The "caprice" coiffure is close to the head in diagonal waves. To the left of the back, where they would be shown to great advantage under a hat, were a cluster of curls. The "la plume" style gave the effect of feathery, soft hair.

A few pointers on running a business were offered the members of the association by Herbert V. Prochnow, of the First National bank.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

A FRESH START.

"O, I'm sure it was Jim Anderman," said Roy Steele to Prof. Fordney. "I happened to open my window when I noticed him standing under the light at the entrance door for a minute as if in thought. He wore a soft felt hat and he had his coat collar turned up against the snow. It was about 8 o'clock."

"And you're sure it was him you heard in the next apartment?" asked Fordney.

"Well, after seeing him . . . yes. He and Mrs. Torry have quarreled frequently."

"Inspector Kelley is in there now looking around. Did you hear the shot?"

"I thought I did. I heard a noise that sounded like one."

"Do you know Anderman, intimately?"

"O, no. I met him once in her apartment."

After thanking him Fordney joined Kelley. He was saying, "You'll have to PROVE you left here at seven, Anderman."

"Yes," interrupted the professor, "Steele says he saw you leave at eight."

"I can't PROVE it. I told you that! We did quarrel because she had a date and refused to tell with whom. But I didn't kill her!"

"Old blatherskite," he muttered.

"Who, me?" indignantly inquired Kelley.

"No. Course not, you hugger mugger! You haven't started on this case yet. Better begin with Steele!"

Newest Robes Offer Comfort and Fashion

Color Combinations Add to Breakfasts.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ABOUT the first thing you start looking for these crisp mornings is a cozy and preferably wooly robe you can wrap around your shivering silhouette. The first few seconds all you crave is comfort, but later you demand a certain amount of fashion . . . robes, despite their heart and body warming woolness, that have a well designed flair for being picturesque, even dashingly audacious, for the hurried and hectic minutes you pause to toy with orange juice or nibble a sliver of toast.

Breakfast table autocrats of the masculine gender have a perturbing way about the breakfast ensembles of their feminine partners, so say all warning novelists and advisers; evidently the designers are convinced of this, too, for the new collections of wool and flannel robes are robes to rave about.

This year you can demand the early morning attention of the most faithful male newspaper reader with a jersey robe of pale blue, trimmed with bands of deeper blue . . . it's a clever little creation with loose raglan sleeves and pockets and a swanky wrap belt around your waistline. All the graduated bands of deeper blue jersey decorate the cuffs, pocket tops, collar, and some models use some of the contrasting bands around the lower edge of the robe itself.

Good old fashioned smooth, thin flannel in some utterly ravishing 1932 boudoir shades of rosy flesh, sky blue, a thick creamy white, and pale green are knockouts. Simple tailored robes, with well fitted collars, enough pockets to satisfy even a small boy, and wide wrap around front sections complete the appeal of these tried and true woolies for keeping all shivering souls comfortable.

There are new camel's hair robes that will start a stampede . . . nice, warm featherweight things in a lot of luscious colors that ought to keep them for gals only, but so good looking and masculinely simple and wearable that caution is advised, when parking them, lest male borrowers grab them before you do. Silk bound pockets, rolled collars, and turn over cuffs, the silk in subdued but contrasting colors, are all the decoration these simple robes can boast about!

You've probably never seen so many woolly things to keep the female population warm as you will see in the shops these days. Padded robes for very young and budding budgets are made of dotted cottons in bright colors . . . padded robes for more aspiring breakfast eaters, that demand swank and warmth combined with beauty, are made of soft silks and satins. These are much lower in price than they have been for years, and the colors are brilliant, pastel, or merely moderately gay, whatever you may desire.

The new things that will make you smile are the knitted and crocheted copies of famous old timers that hugged your grandmother and great-grandmother . . . shell pink and soft blue knitted or chocheted robes and jackets in quaint old patterns and designs. You'll find them in short editions and a few in the long robe models . . . refreshingly demure and dated but quite the newest, most decorative breakfast hug-me-tights you can slip into.

It's no trick at all to hop out of bed this season with such attractive and effective warm woolies ready for service.

Studebaker Theater Opera Season Will Open Next Saturday

A bit earlier than had been previously announced, Alfredo Salmaggi will begin his opera season at the Studebaker theater next Saturday afternoon with a performance of "Aida." The performance is stated to be in honor of the memory of the late Cleofonte Campanini, who was an important figure in the first decade of the Chicago Opera. The cast will include Delia Samoiloff in the name part, Rosita Fordieri as Amneris, Pasquale Ferarra as Radames, Joseph Royer as Amonasro, Nino Ruisi, and Giuseppe Montavani. The conductor will be Gabriele Simeoni.

De Wolf Hopper, famous for years as a Gilbert and Sullivan comedian, attended the dress rehearsal of "Pinafore" at the Chicago Woman's club theater yesterday afternoon, where tonight his wife, Lillian Glaser Hopper, will sing the part of Josephine. The rest of the cast will consist of Chicago artists.

Ernest Truex Has Role Made to His Measure

Laughs Open Season of Theater Society.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Ernest Truex is the best bantamweight comedian of the American stage and in "Whistling in the Dark," which came to the Erlanger last night to mark the beginning of the American Theater society's activities in Chicago, he finds a rôle exactly in his métier. His depiction of perky, pretentious assurance, masking the comic terrors of a little fellow who is quaking in his boots, sends ripples of laughter over the melodramatic surface of this successful adventure into blood and thunder humor.

This play, conscious of the fact that it hovers between comedy and farce, supplies its own subtitle: "The Toothpaste Murder Case." It is an adroit treatment of a far-fetched fable that follows the pattern of and also lightly satirizes the output of crime fiction that overcrowds the shelves of the book shops.

It contains a massmeeting of gangsters, true to the most lurid traditions of the cinema, on assassination bent, and in the midst of them stands Mr. Truex, alternately puffing out his chest with self-satisfaction and pulling in his ears from fear. He is droll; he is quaint; he is persuasive, and in every stroke of situation and turn of dialogue he demonstrates the already well known fact that he is a player of superlative skill in his special line of virile half portions.

"Whistling in the Dark" does not ask you to believe that Mr. Truex, as a mighty atom of the mystery story business, ever walked into a lair of murderous bootleggers and became their intellectual captive, although its story is based upon such an assumption. A few years ago this piece would have been designed as a dream play, and its hero would have come out of his nightmare at the final curtain to inform the customers that it was only a hoax.

But in these light-minded and wise-cracking times rationalisation is not regarded as necessary in play-writing; and "Whistling in the Dark" runs along its diverting, preposterous course with nothing more than a few gestures toward realism. It is, indeed, a neat, ingenious demonstration in the craft of trick plot-making, with the thrills of its melodrama subdued in favor of the kinks in its sense of humor.

The first act deals with the gang in session, lusting for the life of a high police official, and with Mr. Truex's innocent appearance in their midst as a wealthy novelist looking for a rentable house in the country. Of course he brings a pretty girl with him. When he has boasted for ten minutes about his genius for inventing perfect crimes, the gangsters put him to work as their master mind.

The second act is devoted to Mr. Truex's feverish and terror-stricken invention of the tooth paste murder, with cyanide of potassium as the lethal drug, and to its demonstration upon a double-crossing member of the lodge of bootleggers. In the third act Mr. Truex's imagination gives birth to another masterpiece—the radio call for help. He transforms a receiving set into a sending device in a way that is said to be practicable.

Claire Trevor, a new ingénue, acts Mr. Truex's girl friend with adolescent charm, and the gangsters are represented according to the formula for rough-necks. The première marked the first assemblage of the American Theater society's audience, which seemed ready to enjoy such diverting trifles as "Whistling in the Dark," and also hopeful for plays of weightier content.

Good Things to Eat Fail to Tempt Bakers

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

More than 1,000 bakers demonstrated their peculiar powers of resistance yesterday at the opening of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the American Bakers' association by sauntering unconcernedly past tables of cakes, doughnuts, petit fours, cinnamon rolls, cookies and pies.

"Aren't they allowed to sample anything?" a baker on the committee for dispensing information was asked.

"Certainly," he said. "They aren't interesting in sampling, that's all."

At the close of the day the exhibits lay intact. No policemen were on duty to guard the crisp coffee cake and alluring macaroons; no tables were roped off. Only one exhibit, that of "Mr. Austin of Mitcham, Surry, England," was encased behind glass, an unnecessary precaution. Not a baker took a nibble of anything as he walked along.

Little swapping of recipes went on among the assembled bakers. The ordinary housewife, who the minute she laid eyes on that angel food cake or that blueberry pie or that Dutch apple tart would rush around trying to find a recipe for it, would be shocked at what might be called a baker's code of ethics. They don't ask for recipes.

The principal address at yesterday's session, the first of a four day program, was made by Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the National Public Health Service.

A skeptical attitude toward the recently popular mania for food fads is developing in the country, according to Dr. Cummings. With it is coming a return to a simple diet, he said. He criticized that theory of how to reduce which advocates doing without butter, or without bread, or without potatoes.

"Any one who wants to reduce may do so by reducing the amount of all food proportionately, without attempting to omit altogether any particular item," he said.

Ceremony to Be Held at Cathedral.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS HELEN REND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Rend of 70 Scott street, and John Vaughan Clarke III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bertram Clarke of Pasadena, will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Holy Name cathedral. The wedding will be a small one, with only the families and a comparative few of the bride's and bridegroom's friends as guests. A reception to follow the ceremony at the Casino will also be a small affair.

The bride's sister, Miss Mary Rend, will be her only attendant and Alfred D. Hill of Wellesley, Mass., will serve as best man. The ushers will be the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Isaac Sprague of Boston; his cousin, Hempstead Washburne; Hyde Gillette, who returned a few days ago with his bride, the former Marie Smith, a cousin of Mr. Clarke's, from their honeymoon in Bermuda; Robert Glenn, and Howard Whitehouse. The Rev. Father Joseph Morrison, pastor of Holy Name, will officiate.

The bridegroom's father and his sister, Mrs. Brison Wood, have come from Pasadena for the wedding, but illness prevented Mrs. Clarke from making the trip. Mrs. Rend's sister, Mrs. Theron Butler Miller of Columbus, O., and another aunt of the bride, Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell of New York, with her debutante daughter, Miss Rita Mitchell, are also to be out of town guests. Mrs. Isaac Sprague accompanied her husband to Chicago.

When they return in November from a wedding trip the bride and bridegroom will reside at 222 East Pearson street.

Plan Tea for English Bishop.

It's quite far in advance, but already the English-Speaking Union is making elaborate plans for a tea to be given on Nov. 7 for the Lord Bishop of Exeter, Lord William Gascoyne Cecil, who with his wife, Lady Florence Cecil, will be here then at the invitation of Bishop George Craig Stewart. The Rt. Rev. Lord Cecil is the second son of the third Marquis of Salisbury, prime minister of Queen Victoria in the closing years of her reign.

The Winnetka board of the Northwestern University Settlement is having its annual fashion show on Saturday of this week in the theater of the Skokie school in Winnetka and most of this season's north shore debutantes are to be mannequins.

Mrs. William W. Darrow is general chairman; Mrs. Donald Defrees, chairman of exhibits; Mrs. Chester Sargent, in charge of the models; Mrs. Everett Graff, program and advertising chairman; Mrs. Ernst von Ammon, stage properties, and Mrs. Warren A. Lamson, chairman of the board. A feature of the show will be a modern bridal party and a fashionable one of fifty years ago in which the bride will wear a Redfern model that belonged to a member of Mrs. Defrees' family.

Ines de Soriano Wedding Plans.

More news about Ines de Soriano's fiancé, Gonzalo de la Gandara, was received in a letter from Ines' mother, the Marquise de Ivanrey, to her brother, Chauncey B. Blair. Gonzalo is the son of the Marquis de la Gandara, very prominent socially in Spain and Italy.

The young man is tall, slim, and dark, 27 years old, and was a cavalry officer in Spain during the monarchy. He was on guard at the palace on that memorable night when the king left Spain, the night before the queen and the rest of the family left.

Ines has known Gonzalo for some time and the romance budded when she was in Biarritz visiting her grandmother. Both young people went to Geneva for the marquise's consent, and it was from there that the cable announcing the engagement in Chicago was sent last month.

The wedding is planned for the spring, perhaps before. The marquise is the former Italia Blair of Chicago and Ines has been here numerous times, having made her debut at the Casino in the winter of 1928-'29.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne have returned to their apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive after spending the summer at their Santa Barbara residence. Mrs. Thorne's mother, Mrs. William C. Niblack, is back in her apartment at 221 East Walton place after being in Lake Forest for the warm weather. The young Niblack Thornes, who have had a house in Wheaton this summer, are thinking seriously of staying out there all winter, and the young Ward Thornes are on their way back to Chicago from Wianno, where they went early in the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Carry have closed their town apartment at 2340 Commonwealth avenue and will remain at their farm in Libertyville through the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strobel of 33 Bellevue place have returned from a two months' stay at the Biltmore in Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Leeds Mitchell Returns Home.

Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, who goes away for the summer early in the season and who returns very late, is back from Nantucket. Leeds Jr. is going out to an Arizona ranch this winter instead of returning to Yale.

Mrs. William Buford Carlile has left for a visit in Memphis, Tenn.

The Valentine C. Bartletts have given up their apartment at 230 Lake Shore drive and have moved into the Milton Morses' house at 870 Rosemary

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill-bred couple, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister Rachel are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold, being in great need of money. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car.

INSTALLMENT XX.

A STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

The garage attendant, a loutish youth with oil streaked hair, assured them the car had not been touched since it was brought in an hour or more ago. However, although they rummaged in every corner, all they found were some road maps in the pockets, and the plaid rug, neatly folded on the back seat.

"She's mistaken, evidently, Natasha said. She must have dropped it in the street."

"Could it have been stolen from the car?" Neil asked.

"Not possibly. I was careful to lock up every time I left it. No, if the bag had been here it would be here now. Too bad. I shall have to wire her when we get back."

As they rounded the first corner on their return a runabout passed them. Their own lamps shone for an instant on the driver's face, greenish white, very drawn and intent. Neil turned curiously.

"That was Tilbury. Did you notice how ill he looked? He's been laid up since you left, poisoned in some way. Which reminds me—he's been inquiring for you at the garage. Very likely he's going there now on the same errand. Like to see what he wants?"

In an instant his arms were around her.

She came to from her reverie with a shudder of repulsion. "No, I couldn't bear to see him. I hope I'll never set eyes on him again. . . . I expect I know what it's about. Caroline must have rung him up to tell him she'd lost her bag. It would be just like her to get into a frightful stew over a thing like that."

"Why—your teeth are chattering! Are you cold?"

"No. Just tired." She huddled her coat up about her neck. After an interval she said detachedly, "Did you ever strain every nerve wondering if it was worth the struggle? That's how I'm feeling tonight. Sick and—hopeless."

"I could understand better if I had a little more information," he answered quietly, but she merely shook her head.

"You'll know before long—in a way, that is. Just let me be. All I ask now is to crawl into bed and sleep for hours and hours. I wish I might never wake up."

Her broken morale moved him deeply, nor could he help thinking the past days had brought some disillusionment which might be turned to his own advantage. He even had a brief moment of triumph when he pictured her as turning to him for consolation; but he soon realized there was little chance of this. She left him at the gate, and when he returned from putting up his car she was already upstairs. It was Rachel who met him, holding out a packet of cigarets.

"Would you care to take these up to her? She's in the little blue room. I'm just going to send that telegram to Carrie."

"Here are your gaspers," he said. "Don't smoke too much, though. Give your nerves a rest."

As her fingers fastened on the packet her eyes met his, and something snapped in him. In an instant his arms were around her, straining the whole length of her body to his, while his lips found hers and took possession of them. For a space of pure rapture he recognized an uncontrollable response. As on that one former occasion, it was as though a hot flame had caught the two of them up together and was fusing them into one. Then, as quickly, she broke from him, fighting him off in wild panic.

"No—no!" he heard her sob. "O, God! You, too!"

The anguish of reproach in her voice, amounting almost to hatred, was incomprehensible to him. Intent on recapturing the brief ecstasy, he pursued her blindly as she backed towards her room.

"Natasha—Natasha!" he whispered, finding delight in the repetition of her name. "Why do you say 'you, too'? Don't go. At least let me——"

It was too late. The door was shut in his face. He grasped the knob, but she had locked herself in. To his urgent supplications he got no reply.

Stirred to the depths, he descended slowly, to find the vicar just letting himself in. The tall figure was framed in the entrance, eyes turned inquiringly towards the gate.

"There's a small car stopped outside. Some one's coming in. By jove, if it isn't that photographer chap! What can he want at this time of night?"

Sure enough it was the bailiff, pale, clammy browed. He seemed scarcely able to stand. The hand with which he removed his hat shook as with palsy, and when he spoke it was in a scarcely audible croak.

"Mr. Gisborne?" he whispered in a frightened manner. "You'll pardon me coming here and bothering you, but the fact is I thought—that is, the wife and me both did—I'd ought to ask if any of you'd had news of Miss Bundy."

"News?" echoed the vicar amazed. "Why on earth should we have news? Is anything wrong?"

"O, I 'ope not, sir. I do sincerely 'ope not. But you see, this telegram's come, from the lady she was to meet. Addressed to her, so we opened it. We supposed she was in Paris since Saturday evening, but——"

"Here, let me look at it. Starkey—Rachel—what do you make of this?"

The three heads bent over the paper. On it was written:

What has happened to you are you ill again have wired flat but no satisfaction let me hear immediately much worried. Emily Braselton. Hotel Roblin, Paris.

"Not reached Paris!" gasped Rachel. "Then where can she be?"

"That's wot we can't make out, Miss. We 'oped you might know. I hear Miss Andreyev's back, stopping with you. Is that so?" The queer croaking voice brought out the question anxiously.

"Yes. I'll call her—but she knows no more than we do."

"So she is 'ere!" Tilbury's protuberant eyes watched Rachel with eagerness as she ran up the stairs. "We'd begun to wonder——"

"Wonder what?" demanded the vicar snappishly. He was still staring hard at the telegram.

"Nothing, sir, only that the two ladies being together like, I thought maybe Miss Andreyev could——" He stopped, swaying slightly.

"Here, man, sit down. You look badly shaken. Want a drink?"

"No, sir, thank you, sir," replied the bailiff tottering to a seat. "Fact is, I've had a nasty turn with my inside. Affected my throat, it has, and with all this worry on top of it——"

"It's certainly very odd, but I daresay there's some natural explanation. What have you done about it?"

"We tried to get through to the mansions in Kensington where Miss Braselton has her flat, only we 'ad trouble making the porter understand. It was the boy at the garage wot told me Miss Andreyev was back, so I drove straight over here."

"When did this message arrive?" asked Neil suddenly.

"This afternoon—latish."

"But——" Neil was about to remark that Tilbury's first call at the garage could not have been inspired by the telegram, but Rachel's return checked him.

"What does Natasha say?" he asked.

"Wot!" Tilbury gave a little shocked exclamation.

"Didn't she see Miss Bundy abord her train? That's a bit of a stunner, that is. Why, I never dreamed such a thing!"

"Never mind that now," put in the vicar irritably. "I'll ring up those flats myself. What's the address?"

"Blessington mansions, sir. There's a private number, but we couldn't get on to it. You won't mind me 'anging abaht a bit, will you, sir? I'll own to being all upset, wot with being left in charge, and all."

"Stay, naturally. We'll soon clear matters up. It's quite impossible for Miss Bundy to have disappeared." He picked up the telephone.

Child's Love of Fun Often Misunderstood, Claims Mrs. Bevans

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have enjoyed your articles very much as I am the mother of two healthy, lovely boys, aged 14 months and 3 years, respectively. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish between naughtiness and a plain desire for fun."

What mother hasn't been up against just this decision? And isn't the second usually mistaken for the first? We grownups are so serious, so full of purpose and the business of life that we can't even remember what it is like to be joyous and irresponsible—to fool and giggle and play jokes and make a hullabaloo. Sometimes I think grownups are a different race of beings from children—our slant on living is so different. Often I wonder, especially after I've been impatient or businesslike when nonsense keeps up, whether anything children do deserves the label of "naughtiness."

When is a child's banging of pans on the floor just a desire for a lot of noise, or a desire to annoy? Does a child "carry on" because he is hungry, or tired, or because you've ignored him a long time and he wants some attention? When your child purposely drops an aluminus cup on the floor and you pick it up, do you say he's having fun? But when he drops an expensive cup on the floor and it breaks with a lovely crash, do you say he's naughty?

I suppose we might say we can best make the distinction between naughtiness and fun-lovingness by inquiry into the motive. Once you start doing that, you'll almost invariably find that what you have thought of as naughtiness has other motives or causes than the desire to annoy. And with this realization half your management troubles will disappear.

Orders a King, Gets an Archer from England

Geneva Gets Stone from Parliament.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

When Mrs. Edmond Raftery cabled Miss Robbin Dienst five weeks ago, "Buy kings without fear," the telegraphers wondered whether the message was part of a political coup or an effort in favor of communism.

All their suspicions would have been allayed, however, had they been present last week at the uncrating of Gourdon, the archer, in the yard of "The Little Traveler" in Geneva. For Gourdon is the result of Mrs. Raftery's intriguing cable.

"We took the archer instead of a king because he is in so much better a state of preservation than most of the royalty," said Mrs. Raftery yesterday as she told the story of bringing to this country the first pieces of stone from London's houses of parliament since restoration of the buildings, started some months ago.

"Miss Dienst, who spent the summer traveling in Russia and the Scandinavian countries, arrived in London the end of August—on the hottest day the city had experienced in twenty-one years," Mrs. Raftery explained. "She heard that some of the original carvings and inscriptions that were being removed from the houses of parliament, to be replaced with new, were for sale. This was enough to send her on a shopping expedition with Count and Countess Benningsen, hot weather or no."

As Mrs. Raftery smilingly explains, London is the branch office of "The Little Traveler"—Geneva the main office—and Count and Countess Benningsen, who are, by the way, related of the Cantacuzenes and Galitzines, are in charge of the branch. The day of the shopping tour Count Benningsen held out for some time for the purchase of Edward the Confessor rather than the archer, but at last a word from Tom Wilson, superintendent of his majesty's office of works, cast the vote in favor of the archer.

He is a handsome fellow, especially when the lights and shadows that add so much charm to the courtyard of Geneva's little inn play across his stone armor. He comes from the terrace of one of the parliament buildings. Each bay in the stonework of the terrace, you probably know, contains a statue of a king and some historical figure associated with him. There Gourdon has stood, and there his successor will stand, with Richard the Lionhearted.

Ten years are to be given to the restoration of the houses of parliament, stretching along the Thames for a distance of several blocks and designed by the architect, Sir Charles Barry, in 1840. Only certain places are being repaired, and as fast as the old sections are removed new ones appear, but it is, nevertheless, a long, slow process. These buildings replace the home of parliament destroyed by fire in 1834.

To see Mrs. Raftery's archer it would seem that he had many more than 92 years to his credit. But, as she explains, this aged appearance is the result of London rain and fog. Then, too, Gourdon is made of Dolomite, as are all of the buildings put up in 1840. And nature has proved that Dolomite is not enduring for the picturesqueness of the famous mountains in Austria that bear the name is due to their susceptibility to weathering.

Bride Today

Ann Loretta Mead
[Toloff Photo.]

Miss Ann Loretta Mead, daughter of Mrs. Richmond A. Mead of 1207 Judson avenue, Evanston, is to be married to Roger Gath Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Alfred Townsend of 1100 North Dearborn street, this morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of her mother, the Rev. J. P. Magner officiating.

Miss Cherie Burnham will be the maid of honor and Miss Julia Foley the bridesmaid. Little David Fox Jr., Mrs. Mead's nephew, will be the ring bearer, and M. A. Mead of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., and Chicago will give his granddaughter in marriage.

Francis Lineman will serve as best man and ushering will be Gordon Harper and the bride's brothers, States Mead and Richmond A. Mead Jr. The bride is wearing the wedding gown of her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. William H. O'Brien, who was Eleanor Dennehy, a sister of Thomas C. Dennehy. The gown is of ivory faille silk with a panel down the front embroidered heavily in pearls, and with puffed net sleeves. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will be at home at 727 Hinman avenue, Evanston, after Nov. 1.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton K. Kerr returned Friday on board the Manhattan, from their honeymoon trip to Europe, and will take possession of the country home of Mr. and Mrs. James Blaine Walker at Brookville, which they leased for a year. Mrs. Kerr is the former Mrs. Helen R. Schniewind Pond, whose marriage to Mr. Kerr took place on Aug. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle are at the Savoy-Plaza for the winter.

Good Morning!

Mr. Kipling craved to be shipped somewheres east of Suez and you will readily understand, after seeing "The Last Man," why he didn't care to be set down in Suez itself.

A sink of iniquity—Suez—or else this melodrama, singing of the Suezian waterfronts, and the conduct of its waterfrontians on the high seas, has the place all wrong.

"The Last Man" tells—with flash-backs reminiscent of "silent" days—the story of how an insurance detective makes battle with crooks who are defrauding his company.

He is sent to Suez, where a crooked ship owner [Wingate] and his twice crooked lawyer [Marsden], aided and abetted by some scum of the earth in the shape of sailors, wreck boats for the insurance on hulls and freight. The owner doesn't want to do it, but the lawyer makes him do it. Marsden, you see, had known Wingate 'way back in a when that wasn't so savory.

Wingate has a daughter. . . . Now you have all your clews.

"The Last Man" packs plenty of action and excitement and tells its story interestingly though not always with the most praiseworthy continuity. Photography is excellent. Direction's fair.

Mr. Bickford, one of the screen's most justly popular he-men, makes his rôle dynamic and convincing. He has speed, strength, sense and the sort of good looks weak women wail for. Alec Francis is splendid as the unworthy and unhappy Wingate. Constance Cummings pleases as the heroine. Alan Roscoe does the tough, conscienceless Marsden to a turn. I was impressed by Robert Ellis' portrayal of a half breed Chinaman, "English Charlie." Mr. Ellis, you may remember, used to do romantic leads and smooth "slicker" characterizations. Minor rôles are deftly handled.

WEDDING

Mrs. George Joseph Noth of Oak Park announces the marriage last Saturday of her daughter, Jane Ann, to Frank Howard Carey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carey of West Chicago.

We May Be High Hat Provided the Style Proves Becoming

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The French dressmakers are showing millinery with their costume fashions, and they are as divided on the question of high hats and low crowns as they are on the subject of the high and low waistline. The shallow crowned hat is already familiar to you, but the high hat is something that we have not seen for some time.

Jeanne Lanvin introduces cossack cap turbans to go with the cossack top coat that is her great coat fashion for the coming winter. This Lanvin hat is shown at the top of our sketch. She makes it of padded velvet, stitched into diagonal rolls, and on occasion she makes it of flat fur stitched in the same way. This hat is made of her new pre-Raphaelite blue, a beautiful pastel shade, to be worn with dark colors and with gray.

In the center is Schiaparelli's new mushroom beret, made of heavy ribbed tricot, and worn with this clever designer's winter sports clothes. It is knitted of wool in the color of the costume or of the accessories, and dark hyachinth blue is the favorite.

At the bottom is shown Suzanne Talbot's Renaissance hat which she calls "the Page," after the page boys of that epoch. This hat is made of black velvet with its crown crushed in and the sides and back mounting very high. A silver braided band trims the hat, and it has a diamond mesh veil with velvet dots. This hat is worn on top of the head, a new place for millinery.

Lingerie Set for Junior Girl Will Be Attractive in Batiste or Silk Crepe

LINGERIE SET FOR THE JUNIOR GIRL.

Here is a simple slip and pantie set for the young girls. It is so easily made, they probably will want to do the work themselves. Batiste and crêpe de chine are two of the best lingerie materials.

The pattern, 2980, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material with 1¾ yards of edging.

road, Lake Forest. They plan to be all year 'round residents of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine is expected to return this week-end from her annual summer stay at Southampton, L. I.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen returned on Sunday to her residence at 1430 Astor street from her summer estate at Bar Harbor, which she opened early last June.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory will be back at her Prairie avenue residence about the 18th of this month, after having spent the summer in Geneva, Switzerland, with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweetser. Mrs. Gregory goes abroad every year in the late spring and usually remains away for the entire summer.

Mrs. John J. Mitchell is prolonging her stay at the Mitchell ranch near Santa Barbara and will not return to Chicago until the latter part of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who have been at their Santa Barbara residence since July, motored northward to San Francisco last week and are expected to return to Chicago this week-end. They will remain in Chicago during the coming winter, but after this year they plan to spend part of every winter in the California house which they have hitherto used as a summer residence.

Women to Hear Economy Plea

The National Economy league. New words to some women of Chicago but ones that will be very familiar to all, hopes Mrs. Walter Borden, who is lending her enthusiasm and aid to Harold Beacom, Chicago member of the national executive committee, in arranging a women's meeting for Friday night, Oct. 14, at which the chairman, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, will talk on the purposes of the league. The organization is "a strictly nonpartisan citizens' organization formed to direct public opinion toward government economy."

The meeting is to be at 8 o'clock in the ballroom of the Drake hotel, and Mrs. Borden is giving a dinner before it at the Drake for Admiral Byrd.

There will be numerous other dinner parties that night, too, early ones, so that the hostesses can take their guests to the meeting. Among the women's clubs that have been invited to the meeting and have accepted are the Woman's City club, of which Mrs. Murry Nelson is president; the Friday club, of which Mrs. William A. Nitse is president [she is to be a dinner hostess that night]; the Chicago Woman's club, of which Mrs. Harvey Fox is president; a group of Democratic women under the leadership of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank; the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Henry W. Hardy is president; the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Quincy Wright, president; the Illinois Republican Woman's club, Mrs. George R. Dean, president, and Organization of the Club Presidents, of which Mrs. Charles S. Clarke is the head.

Mrs. John T. Azar, president of the Friendly Aid society, will preside at the organization's first meeting of the season on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Frederick C. Hack at 1203 Forest avenue, Evanston. Plans will be made for the bazaar to be held in November at the Stevens hotel.

Lowly Prunes May Be Served in New Guises

BY MARY MEADE.

Have you noticed how the once humble "boarding-house" prune is taking to itself airs and rubbing shoulders with most sophisticated of the aristocrats in the fruit line?

Chief among the stars in the prune crown is the fact that it is so gratifyingly versatile. It sallies forth steamed, stewed, or spiced at breakfast. It turns up in muffins, loaf breads, fritters, and even tangy soups at luncheon. It tempts one from croquettes, salads, bettles, short cakes, sauces, and sherbets at dinner time.

SPICED PRUNE SOUP.

Wash three-fourths pound of prunes and put them to soak over night in three cups of water. In the morning remove the pits, bring the prunes to a gentle boil, and cook slowly until tender. Press through a sieve, and to the pulp add one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, the grated peel of one-half lemon, and two tablespoons of tapioca. Simmer gently till the tapioca is clear, then add one teaspoon lemon juice and a dash of salt.

PRUNE CROQUETTES.

1 cup finely chopped nuts.
2 egg. beaten.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
Cracker crumbs.
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel.

Wash the prunes and soak over night in a quart of water. Cook them in the same water until tender, remove the pits, sieve, and add the spices and lemon peel to the pulp. Simmer ten minutes longer, stirring frequently to avoid scorching. Meanwhile, roll a quantity of unsalted crackers very fine and, at the end of the cooking period, blend sufficient crumbs with the prune pulp to leave it stiff enough to mold. Add the chopped nuts and form into croquettes. Roll each croquette in additional cracker crumbs, dip in beaten egg diluted with two tablespoons of milk and roll again in cracker crumbs. Fry in deep fat [380 degrees F.] until golden brown.

SOUTHERN PRUNE DUMPLINGS.

1 cup flour.
1-8 cup molasses.
½ cup sour milk.
2-3 cup chopped prunes.
½ teaspoon soda.
½ teaspoon salt.

Mix all the ingredients thoroughly, combining the soda first with the flour. Steam in individual dumpling cups for two hours or bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] for one hour.

Pollyanna Suggests Smiling; It's One Grand Beauty Tonic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This is going to be a little Pollyanna document today. So, if you don't like Polly's sweet chirpings, give me the go-by for a bit of sports news or the latest fashion tip.

This Polly doesn't want a cracker. She wants a smile! She wants you to smile, if you crack your face trying it! She doesn't think any such calamity will happen. She's never seen a face cracked from smiling. And she has seen just whole female armies of them cracking under the strain of smilelessness!

Polly admits that the world at the moment isn't in the sunniest mood ever. But it might be worse. [Didn't you just know she'd say that!]

Well—it might, too. Things might be so bad we couldn't buy a silk stocking at 79 cents a pair. Things might be so worse we couldn't sell the family plate to buy a jar of cold cream! We might be in such a plight financially that we'd have to split a lipstick among twelve of us. We might have to let the whole family in on one toothbrush!

But we seem to be worrying along each to his own toothbrush and lipstick and cold cream jar. Yeah, and managing to raise the price of a small bottle of perfume, every now and then. We're wiggling our shopping frames in and out of pretty fancy dresses, and everybody seems to be able to manage a new chapeau. And nobody looks starved except the girls who are doing it for their hips' sake.

So, altogether, maybe we shouldn't be so contemptuous of Pollyanna's smile cure. I think we laugh at it because we know there is more than a grain of truth in her formula that things might be worse. Anyway, as a beauty practitioner, you have to hand something to the cheer-up girl. And for beauty's sake you might just as well hand her the compliment of a trial, eh?

There's darned sight more beauty magic in her smile formula than looking as if you'd got out the wrong side of the bed, isn't there? Try it some time when you get out of bed on the wrong foot and just see if a smile doesn't erase a few years from that now charming face of yours.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

Need any woman fear her Thirties?

Screen Stars say NO!

"YOU needn't be afraid of birthdays!" the screen and stage stars declare. And certainly they know the secret of keeping youthful loveliness. These beautiful stars are in their thirties—but who would dream it from the recent photographs below! You will want to know how they stay so radiantly lovely.

"I've used Lux Toilet Soap for years," says Judith Anderson, "it's such a sure way of keeping your skin soft and attractive."

Beverly Bayne and Ethel Clayton agree! Like many other famous stars they use this fragrant soap regularly. It is so gentle, so beautifully white—as no soap less pure and carefully made could be!

9 out of 10 Screen Stars use it

Of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 686 use Lux Toilet Soap. It is official in all the big film studios.

BRAZIL REVOLT ENDS; LEADERS TAKEN PRISONER

Blockade of Sao Paulo to Be Lifted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 3.—The Sao Paulo revolt against the federal government of Provisional President Getulio Vargas collapsed today after holding out for three months. Military police under Col. Carvalho replaced the rebel government in Sao Paulo, the state capital. Federal forces under the command of Gen. Goes Monteiro immediately moved to reopen the state, which had been blockaded during the revolt, to the world.

Five thousand prisoners were released today as the military police took control. The city was quiet following riots over the week-end.

Gen. Monteiro ordered Gen. Altro Filho to Sao Paulo to supervise the government. He said, however, that federal troops will not be sent into Sao Paulo, but would take over strategic points surrounding the city.

Rebel Leaders Seized.

The rebel army disbanded today and the rebel leader, Gen. Bertoldo Klinger, and other officers were taken under guard to the federal army headquarters at Cruzeiro.

The revolt began to crumble last week when the people of Sao Paulo, alarmed by the steady press of federal troops about the capital on three fronts, and the naval blockade, clamored for peace. They deemed the revolt futile. The military police under Col. Carvalho took the lead, leaving the battle lines against the federals on Sept. 27.

This brought peace overtures by Gen. Klinger, who had become the Sao Paulo leader after the fall of the regular civilian government. The rebel chief, however, refused to accept the terms laid down by the federals.

Coffee Port to Reopen.

With the backers of the rebellion deserting, however, the movement was doomed and when Col. Carvalho effected an agreement with Gen. Monteiro to take over Sao Paulo, it meant the end of the revolt.

The government planned to restore order in the state as smoothly as possible, hoping to open Santos, important coffee port, tomorrow or Wednesday. It is estimated that 336,000,000 pounds of coffee has been held up in the three months which the federal naval blockade lasted.

Chilean Cabinet Sworn In.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 3.—A new cabinet was sworn in today to hold office under Chile's fifth provisional president in four months, Judge Abraham Oyanedel, president of the Supreme court, until the elections on Oct. 30. Javier Angel Figueroa is the new premier. Judge Oyanedel replaced Gen. Bartolme Blanche, who succeeded Carlos Davila, head of the Socialist régime which was ousted Sept. 13.

WOMAN, 26, TO MEET BROTHERS 'LOST' 20 YEARS

For the first time in twenty years Anna Vereb of Fort Wayne, Ind., who is now 26, will have a reunion with her relatives next Sunday afternoon.

Miss Vereb's parents died in 1912 and she was placed in an orphanage in Fort Wayne. Later she was taken into the home of Mrs. Mary Wetli of the same city. Although in recent years she had made efforts to find her three brothers, she had had no word of them.

Several weeks ago, however, Charles C. Bower, 30 North Michigan avenue, became interested. He went to East Chicago, where the Vereb family once lived, and found that one brother, Michael, still resided there at 4912 Magoun avenue. Another brother, Andrew, is in the government hospital in Elgin and the third is dead. Michael and Andrew Vereb and their families are expected at the reunion in Michael's home.

SEEKS DIVORCE

[Raymor Photo.]

Mrs. Florence Butler Kilbourne, 414 Linden avenue, Oak Park, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against Don B. Kilbourne, charging desertion.

Mrs. Kilbourne is the daughter of J. Fred Butler, wealthy head of the Butler Paper company. Kilbourne, a partner in C. H. Weaver & Co., commission merchants, is living at the Drake hotel.

The couple were married in 1915. Mrs. Kilbourne charges that her husband deserted her Aug. 27, 1931. Her bill, filed by Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., states that she has a small income of her own, but asks that he be required to contribute to her support, and also asks an injunction restraining him from entering their home and from removing any of the furniture.

Four River Forest Schools Open; Run on Cash Basis

Four River Forest elementary schools opened yesterday with an estimated attendance of 1,000. Reduction of the teaching staff from 47 to 42 and the opening of the schools a month later than usual will allow the schools to operate on a cash basis until Christmas, according to Frances Pilgrim, president of the board of education.

Railroads Have Cut Freight Rates

One of the suggestions most frequently made to the railroads nowadays is that they reduce their freight rates to attract more business.

The railroads are doing that very thing. Reductions have been made in thousands of rates on many different commodities.

Some people think a further reduction of all freight rates would serve to revive business. That is not certain. They may be right, but the railroads are not strong enough financially to take the chance.

To make a further general reduction of all freight rates possible, subsidies to other forms of transportation should be withdrawn, and all carriers should be equally regulated.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

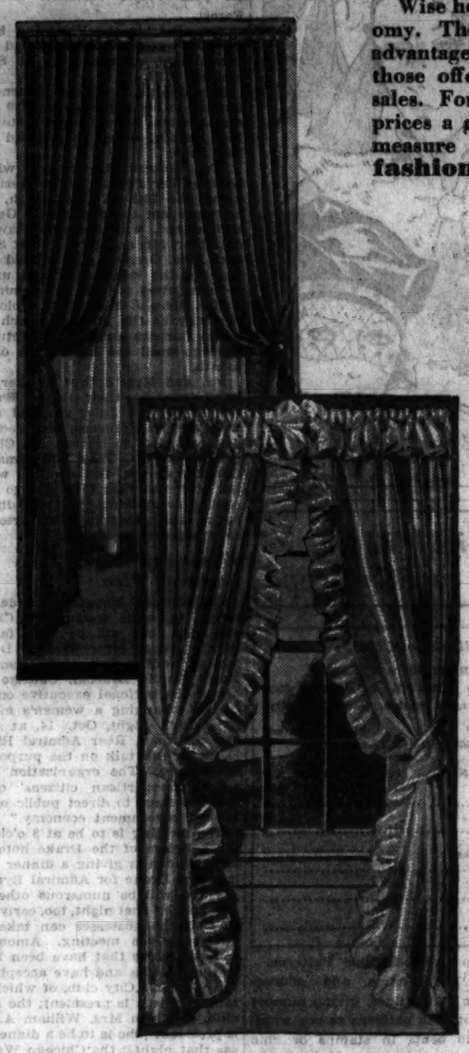
These "More for Your Money" Events

Will Interest Homes That Plan Their Economy Measures with a View to "More Fashion, More Quality, More Value"



Wise homes have a constructive sense of economy. They accomplish their savings by taking advantage of such exceptional opportunities as those offered in the "More for Your Money" sales. For here are assembled at very moderate prices a group of "desirables" that more than measure up to our exacting standards in fashion, in quality, in value.

More Value in Curtains!

Ruffled Dotted Swiss

With Bright Colored Dots

$1.55 Pair

Never before has it been possible to offer fine dotted Swiss curtains at this extremely low price. Priscilla style, 36 inches wide, 2¼ yards long. White with red, black, gold, blue or orchid dots. Tailored style (all white) 33 inches wide, also included; and six-piece cottage sets.

Curtains, Sixth Floor.

More Fashion in Draperies!

Corded Damask

With the New Self-Pleating Top

$14.95 Pair

Bound to figure prominently in smart fall decorative schemes. It has an all-over self-figure pattern, in soft shades of green, rust, red, gold, or blue. 2½ yards long, 50 inches wide, made to order, at $14.95 pair. By the yard, $1.95.

French Hepplewhite Sofa

This Fine-Looking Piece Has the Enduring Charm of Quality

$79.50

More flair for style (in covering and line it is pleasing to alert modern taste); more practicality, it's constructed to endure—and that's important to today's thrift homes. The carved base is of solid mahogany, the covering a smart cotton tapestry or cotton damask. In the important fall colors—green, rust or blue.

Furniture, Sixth Floor.

Genuine Celadon Lamp

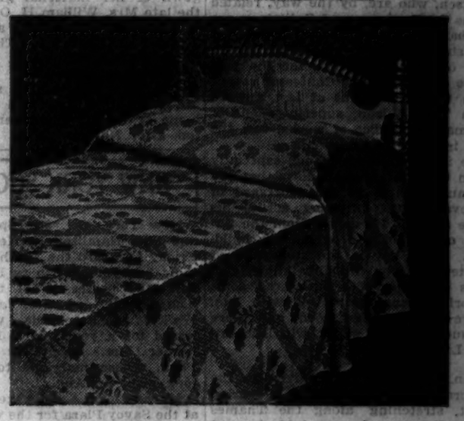
With All Silk Shade

$12.50

Any one who knows "Celadon" knows also the very high prices that it ordinarily brings. Consider, too, the all silk shade, the gold-finish mountings.

And when you realize further that the lamp is a splendid size, 22½ inches high—you see why we emphasize "More for Your Money."

Lamps, Seventh Floor.



Woven Bedspread

The "Ripple Weave" Gives the Effect of Quilting

At $3.50

And with its charming pattern and bright colorings it goes especially well with the Early American bedroom. A heavy quality of cotton which will lie smoothly on the bed—blue, gold, green, orchid, red or rose on white grounds. A good old-fashioned price—single or double size, $3.50 each.

Bedspreads, Second Floor.

Kashan Oriental Rugs

In That Most Desirable High Lustre Type

At a "Most for Your Money" Price

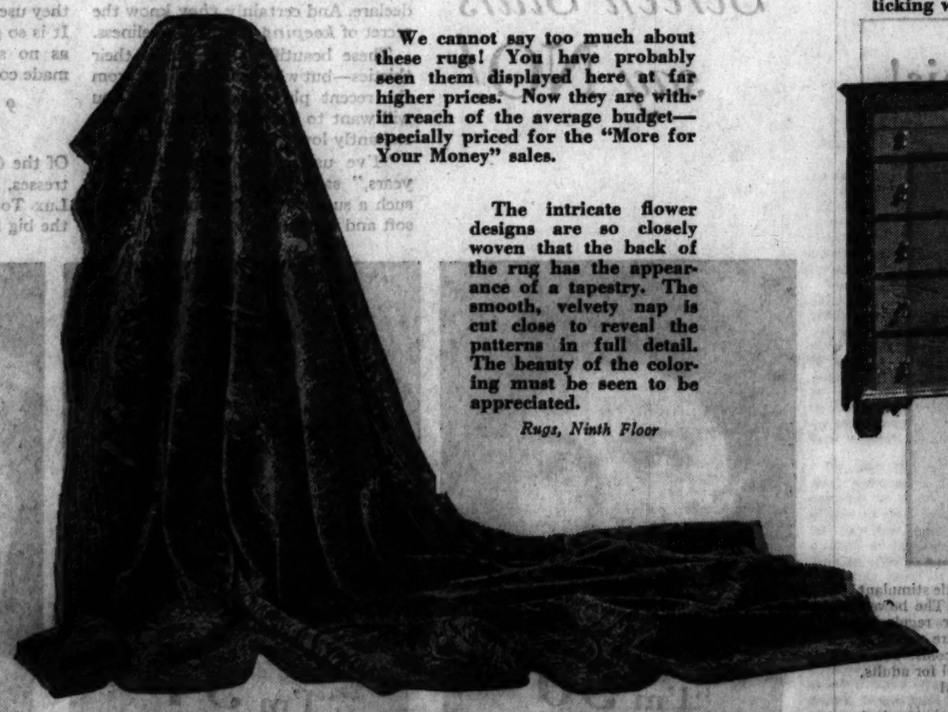
(Approximately 9x12 Foot Size)



We cannot say too much about these rugs! You have probably seen them displayed here at far higher prices. Now they are within reach of the average budget—specially priced for the "More for Your Money" sales.

The intricate flower designs are so closely woven that the back of the rug has the appearance of a tapestry. The smooth, velvety nap is cut close to reveal the patterns in full detail. The beauty of the coloring must be seen to be appreciated.

Rugs, Ninth Floor

The More We Look the More Convinced We Are That These Are Really Rare Values!

Bed, Spring, and Mattress

$14.50 Each

The smart, well-constructed Early American type poster bed may be had in maple, mahogany, or walnut finish, twin or full size. Priced at $14.50.

The innerspring mattress is wonderfully comfortable, with its finely tempered coil springs and sisal pad with layers of cotton felt. Damask ticking with roll edges. Any standard size, $14.50. Box spring, $14.50.

The Chest

The five drawer chest, with attractive metal tear-drop drawer pulls and dustproof construction, comes in maple, walnut or mahogany finish at $24.50.

Bedding, Sixth Floor.

UBL, MINNESOTA FOOTBALL STAR, NEAR DEATH

HOMECOMING OF YANKS FAILS TO STIR GOTHAM

Ruth, Gehrig Elude Small Crowd.

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Home from the wars in Chicago, the victorious New York Yankees rolled into the Grand Central station this afternoon in their special train, a little before 4 o'clock, and—such is New York's ability to become blase over a world baseball championship—were welcomed home only by a couple of hundred fans, most of whom were still under the voting age.

JOE McCARTHY.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig spoiled the day for the small crowd. Ruth left the special train at High Bridge station and went immediately to his home, and Gehrig to his home after leaving the train at the 125th street station.

Gomez's Fiancée Disappointed.

The most disappointed person in the group that gathered at that station was Miss June O'Dea, fiancée of Vernon Gomez, because Gomez was not on the train, having left Chicago in company with Bill Dickey to drive home.

The crowd did not put on much of a demonstration, merely shouting greetings to those of the players they recognized. They were disappointed that Ruth and Gehrig were not along.

There was no organized greeting. At the Yankee offices earlier in the day, Edward G. Barrow, business manager, had said that the office force was too busy to allow them to greet the victors.

Not Like Old Times.

Dispatches en route reported the homecoming less hilarious than some years. In 1928, for instance, when the Yankees raised the roof and kept it raised all the way home from St. Louis, Babe Ruth was the life of the party on that trip, but this series tired him a little.

Everybody had plenty to be happy about, although winning the world series is getting to be such an old story to the Yanks they can't get very excited about it.

On the trip home Bill Robinson, famous colored tap dancer, who wagered $2,000 of his money against $12,000 of some one else's money that the Yanks would win four straight, amused the athletes by dancing in the aisles.

McCarthy Is Missing.

The most important man of all was missing. Manager McCarthy, overwhelmed by the felicitations of his many old friends in Chicago, could not make the champions' special, and with his wife, hoped to make a train some time by Monday at least, heading for his home in Buffalo.

Coach Jimmie Burke went direct to his home in St. Louis and Coach Fletcher headed out of Chicago for Collinsville, Ill.

Gomez, by the way, will be married before the week is out in New York, the culmination of his romance with Miss O'Dea.

Sammy Byrd, by his own confession, within a few days will wed Miss Rachael Smith of Birmingham, who recently won a "Miss Popularity" contest down in Sammy's home town.

Here's the Roster.

Only the players, plus one coach, were on the Yanks' special when it left Chicago. But it was a very long train at that, and besides Colonel Ruppert's party and the scribes, and Fred Logan, the clubhouse man, Ike Stern of the office force, Mark Roth,

Portland Takes Title on Coast; Has 5 Game Lead

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Portland closed the 1932 season yesterday with the Pacific Coast league championship safe in its locker for the first time in 18 years. Long the underdog in Pacific coast baseball, Portland held a five game advantage over Hollywood.

Portland split a double-header with Seattle to finish the season with 111 victories and 78 defeats for an average of .587. Hollywood's belated sprint fizzled out in the final series with Los Angeles and the Stars had 106 victories and 83 defeats for an average of .561.

Hollywood had a mathematical chance of beating out Portland for first place when the final week of play began on Tuesday, but Portland won the series from Seattle, six games to one, while Los Angeles, showing a change of form, took the series with Hollywood, four games to three. QUARTER BACK LOSES GROUND IN FIGHT TO LIVE

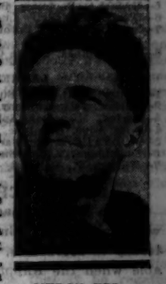
Pneumonia Sets in After Injury.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The condition of Myron Ubl, University of Minnesota football player, this evening took a turn for the worse and physicians at University hospital said they were afraid he would not survive the night.



MYRON UBL.

Ubl was fighting for his life against the concerted attack of a fractured breast bone, pneumonia, and an abscess in his chest.

Ten physicians were doing everything in their power to save Ubl. The greatest danger, according to Dr. Robert B. Radl of the hospital staff, came from the consequences of the abscess, which might spread pus to other parts of the body. There also was abnormally high blood pressure to combat.

Ubl, who last year played brilliantly in the back field, was being groomed for the quarter back position when he was injured in scrimmage on Sept. 21. His injury at the time was thought to be no more serious than a bruised chest, and he was expected to return to the team in 10 days. Later it was found that a breast bone had been fractured. He then was stricken with influenza, which developed into bronchial pneumonia.

Family, Coach at Bedside.

Only Ubl's parents, a sister and Coach Bernie Bierman and Trainer Dave Woodward of the Minnesota football squad were permitted to visit him. All the others who entered his room were there in a strictly professional capacity, either as physicians or nurses.

Ubl's condition varied through the day. Earlier in the day his condition was reported to be "very serious." He had had a relapse from an operation performed Sunday to drain away fluid that had settled around his lungs. The fluid continued to drain copiously at that time. This fluid, located close to the heart, was contributing to high blood pressure.

Rugged Physique Helps Him.

Later, Ubl was reported to be "a little better." He was receiving oxygen. This supply and his rugged physique were contributing to bear him up. He was displaying splendid spirit, according to those who visited him. Then tonight came the relapse.

A rumor that he had died reached Memorial stadium, where Ubl's teammates were practicing. Until denied at the hospital, the false report had gathered some headway on the campus.

Jerry Griffin was shifted to quarterback, a position that has worried coaches all season. Milton Bruhn, who early last week was only a reserve, started at guard Saturday and made good. Jack Manders and Pug Lund are the only certain starters in the backfield against the Boilermakers.

MANDERS WORRIES PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Minnesota's football eleven was a possum on Saturday instead of a Gopher, judging from reports Assistant Coach Mal Edward brought back to Purdue today as the Boilermakers started drill for the opening Big Ten clash at Minneapolis Saturday. Elward reported the Minnesota eleven was covering up against South Dakota State.

Working out defensive plans to stop Jack Manders, the Gopher line smasher, occupied the attention of the team this afternoon.

CUBS OBSERVE HEADACHE DAY; START FOR HOME

They'll Get Losers' Checks by Mail.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs celebrated "Headache day" yesterday, but as night came on all the patients were reported convalescent and eager to get started on their several winter activities.

Of course, the players were the main celebrants of Headache day, not alone because their pride and feelings were hurt, but for the additional reason that they had to rearrange their budgets. Most of them had counted on a winner's end of $8,000, based on capacity crowds in New York and Chicago. As things turned out each full shareholder will receive about half of the dream figure. One wouldn't have to have the cautious financial instincts of a ball player to suffer under such a severe readjustment.

To Refund $200,000.

And speaking of money. Imagine the suffering entailed in the kicking back of almost $200,000, cash in which the players would not have cut had a fifth game been played. That fifth game and a few thousand dollars additional expense would have put that money in the till without any additional exertion on the part of the recipients. But now it has to be kicked back, and at clerical expense and postage that would almost cover the staging of an extra game.

For those who tuned in late it may be well to repeat that the refunding process will start today. Chicagoans may cash their third game tickets at the Boulevard Bridge bank in the Wrigley building. Out of town fans are requested to send their tickets to the Chicago National League Baseball club, Wrigley building, Chicago.

Veeck Closes Office.

President William Veeck, who had rejoiced more than anyone at the great showing of the Cubs after he made Charley Grimm manager on Aug. 2 was one of the most keenly disappointed at the poor showing of the team against the Yankees. He ordered the Cub offices closed at noon for a little relaxation, but expected to be very much back on the job today, clearing up world series matters and getting squared away for another season.

Mr. Veeck and Manager Grimm won't settle down for several days to the job of formulating personnel plans for next year, though it was said that incidents in the world series brought to their attention need of replacements that hadn't been so obvious during the stirring success of the team in their August-September drive in the National league.

It is said that the Cubs will be in the December flesh marts in a great big way, in quest of a starting left handed pitcher and an outfielder who can sock 'em out of the park. The Cubs have some good trading material but, it is reported, the glitter of gold will be used as the main incentive.

Landis to Mail Checks.

Players who live in cities other than Chicago left yesterday or expected to depart today. Their world series checks will be mailed to them by Commissioner K. M. Landis. Before the checks are mailed, of course, Landis will have to pass on the formal request of Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Cubs, that he be given a split of the losers' end. The commissioner yesterday intimated he was not eager to discuss the matter at present.

Before the Cubs' world series flop Manager Grimm had tentatively made plans to curtail the western training season by ten days or two weeks, delaying the arrival at Catalina until near March 1.

The players are expected this year to show more than the usual eagerness to arrive at their spring training base. Santa Catalina, you know, is a beautiful island in the Pacific ocean where each February and March members of the Cubs go to take off fat and steel their nerves for approaching baseball problems.

Most of the 1933 Cubs will want to go to Catalina early next February, less than five months hence. Within a few days word will be sent to have twice as many soothing guitar players on the island as previously employed to quiet the nerves of the high strung Cubs.

VERSATILE, NO END

TALKING IT OVER.

BY ARCH WARD.

AMID the disappointment following the collapse of the Cubs protrudes the impression that after all they owe Chicago nothing.

They turned what might have been a drab baseball season into the wildest race the league has known. They provided a month of excitement that helped get people's minds off the depression, politics and news from the football training camps.

For the last six weeks Chicago has been on an emotional spree. We now can settle down to the serious business of trying to pick the team that will stop Notre Dame.

And if that doesn't interest you, the White Sox will do as a topic for conversation. I hope you haven't forgotten that they will start the 1933 season with at least three new regulars.

Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes, who were purchased from the Athletics last Wednesday, are expected to revive interest in the club on the south side. And Mr. Comiskey and Mr. Grabiner promise that there will be another deal or two to shout about before the departure for the California training grounds.

"At last I feel we are going somewhere," said Manager Lew Fonseca before leaving for his home in San Francisco. "We have a foundation now. Give us another good pitcher and we will be ready for any of them next year.

"It was obvious after the first few weeks of this season that we were no match for at least five clubs in our league. It is pretty hard to keep up the morale of a team when it realizes it has no business on the same field with its opponent.

"That situation is now changed. With a fellow like Simmons in there who is apt to bust a homer any time there will be a different spirit. Imagine what the support of Simmons will mean to a pitcher like Lyons. He will feel that he still can win if the opposing team gets two or three runs.

"Haas will give us additional hitting strength in the outfield," Fonseca said. "We have Swanson, Funk, Seeds and two or three other pretty good men to fill in at the other outfield position."

"What do you plan to do with Billy Sullivan?" we inquired.

"He is going to be a catcher," Fonseca replied. "We need a backstop who can hit. Sullivan will bat from .300 to .325 in any position. He hasn't had much experience at catching but has a lot of natural talent, like his dad, and I am confident he will make good."

Fonseca said he planned to play Dykes regularly at third. He would not commit himself as to his preference at second base and shortstop, but it looks like Hayes and Appling. Kress and Selph also are available.

The Sox boss has definite ideas about first base. He intends to play there himself.

"I can get around fast enough to hold down that job as well as any man on the squad," he said, "and I know I can hit .315 or better."

Asked if he was hopeful the Sox might land Lefty Grove, Fonseca said he didn't think there was a chance. It is his understanding that Connie Mack will not part with Grove, Cochrane or Foxx.

Lew made known that he has high regard for the prospect, of Paul Gregory, one of the Sox's rookie pitchers.

Court to Hear Bobbe Arnst's Plea for Divorce Today

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 3.—Special.]—Hearing of Bobbe Arnst's divorce action against Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer and movie star, today was postponed until tomorrow at the Los Angeles court house. Weissmuller is not expected to contest the suit.

JOCKEY COUCCI IS SUSPENDED FOR RIDE AT LAUREL

Laurel, Md., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Jockey Sylvio Coucci today was suspended for the remainder of the Laurel meeting on a charge of unfair riding in the fourth race. His case was referred to the Maryland racing commission.

Coucci was up on Lucky Racket and was charged with having grasped the saddle cloth of Chloedair while going into the back stretch. Coucci told the stewards he grabbed Chloedair's saddle cloth when his mount was in close quarters.

The young jockey is under contract to Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the Greentree stable. He rode his first winner on Oct. 9, 1931 and will lose his apprentice allowance next Sunday.

WEDDING BELLS TOMORROW FOR SILAS JOHNSON

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Silas Kenneth Johnson, for the last six years pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, and Miss Doris Thompson, who resides near Norway, Ill., will be married in Newark, a village not far from the bride's home, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Johnson, a native of Marseilles, will have two reasons to remember Oct. 5 in the future. It will be his birthday and wedding anniversary. The couple will be married at the parsonage of the Newark church and will go to Picnic Point, Wis., on a honeymoon trip.

Leonard, McLarnin Open Garden Season Friday

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Madison Square Garden opens its indoor season Friday night when Benny Leonard meets Jimmy McLarnin in a 10 round bout. Leonard faces his hardest test in his comeback campaign against McLarnin.

N. U. SQUAD GETS NO. 1 LESSON ON MICHIGAN PLAYS

Look to Rentner, Manske, Fencl to Lead Attack.

The usual Monday layoff for Northwestern's football regulars was eliminated yesterday, and in its stead the Wildcats were put through a long practice for the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Coach Dick Hanley called forth a freshman eleven that has been working on Wolverine formations and had them run through the plays in a dummy scrimmage with the varsity. Later in the week the frosh will again do their stuff with the added information which scouts picked up at Ann Arbor last Saturday.

Rely on Rentner, Manske.

Although Capt. Pug Rentner will be the leader of the Wildcats' attack there are others in the lineup who will be expected to render valiant service. Among these lads is Edgar [Eggs] Manske, left end, who turned in a brilliant performance against Missouri.

This is Manske's second year on the squad and already he is a veteran player, having stepped into a regular position as a sophomore. When Coach Hanley was wondering who he would use to replace Frank Baker, who was graduated in 1930, this blond youngster from Nekoosa, Wis., proved to be the answer.

He snatched two passes in the Missouri game and converted them into touchdowns. On defense he was equally efficient. Once he dashed into the Missouri backfield and tossed Johanningmeier for an 18 yard loss as the latter endeavored to throw a pass.

Fencl Another Star Find.

Manske is not the only star end the Wildcats will send against Michigan. At right end will be Dick Fencl, a senior, who also has been a regular since his sophomore days. Dick is a deadly tackler and blocker.

A big Northwestern delegation will follow the team to Ann Arbor. This game has caught the fancy of the fans more than any contest in years. Reasons for the intense rivalry date back to 1925 when Northwestern defeated Michigan, 3 to 2, on a rain swept gridiron at Soldiers' field. For the last two years the teams have shared in the conference championship with neither team having opportunity to meet the other.

NEW TRICKS AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Michigan threw into discard the old defensive style of play that it has used for years when Coach Harry Kipke sent his team out to whip Michigan State last Saturday. The same strategy probably will be employed against Northwestern on the coming Saturday. Kipke overlooked the fact that today was Monday and gave his charges a long offensive workout.

While Bennie Oosterbaan, scout at the Northwestern-Missouri game, was teaching the freshmen the Purple's plays, the regulars tried out new passing and running plays. The entire team was on hand except Whitey Wistert, whose leg injury was aggravated Saturday, and Willard Hildebrand, Wistert's successor at tackle, who has a boil on his back.

Regulars and freshmen were lined up against each other for a few minutes, but the bulk of scrimmage was left for tomorrow or, at the latest, Wednesday.

IOWA CRIPPLES RETURN.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—An all day rain failed to keep the University of Iowa football squad indoors today, the players utilizing every available minute to prepare for the Wisconsin game. The Hawkeyes came out of the Bradley game without mishap and the three regulars who were kept on the sidelines with injuries last week reported for practice.

Those who returned were Eugene Clearman, end; Marvin Kuhn, full back, and Ed Dolly, guard. Kuhn may find his position usurped by his sophomore rival, Bill Ash, however, the latter having gained 101 yards and made a 57 yard run in the Bradley game.

Petrolle Takes Miller's Place Against Canzoneri

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Frankie Petrolle of Schenectady, N. Y., today was substituted for Ray Miller, Chicago southpaw, as Tony Canzoneri's opponent at Ebbets field Wednesday night. The fight will be at 10 rounds and Canzoneri's lightweight title will not be at stake.

Smashed Nose in Football Is Funny—to Rival Coach

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Myron Ubl, a back field man of the University of Minnesota football team, is the first player of distinction to come down with a serious injury and while, of course, it is to be hoped that there will be no others, consideration of the facts leads to the mournful premonition that there will be. Ubl's breast bone was broken and the boy may not get well.

The principal fault of football is that it's a brutal game. It is a brutal game, notwithstanding the word of the coaches, who protest that they love the dear old game and may God wither their good right arms if they ever would countenance the doing of anything to its detriment, but also instruct their athletes in the art of mayhem on the sly pretense that these are strictly defensive works.

A rule against the rabbit punch was adopted last winter in alarm over the numerous cases of mental charley horse, but, before the beginning of the next football season, it virtually has been rescinded in response to the howls of coaches who insisted that their players never did strike their opponents on the head, but only shoved them.

Why All the Tape?

One striking inconsistency in their position needs pointing out, however. The early newspaper photographs of the football players, taken at their practice, which are beginning to drop onto the sport editor's desk, show many of the young men turning out with their wrists and hands taped as stiff as Dempsey's were the night he flogged the innocent Luis Angel Firpo with a pair of sledge hammers. The tape is worn to protect the wrists and hands, but it seems hardly necessary to provide this protection if the hands are to be used only for firm but gentle shoving.

But, regardless of the coaches' teaching, football still would be a brutal game because so many of the rivalries have developed into snarling, surly enmities and the games into contests of arrogant young bucks with a great pride in their capacity to endure and inflict painful beatings. The intimate details of football games are best obtained during the long interval between football seasons when the ex-players and coaches are in an informal and confiding frame of mind and laughing mischievously over the savage pranks of seasons past.

During the Olympic games in Los Angeles a football man related one evening the incident in which a famous western player's nose was smashed and, though the case was made to sound very amusing as an instance of swift and gratifying retribution, the fact remained that a young man's nose had been laid all over his face [a surgical case] with perfect efficiency and malice aforethought.

The Smasher Is Smashed.

Being brutal himself, the victim had inflicted some hurt on a member of the opposing team and, as that player was being helped off the field, a colleague of his called over to the offending gladiator and said, "Big boy, can you take it? Because you are going to take it the first time you come my way."

He came that way soon afterward and a skillful knee, encased in a hard shell, met him full in the face, reducing his features to gory disarray.

It will be the contention of the excessively he type of male, of course, that a mashed nose is a trivial thing in the life of any man above the grade of weakling, but it would be hard to find medical corroboration of this argument. And if this sort of injury were demonstrably good for the physical and moral character of young men, then it would be wiser to extend the benefits to all growing males instead of restricting it to a few football players and boxers.

In that case it could be arranged, no doubt, to have the public doctor

BURNED OUT?

THE Wake has no apology to offer for having picked the Cubs to defeat the Yankees in the recent world series. Since we were not called upon to expert on the question, our selection was predicated on home town loyalty and the hope that the Cubs would play the kind of baseball which they exhibited in their last home stand.

MARK KOENIG.

In view of what happened, even those persons filled with home town loyalty will hardly insist that the Cubs are as good a ball team as the Yankees. Before the series, the dope was against any such contention. Yet, we refuse to believe the Cubs would go through many series of four games without taking at least one from the new world champions.

Looking around for reasons for this dismal showing, we might as well enlist among the second guessers with the theory that the Cubs were burned out. That is a sports phrase variously applied. Pugilists who battle too young and too often, horses excessively raced, foot runners kept too long in training, football teams forced to an early season peak for some important contest, become burned out.

By our theory, the Cubs' nerves were worn to a frazzle. They won a pennant in a league in which many critics in other cities think they were not the best team. They did that in a spirit of loyalty to Manager Charlie Grimm after a change of managers at a critical point in the pennant fight, a change which brought discussion among fans and within the team. This pennant fight took its toll of nervous energy.

Again, when the Cubs were battling Pittsburgh for the lead, the commissioner's office conducted a highly publicized investigation on whether Cub players were betting on horses. All it brought out was that they were not playing the races, but that their former manager had borrowed various sums of money from several players, repayment of which already had been arranged. Possibly, not probably, the inquiry was warranted, but the publicity, in view of the meager finding, certainly was not. More nervous energy exhausted.

Then there was the players' pool split from which the deposed manager, Rogers Hornsby, was excluded, and Mark Koenig given only a half share. Since we were not behind the scenes, we don't know just why Hornsby was omitted. Perhaps, in players' minds, this action was justified. The move, however, was unpopular outside and many Cub fans were openly critical.

The Yankees, who held their spoils division meeting following that of the Cubs, veered almost to profligate liberality. There are reports that the Yankee management made the suggestion and even helped financially to make the Yankees appear generous and the Cubs niggardly for the psychological effect. Such rumors, of course, must be denied because club managements are not allowed, by baseball law, to contribute to players' pools.

Anyway, the Yanks carried to the diamond the impression that they were generous whole souled fellows while the Cubs were tightwads. Babe Ruth was a leader in riding the Cubs on this subject. Ruth, it is said, had a genuine liking for Koenig while the latter was a Yankee and gave him much attention when Mark was a rookie. Whether true or not, Babe left nothing unsaid on the subject during the inevitable players' repartee.

Apart from actual playing ability, the Yankees, winning an easy pennant in their own league, met a tired and worn Cub outfit, from which nerves and psychology had taken an intangible, but probably important exaction.

So, readers, whether or not you subscribe to this theory, the burned out excuse is just about as good as any other for the recent debacle unless we admit the Yankees are entitled to four games to none any time they meet the Cubs.

Help! Help!

In Sets of Three.

Wake: Two years ago, the press quoted Joe McCarthy as saying he would jump off the Brooklyn bridge if he could beat the Cubs in a world series. Now, Harve, I suppose it will be necessary for fans to buy a set of three tickets in order to witness the jump. O. W. Wills.

GOVERNMENT TO PUSH COLLECTION OF YACHT TAXES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Asserting that owners of yachts and pleasure boats in many cases are failing to pay the special tax imposed on their craft by the 1932 tax law, the internal revenue bureau today instructed its 64 collectors throughout the country to get after the money.

One hundred and twenty-five owners had paid $130,649 up to Aug. 9 although the internal revenue bureau estimates $500,000 should come from this tax on pleasure boats, which covers both motor and sailing craft. The difference between the collections and the estimates led officials to believe that many owners have not paid. There is a penalty of 25 per cent of the tax for failing to make a return.

Detroit Full Back Suffers Fractured Collarbone

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The University of Detroit's prospects in its game with Washington and Jefferson Friday night were dealt a blow today by the injury of Edwin Turashoff, full back on whom Detroit had hoped to place the burden of line plunging. Turashoff, who was forced to remain on the sidelines most of last season because of an injury, suffered a fractured collarbone in scrimmage today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Brown Wisdom made the racegoers, who traveled to Lincoln Fields yesterday to scorn him, most uncomfortable when the Kappmeyer purse, the best race on the program, was run.

For Brown Wisdom won it, capturing the big end of the purse like a great stake horse, but that didn't bring much happiness to the crowd. Brown Wisdom's position in Chicago racing is most peculiar. The fans along the rail hiss him when he loses and they hoot at him when he wins.

They made the consistent Little America the favorite and they backed Cathop until he became second choice. Then along came Brown Wisdom with one of his old time stretch challenges. It carried him into the lead a sixteenth of a mile from the finish line. He galloped on to victory, beating Little America by a length. Cathop, after weaving in and out all the way, was another length back in third place.

Pays Off at 4 to 1.

Brown Wisdom ran the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5. In the betting he was at nearly 4 to 1. He carried his 115 pounds like a champion and he appeared to be fresher than any of the others when the battle ended.

Brown Wisdom is now 7 years of age, quite an old fellow among race horses. It is the old age that is creeping up on him that has caused him to become so unpopular with his public. He was making his nineteenth start of the year and it was only the fourth victory he has scored. In other seasons Brown Wisdom has been able to win about as he pleased.

When the start came the fleet Miss Marr leaped out in front, but Little America soon drove past Miss Marr and took up the job of making the pace. Jockey Calvert was giving her one of his good rides and when she wheeled into the stretch a length and a half in front she appeared as an almost certain winner.

Brown Wisdom was back in fourth place, but was beginning to run like the Brown Wisdom of other years ran. Running on the outside, he took the leaders on one at a time and whipped them, and in his last brilliant dash flashed on past Little America.

Shepherd Boy Wins.

Shepherd Boy, a Kentucky 2 year old which races for Laffoon & Yeiser, gave evidence in the Niles Center purse that he is about the best 2 year old development of the fall in the west.

He was in the thick of the fight all the way, came from behind in the stretch and got up to nip Col. Ed Bradley's Ballygran by a neck. L. M. Severson's Spicson also rallied and was just a length back of the two leaders in third place when the end came.

The successful daily double combination was C. V. Whitney's Gyro and Northern Sir, a Kentucky 2 year old. The payoff for a $2 ticket was $78.20. Gyro came from far behind to win, but Northern Sir was with the leaders all the way and outgamed Lord Dean in the final drive.

IT'S ALL A TRAP! NORTH SHORE IS READY FOR OPEN

Golfers Will Dig for Par in '33 National Tourney.

BY ELMER DUBB.

If the U. S. G. A. is looking for a theme song for next year's national open tournament at the North Shore Golf club, I think I can at least supply it with a title and maybe give it a lift with the lyrics. The selling line of this little number could be "Trap! Trap! Trap the Boys Are Blasting!" and I speak from experience. I met up with most of those traps during a round over the scene of next year's Big Show with Alec Cunningham, professional at the north side course.

I was thrust upon Alec by Jack Sweitzer, manager at North Shore, but instead of pleading a sudden engagement elsewhere, Alec seemed to be glad to guide me around the course. And with good reason, as I learned, for he has been largely responsible for the consistent good shape in which members find it. The course recently has been the subject of tests by a pair of good golfers who will be in the wings when the open starts at North Shore next summer. Both agreed the course is one of the best conditioned layouts over which they have traveled. One of these is Tommy Armour, who turned in a pair of 74's without trying too hard, and the other is Olin Dutra, who did up the last nine in 32, four under par.

It's A Real Golf Course.

The boys who competed in the last big tournament held at North Shore, the western open of 1928, will blink their eyes when they set out in the 1933 open, for many a trap has been dropped twixt the tees and the cups since then. This is not to say that the new changes, most of which have been made within the last two years, are unfair. Rather, they make it what Cunningham calls a real golf course, one that will take finished golfers to subdue.

Another innovation since 1928 which may puzzle the boys who haven't been to North Shore since then, is the fairway watering system. Players will get none of the extra yardage from rolls and bounces that they drew with some of their shots four years ago, when the turf was considerably harder. The system is one of the best and most complete in the district, having its source along the right of the eighteenth fairway in a special pumphouse and underground tank containing 350,000 gallons of water.

Here's Card and Yardage.

Before going on to list the important changes planned for the next year, here is the card and yardage for North Shore now:

Hole	1	2	3	4	5
Yardage.	429	451	157	441	345
Par out..	4	5	3	4	4
Hole	6	7	8	9
Yardage.	418	536	218	303	—3383
Par out..	4	5	3	4	—36
Hole	10	11	12	13	14
Yardage.	431	344	545	185	345
Par in...	4	4	5	3	4
Hole	15	16	17	18
Yardage.	501	147	415	429	—3342—6730
Par in...	5	3	4	4	—36 —72

That total of 6,730 yards will be increased to more than 7,000 yards at the time of the open next year, due to the use of the back tees, which will add distance to every hole. In some cases, where the back tees are to the left or right of their brethren in front, it will take a lot of golf shots to get home.

In the case of the second hole, a specially built back tee for use in the championship only will add another 35 yards to the card to make that portion of the course an honest to goodness five hole. Ten yards already have been added to the rear of the sixteenth tee.

Every Green Gets Its Share.

The traps are located almost maliciously, as though they had been placed after a conference with the elements. They're on the shore of the fairway and in the center of it, and every green is well fortified with them. The 10th is an example of one of the changes which have been made within the last two years. Formerly it wasn't much more than a couple of wooden shots to a flat, inoffensive green. Now the green is trapped on both sides, has been raised nearly a dozen feet, and is one of the best holes on the course. A shallow trap at the left, across the fairway from a treacherous grove of trees, will be raised considerably by next year, as will one in the same position at the fourth. Other scheduled switches in topography include the setting of traps to the right in the faces of the thirteenth and fifteenth greens.

All of these changes, incidentally, are part of the club's popular program, and would have been made regardless of whether or not North Shore drew the open.

EIGHT BOUTS ON CATHOLIC YOUTH CARD TOMORROW

The regular weekly boxing show at the Catholic Youth organization athletic center in the Congress Bank building will be staged tomorrow night, with eight bouts on the card.

WINNERS OF TWO COLISEUM MAT BOUTS TO MEET

Promoter Doc Krone will match the winner of the windup and semi-final matches to be held next Monday night at the Coliseum. Jim Londos meets Abie Coleman in the main event, while Joe Stecher and George Zaharias clash in the semi-windup.

There are four other well known wrestlers on the program. Hans Kampfer of Germany meets with Jim Clinkstock, and Paul Harper of Texas goes against Joe DeVito, New York Italian.

Pro Football Teams Expect Best Season

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While the college football teams are stepping out in major contests this week, hoping to balance budgets for their athletic directors, the professionals are embarking on the most ambitious schedule in recent years.

The National league, by a natural adjustment, has finally become an eight team organization. This change from a decade ago, when 22 teams claimed membership in President Joe Carr's circuit, was brought about by supply and demand, profit and loss. With the exception of Boston, the clubs now operating have had several years' experience and may be regarded as permanent. Boston is one of the best football centers in the country, and the organization there has the finances necessary to stick until the business commences to pay dividends.

Professional football, except for Portsmouth, O., and Green Bay, Wis., has gravitated to big cities, just as the baseball leagues did years ago. A majority of the eight teams should make money this season, and it doesn't cost as much this fall to put and eleven on the field as in 1931.

Cut Salaries, Player Lists.

Salaries have been cut from 10 to 20 per cent and the league also has adopted a smaller player limit. Twenty players only are eligible for each game. The western teams favored larger rosters, and while this was voted down, if the clubs care to they may keep additional players and shift the eligible 20 from week to week.

An unlimited number of players may be carried until after the second league game. This date now has been reached for all the clubs except Boston. Consequently some mighty fine linemen and backs will be added to the list of unemployed.

Green Bay, three time champions of the league, already has let out Bo Molenda, former Michigan full back. Molenda signed up with the New York Giants, coached by Steve Owen. The Packers had 28 men on their salary list when they met the Giants last Sunday and at least four of these will be dropped.

Concentration of material apparently has made touchdowns elusive. In eight league games, three have ended in ties, two of these without score. Two touchdowns seems to be the high mark of offensive strength.

Cards Meet Bears.

Two games in the west this week end will have more than the usual fireworks. The Cardinals and Bears play at Wrigley field Sunday while the Portsmouth team, 1931 runner-up, meets the Packers at Green Bay. Although the Packers have won two games [from the Cardinals and New York] and tied the Bears, they don't have the same driving attack which characterized their play in the last three years. But Green Bay expects them to tear into the Spartans Sunday. Civic pride demands it, for the Portsmouth press, if quoted correctly, has cast a few wordy slurs, referring to the Packers as "pikers" and promising them a licking.

This epithet calls for action, say Green Bay fans. The civic backing accorded the Packers gives all a sense of ownership. In 1931 when Green Bay began big league football, 341 stockholders contributed to the team's support. Purchase of season books, advertising, and so on remains the basis of Green Bay's financing. Incidentally the corporation has shown a profit every year since 1924.

Cardinals Learn Shift.

The Bear-Cardinal game has an added interest this fall. Jack Chevigny, one of Notre Dame's great blocking backs and an assistant coach at his alma mater until this fall, has introduced the shift to the Cardinals. Back in 1925 Eddie Anderson taught the Cards the Notre Dame offense and the team, with Paddy Driscoll in the van, came within a half game of beating out Pottsville for the championship. In recent seasons Ernie Nevers coached the Warner double wing back system on the south side. Nevers now is an assistant at Stanford.

Coach Ralph Jones of the Bears now has additional line strength, which was needed badly last year, and the Bears promise to break out with a scoring fever through the medium of quick opening line plays and delayed smashes.

DE PAUL SMOOTHS OUT OFFENSE FOR WESTERN STATE

De Paul university's football team was sent through an intensive scrimmage yesterday to smooth out an erratic offense. De Paul meets Western State of Kalamazoo, Mich., at Loyola stadium Friday night.

Undefeated in two games, Western State will bring to De Paul an unusually heavy team, combining power with a dangerous passing attack.

Yesterday's scrimmage found the De Paul team crippled in the quarter back department. Jim Doody, first string player, was injured in the Illinois Wesleyan game, but is expected to be ready for Western State. Vin Flood and Bill Cella were on the side lines suffering with injured shoulders.

Fred Brainard appears to be making such progress at right end that he may start at the position against Western State.

AND THEY CALL HIM "GOOFY"

Broken Nose Is Fun—for Rival Coach

hit each of his young patients a crisp tap on the nose with a 32 ounce ball bat as a companion operation to the compulsory vaccination against smallpox.

There should be no discrimination in favor of a lucky few in the distribution of aids to manhood in the schools.

An eastern coach of excellent reputation became reminiscent sitting under a tree at a golf tournament recently and went on for an hour with a most fascinating recital of acts of ferocity which had marked the rivalry of his alma mater and certain other schools. There had been biting, ganging, leg twisting, ham-stringing, heeling with the hands and slugging on the base of the brain and, though he did not teach such football or formally countenance illegal roughing, nevertheless it was plain that he took delight in his memories. Most of them do.

It's Funny to the Coach.

They all have their happy recollections of exuberantly brutal adventures but they all seek to exempt the football of today by invoking a statute of limitations and stipulating that, of course, such things are impossible now. They were saying the same thing ten years ago and ten years before that.

Ubl of Minnesota was hurt in practice with his own squad, so malice probably does not enter into his case. The fact that he was so badly hurt in practice does, however, substantiate the brutality of football. Inevitably, other players will be killed this year and more will be injured than will die.

REGULARS REST AS SUBS LABOR AT MARQUETTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 3.—Only the reserves scrimmaged today as Marquette university opened practice for its 18th annual meeting with Creighton university in Omaha, Neb., Saturday night.

The regulars who took part in the bruising Wisconsin game watched in street clothes from the sidelines. The reserves battled for nearly an hour. They will get much attention between now and Friday, since Coaches Frank Murray and Tarzan Taylor feel the Hilltoppers' chief weakness, as revealed in the Wisconsin game, was the lack of capable replacements.

Kaye Don, British Speed King, Fined for Speeding

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Every motorist in Great Britain had a good laugh tonight, when it became known that Kaye Don, British speed king, had been fined $15 at the Marylebone police court for speeding. He was charged with exceeding the 30 mile an hour limit in the outer circle of Regent's park, London.

Stella Walsh Sails to Attend Polish School

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Stella Walasiewicz, known to the sport world as Stella Walsh, fastest woman sprinter, was at Halifax today en route to Warsaw, Poland, to enter the Central Institute of Physical Education under a two year scholarship.

The scholarship, a tribute by Poland in recognition of laurels won in the sport world, comes to Stella Walsh as a promise of fulfillment of a life long ambition to become a fully qualified physical training instructress. She was frank in admitting that she was previously handicapped from reaching her goal through lack of funds.

The former Cleveland business girl left the United States at New York aboard the Polish American liner Pulaski.

Miss Walsh only recently quit her position with the Polish legation at New York to complete her physical instruction in Poland. When approached aboard the Pulaski at Halifax today she was quite talkative and glowed with pleasure at the promise of soon reaching Poland. The Pulaski stopped several hours at Halifax to embark additional passengers.

Holder of world, Olympic, American, Canadian and Polish records for running distances from 40 yards to 800 meters, Miss Walsh believes that her closest competition came from Hilda Strike of Montral at their recent Toronto meeting. Prominent among Stella's records are the world marks of 11 7-10 seconds for 100 meters and 24 1-10 seconds for 200 meters. The former mark was made at Salem, O., just previous to the Olympic games.

Homecoming of Yanks Fails to Stir Gotham

the road secretary, and Al Lang, the famous fan from Florida, there were the following players:

Ruth, Gehrig, Pennock, Pipgras, Moore, Chapman, Byrd, Allen, Lary, MacFayden, Brown, Devens, Farrell, and Trainer Painter and Coach Perkins. Perkins had his wife with him, as did Ruth, Lary, Pipgras and Farrell. Gehrig's mother was with her son, who knocked in eight runs for his side, collected three homers, and got nine hits in all, for the outstanding offensive performance of the series.

There was not nearly the amount of frolicking and rough horseplay coming back from Chicago as that which characterized the return from St. Louis in 1928, when the Babe stocked up on spare ribes, with regular interludes for tearing the shirts off his comrades and all others on the train.

Babe Is Tired.

This time the Babe was a bit tired, and Mrs. Ruth was still breathless after the wild motor bus dash through the Chicago streets. Also the Babe was older and more subdued and his upper right arm pained him where he had been plunked by a pitched ball by Guy Bush in the first inning yesterday.

But there was hilarity at that, with the wearing apparel of the troupe suffering a bit. But it has been such a ridiculously easy series for the Yanks that they really were not at their best in triumphant boisterousness. Of all the Yank party, Johnny Allen was the only one who was really "down" as to mood. He missed what he most wanted, a world series win in his first year in the majors.

Rumors are floating around that Ruth may go to Boston next season as manager of the Red Sox. No one has stood up to substantiate these, but they are strong.

RUMOR MONTREAL WILL GET N. L. CLUB FRANCHISE

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Rumors of the transfer of a National league baseball club to Montreal with John McGraw as head of the new organization went the rounds today without being denied or confirmed.

McGraw was absent from his office and could not be reached but members of the New York Giants' office said they believed there was nothing to the story.

McGraw resigned as manager of the New York Giants in June, but still is connected with the club as vice president and stockholder.

NOT FOR SALE.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals will not be sold and the club will not be moved to another city, President Sam Breadon said today. Breadon's announcement followed a report that a representative of Montreal was seeking to buy the Cardinal franchise. The St. Louis Browns, according to President Phil Ball, also are not for sale.

MILLERS BATTLE NEWARK TODAY IN FIFTH GAME

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Donie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis Millers, was building his hope of breaking the deadlock in the little world series standings on two southpaw pitchers and a short right field fence tonight.

Jess Petty, veteran left hander, who gave the American association champions their first victory last week, will face the Newark Bears, International league champions, in the fifth game tomorrow. Dutch Henry, who won the Millers' second victory, is scheduled for duty on Wednesday.

Jacksnipes Are in Season; Just Try to Shoot One

BY BOB BECKER.

While thousands of sport fans reveled in the baseball and football games provided during the last week-end, another army of outdoor fans was hiking through the lowlands in the warm October sun to enjoy the opening of the jacksnipe season.

Babe Ruth's homers are events to cheer about, but the startled "scaip" of a fast flying jacksnipe hurtling through the autumn air, zig-zagging and darting low over the lowlands, is something that causes the upland game hunter to raise his voice above the sharp crack of a 20 gauge gun.

It has been years since we can remember such a delightful combination of balmy October weather, an abundance of jacksnipe and ideal hunting conditions as we found Saturday when we joined Jay Graham, the well known professional trap shot, of Long Lake, Ill., for a trip to jacksnipeland.

In the marsh it was one of those "spring-in-the-autumn" days. The warm west wind sailed dead leaves from the woods into the lowlands; bluebirds called plaintively as they passed overhead; a hot sun called for shirt sleeves and sleeveless hunting jackets; American bitterns jumped out of the rushes and hurried away with startled squawks; the soft down of the cattails was wafted across the marsh; meadow larks called from the fields near our hunting spot, and small clusters of blue eyed asters inserted a color note into the green and brown of the marsh vegetation.

Jay Graham decided that Cranberry lake was the logical starting spot for our encounters with the elusive jacksnipe, considered one of the most elusive small bird targets on the fall shooting calendar. Cranberry lake is a small body of water, which this year, due to lack of rain, is low, thus exposing a sticky mud flat around one-half of its border. The other half of its short line is grown up thick with rushes and cattails which rise from a floating bog. With large areas of soft muck available the jacksnipe found this little lake an ideal feeding spot and here we saw them in large numbers.

J. W. Renehan, the owner of Cranberry lake, told us that we could tackle the jacks around the edge of that body of water, so we loaded the guns and prepared for action Graham was shooting a 20 gauge with No. 9 shot. We carried a 16 gauge shooting 8's.

Walking on dry land up wind along the shore for a short distance, we then waded into the mud flat and immediately struck birds. Before we had walked 30 feet Jay called, "On the right," and there, hiking up wind on our side, was a single bird. This was an easy one to drop, but from that time on the jacks pulled all of their tricks so that our 16 gauge had plenty of chances to fan the wind.

RED CAMPBELL WILL DRIVE AT ROBY SUNDAY

Red Campbell, St. Louis race track driver, who figured in the crash two weeks ago in Memphis in which Speed Adams, known to Chicago fans, lost his life, has recovered and is entered in the auto races to be held at the Roby-Chicago speedway next Sunday. Adams collided with the rear of Campbell's car, and died instantly. This will be Campbell's first appearance at Roby. He has won many victories at state fairs and is one of the leading money winners of the year.

In addition to the auto races Jack Carly will drive a motorcycle through a flaming double board wall.

Battle Creek, South Bend Meet for Semi-Pro Title

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The Battle Creek Postums and the South Bend Athletics will meet here next Sunday for the interstate baseball championship. South Bend defeated the Grand Rapids Dixie Oils yesterday, 11 to 7, to advance to the finals. The Grand Rapids team committed 10 errors.

MAROONS GAIN STRENGTH—7 OFF DISABLED LIST

Leave Thursday for Game with Yale.

Coach A. A. Stagg apparently will have the Maroon football team at full strength for Yale next Saturday. Hopes on the Midway that Chicago will avenge the humiliating 27-0 defeat inflicted by the Bulldogs last year when they came west to celebrate Stagg's anniversary, while still not very high, rose a notch or two yesterday when Dr. C. O. Molander, team physician, announced that Pat Page Jr. is the only one of the eight ailing players whose condition remains dubious.

Captain Don Birney and Allen Summers, half backs, refrained from practice yesterday, but will rehearse with the varsity in the two remaining sessions before the team entrains for New Haven Thursday. Young Page, son of the Maroon line coach, is a vital cog in the Chicago back field because of his kicking and blocking, and his loss would be felt.

Rule on Eligibility Today.

Yesterday's practice was confined to drill on plays by the backfield, fundamentals for the line, and a brief scrimmage in which the varsity tossed passes against the freshmen with some success. Playing with the varsity were Cecil Storey, 190 pound sophomore full back, and Frank Spearing, sophomore guard, who like his brother John, varsity tackle, weighs in at 195.

Both Storey and Frank Spearing will learn today or tomorrow whether they will be eligible to compete this year. If they are, both will see action in the Yale encounter, despite the fact that they have had little practice.

Yale Line Averages 206.

Even if Stagg is able to put his 190-pound line into action the Maroon forward wall will apparently be outweighed by Yale, which has a first-string average of 206 pounds from tackle to tackle.

When Stagg brings his team into the Yale bowl this Saturday he will be seeing the Eli team in action on its home field for the second time in the 43 years since he left New Haven, after a notable career as pitcher and all-American end rush. The last time that Stagg saw Yale play at New Haven was in 1898, when Harvard defeated the Blue team in a driving rainstorm. That game was the last Yale match he had seen till last year, when his alma mater routed the Maroons.

Maroons' Starting Lineup.

COACH WARNS YALE.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—In pointing out today to the Yale squad its many mistakes during the scoreless tie with Bates Saturday Head Coach Mal Stevens, turning to the Chicago game next Saturday, predicted that Coach Stagg is coming east with an outfit 35 per cent stronger than the combination Yale outpointed 27 to 0 last October.

Johnny Kilcullent, outstanding tackle candidate, joined the squad. He has made up his back studies. He was placed on the scrub squad, but predictions were made that if he regains condition he will be used for part of the game against Chicago.

NOTRE DAME EASES UP.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 3. — [Special.]—With two comparatively easy games ahead, the Notre Dame football squad will cut down on scrimmage this week. Haskell will be here Saturday and Drake the next week-end.

Today's drill on fundamentals saw three shock troopers making strong bids for the varsity. Emmett Murphy and Steve Banas, veteran backs, led in blocking and pass defense. Tom Roach, tackle, was the standout in a line skirmish, but he has Ed Krause and Joe Kurth to buck for a varsity job.

Assistant Coach Tommy Yarr, who has scouted both Haskell's games, warned the Irish to look out for Bob Holmes, Ottawa Indian who plays left half. "He weighs only 135 pounds, but he is the best small back I've ever seen," said Yarr, "and this does not exclude Orv Mohler of Southern California."

OHIO PREPS FOR OPENER.

Columbus, O., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Ohio State started today to prepare for its first Big Ten battle of the year with Indiana Saturday.

Several first stringers, not in the Wesleyan game for any length of time last Saturday, were sent into a hard scrimmage with the reserves, while other members of the varsity spent most of the practice session on new plays and signal drill.

All of the Buckeye players came through the opener without serious injuries and a scrimmage session for the regulars is planned for tomorrow.

Illinois Shifts Backs, Searches for Good Tackles

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The quest for competent tackles continued today in the Illinois football camp. Tackling and blocking were stressed in both line and back field.

Chuck Andrews was shifted to full back after his good showing at half last Saturday, and George Hester also got a trial in that position. Cliff Hyink, regular tackle last year, reported for the first time this season and may help to clear up the problem in that department.

Dave Cook got off several long punts and probably will be called upon to do the kicking against Bradley here Saturday. Fred Frink's twisted knee, suffered in the Coe game, will keep him out of the lineup for a week. Julius Hoett took his place at left end.

HOOSIERS IN HARD DRILLS.

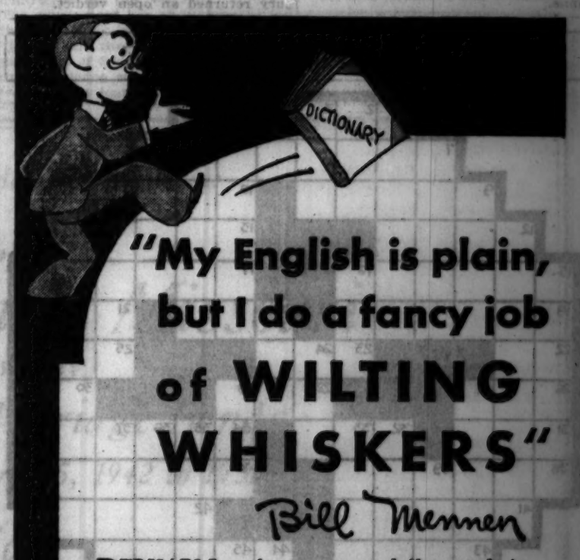
Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Correction of errors evident in the Ohio university game Saturday occupied the center of the stage in Indiana's workout here this afternoon.

Coach Hayes has made it known that every position is up for competition, and the men who look best in workouts this week will get the call against Ohio State in the conference opener at Columbus next Saturday.

Indiana coaches were dissatisfied with the team's play against Ohio university. Kicking and passing for the backs and blocking and tackling for the linemen opened the workout.

BADGERS DRILL IN RAIN.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—(AP)—A steady rain failed to halt the Wisconsin football squad today as it began preparing for the week-end game against Iowa. Coach Clarence Spears gave the second string line an intensive workout on offense, apparently dissatisfied with the running attack displayed by the Badgers against Marquette. Goldenberg was shifted back to tackle in an effort to bolster the line.



"My English is plain, but I do a fancy job of WILTING WHISKERS"

Bill Mennen

PERHAPS I ought to use two-dollar words in talking Mennen Shaving Cream, but good plain English tells the whole story---and that coupon down there proves it. . . .

Mennen wilts whiskers. There is the secret of why you get a better shave with this cream. Wilted Whiskers can't fight back. Zip! goes the razor. Zip! go the whiskers. Clean! Close!

Why does Mennen do what ordinary creams don't? The reason is that Mennen contains specially processed tri-stearin. That's the greatest whisker-wilter known—and our special process makes it do its work even with the horniest beard. No pull. No yank. Blades last longer, too.

It's a neat job—the way Mennen does it. Try it just once. You'll thank me for it. Check me up! Send the coupon.

LAUNCH 5 MILLION GRACE LINE SHIP AS 5,000 WATCH

Girl Christens Vessel with Champagne.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—The east and the west joined hands today to launch the Santa Lucia, third of the four new $5,000,000 Grace liners to slide down the way into New Jersey waters.

Bright sunshine beamed on the huge hulk of the newest addition to a home built American merchant marine and five thousand spectators gathered about its tilted prow as 12 year old Hilda Holloway, daughter of the vice president of the line, swung a ribbon covered champagne bottle at the ship's nose.

The bottle, which almost missed the ship entirely, caught the steel on its bottom and sent a cascade of liquid trickling down the liner's side. The 508 foot long, 17,000 ton vessel slid true as an arrow into the greasy waters, sending a huge wave rolling across nearby piers.

New Liner's Superstructure.

When the new liner's superstructure and interior is completed early next year it will be put in service along with its three sisters on an Atlantic-Pacific run via the Panama canal. The new Grace liners, alike in every detail, are speedy ships, slipping through the seas at 20 knots. They are the first American ships having all outside staterooms with private bath and introduce an innovation with a two deck high dining room opening from the promenade deck. The swimming pool on the Santa Lucia is the largest open air pool on any American ship.

Fifty Grace Line Guests.

Fifty Grace line guests were taken by automobile to the shipyards where Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, made the chief address. In the sponsor's party was Miss Lucy Lois Van Loren Sels, who came from the Pacific coast as the representatives of the cities of the Santa Lucia mountain range, from which the liner derives its name. Miss Van Loben Sels is a great-great-granddaughter of Noah Webster.

Following the christening ceremony a luncheon was held at the hotel where Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Mississippi Valley association and director of the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, delivered an address. Mr. Randolph told of the progress and aim of the 1933 World's Fair and asked for the cooperation of the Grace line, which visits almost every South American port, in advertising the exposition in Latin American. Mr. Randolph also discussed the expanding interest by the middle west in the American merchant marine.

Light Snow in Colorado, Wyoming; 28 Above Zero

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: History Repeats Itself

HAROLD TEEN—WHAT'S BAD?

JOHN C. FLEMING, CHICAGOAN 87 YEARS, IS DEAD

John C. Fleming, pioneer Chicagoan and former partner of Andrew Carnegie, died yesterday of a heart attack in his home at 4353 Drexel boulevard. He was in his 89th year and had been active up to a few days of his death. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Oakwoods chapel.

With his parents Mr. Fleming came to Chicago from his birthplace in Alabama in a prairie schooner 87 years ago. He fought through the civil war as a member of the Board of Trade battery and witnessed the Chicago fire. In later years it was his pleasure to recount the early days. He retired from active business in 1902.

Among his intimate friends he counted Charles M. Schwab, the late John J. Mitchell and the late Richard T. Crane. Mrs. Fleming died in 1914. A granddaughter, Mrs. A. F. Gartz, and a grandson, John F. Jennings, both of Chicago, survive.

Belden D. Jones, Car Door Company Official, Drowns

Belden D. Jones, 57 years old, 5543 Winthrop avenue, manager of the Jones Car Door company, 53 West Jackson boulevard, was found drowned yesterday in the lake near Hollywood avenue. His son, George P. Jones, 5555 Winthrop avenue, a former bond broker, testified at the inquest held later that his father had been cheerful on Sunday night when the son last saw him. The elder Jones, his son added, had been subject to fainting speels and probably had fallen into the water accidentally. The coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

MELLON RELIEVED OF HARDING MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION POST

Marion, O., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The resignation of Andrew Mellon as treasurer of the Harding Memorial association was accepted at the organization's annual meeting here today.

Mellon, former secretary of the United States treasury, resigned when he became ambassador to Great Britain. Hoke Donithen of Marion was elected to fill the post temporarily.

PLEAD GUILTY TO THEFT IN FINANCE COMPANY CRASH

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Alonzo and Ogden Hunsaker, father and son, capitalists and sportsmen, today entered pleas of guilty to charges of grand theft and violating the California corporate securities act in Superior Judge Charles Burnell's courtroom.

They were charged with manipulating the funds of the million dollar Hunsaker Finance company, in whose collapse hundreds of investors lost their savings.

The Hunsakers were indicted several months ago, but disappeared, and the father, now 60 years old, returned to Los Angeles from New York, where he had been outfitting a yachting expedition to South America.

The younger Hunsaker was arrested in Chicago and extradited here. Both Hunsakers were enthusiasts for aviation and yachting, the father having been commodore of the Elsinore Yacht club here.

FILE THREE NEW EDITH M'CORMICK ESTATE CLAIMS

Three new claims against the estate of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick were filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the probate court yesterday. The bills, totaling $2,331, were filed by the Davey Tree Expert company of Kent, O.; Marshall Field & Co., and Edward J. Hoyer, jeweler, of 834 North State street. These claims brought the total number filed against Mrs. McCormick's estate to eight, aggregating $20,922.

The probate records disclosed that Mrs. McCormick purchased 13 trunks from Marshall Field & Co. last June and July, at the time she moved from her home to the Drake hotel. The tree company presented a bill for treatment of shrubs and trees on Mrs. McCormick's various estates, and the jeweler for clocks and clock service rendered during the past two years.

Patrick Duffy Dies at 72; Veteran of Surface Lines

Patrick Duffy, 72 years old, superintendent of the central division of the Chicago Surface Lines, died yesterday in his home at 4326 Washington boulevard. Mr. Duffy started work as a boy of 15 in the barns of the west side horse car lines, later drove a horse car, and rose a number of years ago to the superintendency of the central division, which included the direction of all street car traffic in the loop. He is survived by his widow, Margaret, three daughters, and a son, Marvin, who is a policeman. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

"Uncle Wip" of the Radio Dies in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Chris Graham, 59, known to thousands of children as Uncle Wip of the radio, died today after an operation. His program on WIP-WFAN, which he had broadcast for 11 years, was one of the oldest features of its kind on the air.

Max Wolf, Specialist in Spectrum Analysis, Dies

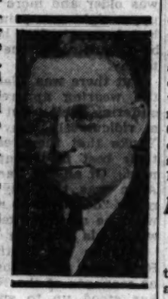
HEIDELBERG, Germany, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Prof. Max Wolf, director of the Koenigstuhl observatory and noted specialist in spectrum analysis and celestial photography, died today, aged 69. He discovered the "America nebula" in the constellation of Cygnus in 1891.

CALL BONDS ON ADAMS-FRANKLIN AND THE ARAGON

Issues of $5,110,000 in Default.

BY AL CHASE.

Two first mortgage bond issues, totaling $5,110,000, one against the sixteen story Adams-Franklin building and the other secured by the Aragon ballroom, at Lawrence and Winthrop avenues, have defaulted and bonds have been called for deposit by protective committees. In the case of the Aragon ballroom a receiver has been asked for and foreclosure proceedings have been started by the American Trust and Safe Deposit company, trustee for the $1,110,000 bond issue against the property.



N. H. OGLESBEE. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

The larger issue of the two is that against the Adams-Franklin building, at the northeast corner of Adams and Franklin streets, erected in 1926. This was a $4,000,000 issue, underwritten by S. W. Straus & Co. at 6½ per cent, since paid down to $3,935,000. It is secured by the sixteen story building and a five story mercantile section adjoining. The property fronts 199 feet on Franklin and 196 feet on Adams.

Pay Half of Interest.

Half of the interest due Oct. 1 defaulted. The balance was paid. The committee which shortly will announce a reorganization plan for the bond issue is composed of Charles C. Irwin, chairman; Frederick W. Straus, Robert E. Straus, N. H. Ogiesbee, and J. C. Wright. V. C. Scully is secretary.

The $1,110,000 first mortgage bond issue against the Aragon ballroom was underwritten by the American Bond and Mortgage company about seven years ago, at 6½ per cent. This has been paid down to $956,000. Andrew Karsas, identified with the Trianon ballroom, at Cottage Grove avenue and 62d street, is president of the Aragon Amusement company.

The county records yesterday disclosed the transfer of title by the Aragon Amusement company to the Trianon Amusement company. No one seemed to know why this was done. The attorneys for the Aragon Amusement company are Jacobson, Merrick, Nierman & Silbert. From early yesterday morning until press time THE TRIBUNE tried to reach S. C. Nierman by phone. The usual reply was, "He's busy talking." At last a telephone operator stated that Mr. Nierman was not in and had been in but a few minutes all day.

$65,600 Taxes Due.

In addition to defaulting the $18,000 interest and $31,000 principal due on Oct. 1 the bondholders' protective committee stated that $65,600 back taxes were due on the Aragon ballroom property. These were spread over four years. There is a balance of $2,647 due on the 1927 taxes, $18,158 is due on the 1928 taxes, $21,400 on 1929, and $23,395 on the 1930 taxes.

Bondholders of the Aragon securities have been asked to deposit them with the Chicago Title and Trust company, depositary for American Bond and Mortgage company issues. The bondholders' protective committee for these issues is made up of Craig E. Hazlewood [chairman], Dayton Keith, Frederick G. Curry, H. K. Hallett, Joseph E. Otis, Walter J. Sugden, Frank W. Blair, and Charles W. Weston.

Egypt's Cotton Crop Short 296,000 Bales

New York Cotton Exchange service advised that the Egyptian government estimates their 1932 cotton production at 563,000 running bales of about 480 pounds gross weight. This compares with estimate of last season by the service putting the crop at 859,000 bales. The trade estimates of the current crop in the Alexandria market averages higher than the government figure, ranging up to 630,000 or 640,000 bales.

A. O. SMITH CORP. SHOWS $4,876,550 LOSS DURING 1932

The A. O. Smith corporation of Milwaukee yesterday reported for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1932, a net loss of $4,876,550 after interest on bonds and depreciation on properties. This compares with a net income of $3,234,433 for the year ending July 31, 1931.

The balance sheet as of July 31, 1932, as submitted to the stockholders by President L. R. Smith, shows in current and working assets $3,185,729 in cash and $4,792,766 in government and other securities at cost. Total assets were given as $30,094,529, including $2,221,751 good will. Liabilities and capital include 500,000 shares no par stock at $4,000,000, ten year 6½ per cent bonds at $3,181,500, and earned surplus of $20,256,573. Earned surplus as of July 31, 1931, was $25,133,123.

PITTSBURGH AREA INDUSTRY MOVES AT FASTER SPEED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 3.—Approximately 3,700 men and women are back at work today in a sharp quickening of industrial activity in the Pittsburgh district.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass company reopened its plant at Creighton today, giving work to 1,000 men and women for at least two months, and announcing a $350,000 repair and improvement program.

Approximately $250,000 of the $350,000 will be spent at the Creighton plant, H. S. Wherrett, president of the company said, to improve manufacturing methods and methods to rehabilitate the plant to capacity efficiency. He said he had hopes that by the end of the two month period, it would be found feasible to make the reemployment permanent.

At Ambridge 500 returned to the steel plant of A. M. Byers Co., to fill orders which have accumulated during a shutdown period.

Three hundred and seventy-nine men returned to work at the car shops and locomotive works of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Dubois, increasing the crews to almost six hundred.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accompanied with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success in this city that Walgreen's invite you to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

BANKER WARNS AGAINST CHEAP MONEY POLICY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3.—The problems, pitfalls and hopes of the American banking profession are so interwoven with American politics at this time as to make it impossible to consider banking problems without politics. This was the sentiment expressed by delegates to the 58th annual convention of the American Bankers association, who assembled here today, and met in a number of group meetings in advance of the association opening session tomorrow morning.

COL. L. P. AYRES.

The trust division held its annual group meeting at the Biltmore, and R. M. Sims, vice president of American Trust company, San Francisco, was unanimously elected president to succeed Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis. Prior to the election Mr. Hennings, who is vice president of the Mercantile Bank and Trust company St. Louis, in his address to his group, warned that a "cheap money campaign" by a United States administration might have adverse effects.

Warns Against U. S. Loaning.

"Subsidies, credit, and tariffs, coupled with a general invitation to the public from Washington to come to the national capital and get money and not be timid about it, may delay the return of normal conditions rather than otherwise," Mr. Hennings warned. "We have learned that when any single industry or undertaking is subsidized by cheap credit, tariffs and unwise borrowing privileges, we must scrutinize the industry and security with the utmost care."

Mr. Hennings also prophesied:

"If this cheap money campaign of the home loan bank is continued, a breakdown may result in the safety of residence loans." He also said, "the government, by interfering with the farm loan business, has caused farm loans to fall from grace as a high grade investment security."

Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury, arrived today to be the convention's guest of honor and tomorrow night will deliver the high light address of the three day proceedings. According to those in charge of the bankers program he will present the Hoover administration's views on two or three pressing national questions.

Col. Ayres Encouraged.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland, here for the convention, in an interview today declared that any forecast on American business is futile at this time, unless it includes the proper diagnosis of the political situation, and said, "I look for a spirited demonstration in the stock market if Hoover is elected. It would be purely psychological, unsupported by anything tangible in business," but Col. Ayres thinks the election will put a definite end to a period of economic uncertainty.

Col. Ayres saw encouragement, however, in the "normal autumn upturn in business, which was lacking in 1930 and 1931."

Must Collect War Debts.

In another session, by delegates of the savings bank division, Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Cal., stressed the importance of America's collection of its war debts.

Mr. Knoles stated that the allied nations in advancing reasons why they should not be required to repay the United States for monies advanced during and after the world war, but they neglected to consider the American side of the problem.

"They fail to consider that Uncle Sam has an obligation to meet in paying back to the citizens from whom he originally borrowed the money," Knoles said.

Another speaker at the trust group session was Holman D. Pettibone, president of Chicago Title and Trust company who voiced a plea for professional trustees.

"Trusteeship is a business in itself," he said. "It requires the undivided attention of a trained organization."

Middle West Hit by New Car Carrying Ships

BY SCRUTATOR.

Another development in freight transportation has arisen to favor eastern manufacturers over those in the middle west in competing for southern business. It also promises to plague both the railroads and the interstate commerce commission.

Seatrain Lines, Inc., is scheduled to start a new shipping service between New York, Havana, and New Orleans on Thursday. It has had two unique steamers built. They are 470 feet long and have about a mile of railway trackage arranged in decks in their holds. Each ship will accommodate 100 freight cars, or a whole train.

Minimum of Handling.

These new cargo carriers have several advantages over present rail-and-water transport. As the railroad cars go direct from shipper to destination without their contents being handled at the docks, much time and expense are eliminated. The boats can be loaded or unloaded in about 10 hours, they can make the New York-New Orleans voyage within a week and it is planned to maintain a weekly service.

What has aroused the ire of manufacturers in Chicago and the middle west, as well as that of the railroads, is the fact that Seatrain Lines proposes to make the same ocean-rail rates between the east and the south as now prevail. Middle west railroads and shippers have protested for years that these rates discriminated grossly in favor of eastern manufacturers. They have protested the new service of Seatrain Lines to the federal shipping board and the interstate commerce commission.

All-Rail Rate Approved.

Severe competition between manufacturers on the Atlantic seaboard and in the middle west in reaching the southwest has always existed. Many complaints on freight rates were merged in the famous Consolidated Southwestern cases taken up by the interstate commerce commission in 1923. The commission gave a decision in 1927 establishing an all-rail rate basis. It took effect in July, 1928, but brought new complaints that have not been decided despite hearings that were held nearly four years ago.

The handicap imposed on middle west manufacturers in comparison with eastern shippers may be shown by illustration. Prior to the 1928 rate decree the all-rail rate from Chicago to San Antonio, Tex., on first class freight was $2.54 a hundred pounds. The interstate commerce commission increased this rate to $2.73. The old rail-ocean-rail rate between Hartford, Conn., and San Antonio, via New Orleans, had been $1.69½. The commission decided this rate should be $3.02, but suspended its findings and the old rate still prevails. So the Chicago shipper is handicapped $1.03½ a hundred pounds.

Built by U. S. Loan.

The protests present other interesting angles. In order to build its two new boats, which cost about $1,500,000 each, Seatrain Lines obtained a loan from the federal shipping board. A condition of the loan was that the boats were to be used only in foreign commerce. For the last four years Seatrain Lines has operated a similar boat between New Orleans and Havana, which was foreign commerce.

Now, however, the company has asked the shipping board for permission to operate between New York and New Orleans, via Havana. The protests of middle west shippers, railroads, and coastal steamship lines will be heard by the shipping board tomorrow. These interests point out that if such permission is granted the government will be in the position of financing a competitor of the railroads through one agency, the shipping board, while the Reconstruction Finance corporation is lending millions of dollars to the railroads to avoid receiverships.

The protests to the interstate commerce commission call attention to the fact that two railroads, the Missouri Pacific and the Texas Pacific, each own about 1,673 shares of class A stock of Seatrain Lines, which has 24,500 of such shares outstanding. It is charged that such railroad ownership is in violation of laws which prevent railroads from owning any interest in steamship lines.

In Maine Election, Republican Majority Cut in Two—Market Sells Off Badly
Feb. 23, 1909 $79.91
Sept. 22, 1908 $77.07
Bryan's third defeat in 1908 by Taft found conditions more favorable to the party outside. A bad financial panic in the autumn of 1907 had been followed by a depression which continued through the next summer. But, with the outset of autumn, business began to pick up, helped by good wheat and corn crops and rising prices. In the Maine election in September, the Republicans lost half of their previous majority, and this led many to believe that Democratic success was at hand. However, Taft won in a landslide, while Bryan's vote was the smallest of his three contests. The stock market sold off sharply after the Maine election, but shortly began an upward trend that was sustained until election. A brief further rise began the day after election.

Retail Buying in New York Is Increasing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—There appears to be a definite trend upward in the retail business in greater New York, though a big part of that trade increase is from out of town consumers and on credit.

The Credit Bureau of Greater New York, Inc., reports an increase in the number of applications for credit from consumers. They show an increase of 1,556 applications for credit for September this year or a total of 16,077 applications as against 14,479 for a like period in 1931.

Then, too, the federal reserve bank figures for metropolitan department stores for the first half of September show a slighter decrease than in any month since January. The figures declined but 17 per cent from the corresponding period of 1931. August with an added day over 1931, showed an improvement in monthly volume but not in average daily volume.

Out of town patrons are showing the greatest increase, according to the study just completed by the bureau.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—Publication of the treasury's daily financial statement today disclosed the deficit for the first three months of the current fiscal year is $22,000,000 higher than the deficit for the first quarter of the last twelve month period. The deficit as of the close of business Sept. 30 was 403 million dollars in round numbers. At the corresponding period last year it was 380 millions.

The statement disclosed that while miscellaneous tax collections were increasing, income taxes have fallen off so fast that total receipts for the quarter have dropped more than 100 million dollars below collections up to this date last year. Expenditures have dropped, but not sufficiently to avert a big deficit.

The total collections for the first quarter were 246 millions in round numbers, compared with 356 millions for last year. Of the collections for the first quarter this year the income tax accounted for 142 million dollars, while miscellaneous taxes amounted to $73,000,000. Customs receipts were $26,000,000. During the first quarter last year income tax receipts were 267 millions, miscellaneous taxes $48,000,000, and customs receipts 35 millions.

Expenditures for the first quarter last year were 342 millions, compared with 249 millions for the same period this year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Oct. 3.—James J. Harpell, publisher and president of the Journal of Commerce, a local business weekly, was arrested and arraigned in court today on a charge of criminal libel. The apprehension of Harpell follows a spectacular last issue of the Journal, which contained a story attacking T. B. Macauley, president of the Sun Life Assurance company of Canada. The Harpell article flayed the investment policy of the Sun Life. The trial was fixed for Oct. 11. The charge carries a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment or a fine of $400, or both.

Closed Gary Bank to Pay 20 Per Cent to Depositors

Depositors in the First National bank of Gary, which closed Jan. 5, will receive a 20 per cent dividend on their deposits today. The payments to 6,300 depositors will total $340,000. The bank had only $40,000 in cash on hand when it closed.

Standard Oil Staggers Jobs, Seubert Says

Standard Oil company of Indiana is now operating all its refineries on a policy of dividing up work to keep men employed, according to an announcement made last night by Edward G. Seubert, president, to 200 representatives of employees and management attending the company's fourteenth annual industrial relations conference.

Adoption of schedules now in force, Mr. Seubert said, has prevented layoffs of more than a thousand men whose services would otherwise have become unnecessary, owing to completion of the schedule of construction work and to the reduction of manufacturing operations incident to the curtailment of consumption of refined products.

Until recently it was not unusual for some refinery workers to be employed six full days a week and as much as nine hours a day. The average working time in Standard of Indiana refineries is now about forty hours a week, with few employees working more than forty-four hours, and then only in special cases, he explained.

The company has not adopted a uniform five day week because of many special complexities in its manufacturing, but its schedules for the majority of employees approximate the five day week.

BANK DEPOSITS TURN UP AGAIN, REPORT SHOWS

The federal reserve board reports that bank deposits showed a further increase in the week ended Sept. 28. The report covering reserve member banks in the principal cities disclosed an increase in commercial deposits of $129,000,000 and a gain in time deposits of $13,000,000.

The expansion in commercial deposits brings the total to $1,229,000,000 or $494,000,000 above the low level reached last July.

SEEKS TO PLACE NICKEL PLATE IN RECEIVERSHIP

Action Is Postponed Until Friday.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

JUDGE JAMES H. WILKERSON.

The petition was filed by Attorney Leo S. Samuels on behalf of Samuel Kaplan of Detroit. Mr. Kaplan is a holder of $3,000 in bonds of the company.

Attorneys John C. Slade and John D. Black of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, representing the railroad, requested that the action be continued, stating that they had received a copy of the bill at noon and had time only for a hasty reading. From other sources it was learned that the railroad probably will contest the receivership action.

In Mr. Kaplan's petition it was stated that the Nickel Plate defaulted Oct. 1 on both interest and principal of a $20,000,000 6 per cent bond issue. There was also a default on other gold notes amounting to $1,200,000 and an item of $18,865 in past due taxes.

Asserts $150,000,000 Involved.

Attorney Samuels stated that there is $150,000,000 involved in the litigation. The $20,000,000 bond issue was floated by the company Oct. 1, 1929, and was due both as to principal and interest Oct. 1, 1932. It was issued for the purchase of the Wheeling and West Virginia railroad. The Nickel Plate in September submitted to holders of its notes a plan whereby they were to receive an amount in cash equal to 25 per cent of the principal amount of the notes due and new notes for the balance of 75 per cent payable Oct. 1, 1935.

Upon deposit of substantially all the notes outstanding, the road was to obtain a loan of $6,800,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. As the time was short, only $14,200,000 was deposited and the Reconstruction Finance corporation amended its condition so that $1,200,000 was made available, with the balance to be paid when substantially all the notes were deposited.

Operation of the Nickel Plate for the first 8 months of 1932 resulted in a deficit of $3,453,590. Along with most other roads it has been hard hit by the depression.

To Resist Action.

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The management of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] railroad today indicated through the road's bankers that they would resist efforts to obtain a receiver to run the property.

Bonds of Land Banks Lacking U.S. Guarantee

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The passing into receivership of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank adds $43,530,000 to the total amount of defaulted joint stock land bank bonds outstanding in the hands of the public.

When these bonds and those of some fifty other joint stock land banks throughout the country were sold to investors fifteen years ago the federal government permitted them to be described as "instrumentalities of the government of the United States." They had the appearance of government bonds.

Nobody then was quite certain of the meaning of the word "instrumentality." The original buyers of these bonds had a vague idea that it meant the federal government would stand behind the bonds.

No Federal Guarantee.

The investors have since discovered to their sorrow that "instrumentality" makes the interest received from these bonds tax exempt, but in no way imposes a liability for the payment of either bonds or interest. This in spite of the fact that the government urged the people to buy them and in its appeals left the impression they were backed by Uncle Sam.

The placing in receivership on May 1 of the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land bank, on June 1 of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land bank, and on Oct. 1 of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank has focused attention on the desperate financial condition of many of these banks.

When the government sponsored system of land banks was being launched fifteen years ago the investor in these securities was assured that his money would be doubly safe because the farm loans to be made by the land banks were to be subject to the approval of the federal farm loan board.

Third of Borrowers Delinquent.

At the present time it is reported that one out of every three borrowers in the joint stock land bank system is delinquent in his payments. There are about $536,000,000 par value of joint stock land bank bonds outstanding. A few weeks ago one statistician figured out that these bonds had a market value of about 37½ per cent of their par value.

The liquidation of the joint stock land banks has been going on for several years and it now appears very likely that the process is to be accelerated by a series of receiverships.

Buy in Own Bonds.

The only way some of these banks have been able to avoid receivership has been by a program of buying in their own bonds at 30 to 40 cents on the dollar and thereby reducing interest charges.

While the joint stock land banks have been left to flounder as they may the federal farm loan board's other protege, the federal land banks, have been faring better.

The federal government has bolstered up the federal land banks with $125,000,000 of additional capital this year. One reason for the seeming discrimination in favor of the federal land banks may be the investment of $160,000,000 that the government holds in these institutions.

Sixty millions of such bonds are held by postal savings and a hundred millions by the government's life insurance fund. The latter is the outgrowth of war risk insurance and is controlled by the veterans' bureau. The government has no investment in the joint stock land banks. Both the "joints" and the "federals" made the same type of farm loans. And in each case the loans were approved by the federal farm loan board.

RAIL SHIPPERS ASK MORE CARS IN 4TH QUARTER

Estimate by 20,000 Shows Increase.

Railroad shippers are making upward revisions of their estimated freight car needs for the fourth quarter. Based on the estimates of the 13 shippers' advisory boards, loadings this quarter will run 10.4 per cent under a year. The estimate is based on responses received by the boards from 20,000 shippers throughout the nation. In the third quarter the same shippers estimated a deficiency of 21.1 per cent from a year ago.

The report of the shippers' boards was issued last night by the American Railroad association. Loadings for the quarters are placed at 4,566,369 cars, as compared with 5,094,853 last year, a decrease of 10.4 per cent.

Cotton to Show Increase.

Of the 29 commodities covered in the forecast it is predicted that only one, cotton, will show an increase in loadings in the final quarter this year, as compared with the corresponding period of 1931. The estimated increase is 16,500 car loads. The estimated declines range from .8 per cent on sugar, syrup and molasses and 3.2 per cent on canned goods to 50.8 per cent on ore and concentrates. The latter estimate compared with an estimated deficiency of 70 per cent in the third quarter.

The estimates of shippers in the great lakes region call for 231,991 cars during the fourth quarter as compared with 264,653 cars actually used in the final quarter of 1931. This is a decline of 12.3 per cent. Only one of the thirteen districts, the southwest, is estimating that loadings for its territory will be on a par with last year. The board in this district calls for 418,370 as compared with 416,641 cars actually loaded in the final quarter of 1931.

North Western Gains.

Continued improvement in car loadings on the Chicago and North Western railway is shown in the report for the month of September with 97,430 cars loaded as compared with 93,509 in the previous month. This increase is made more impressive by the fact that September had 25 working days as compared with August's 27.

Cars were loaded at the rate of 3,899 cars per working day during the month of September as compared with 3,463 cars per working day of August this year. Instead of the increase shown this year September in 1931 showed almost a 10,000 car decrease over August, 1931. In the last week of the month, the daily loading record for the year was broken two times. The September loading figure was 21,301 cars under the 118,731 loading total for September 1931. This 18 per cent decrease is the lowest of the year, however.

Filing of receiverships proceedings against the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroads at Chicago prompted some heavy selling of the 6s which went into default at the close of business on Saturday. That issue slumped more than 5 points from its high while the road's other maturities lost from 3 to 3¾ points.

Action of Nickel Plate bonds was sufficient to create a generally weak market in other railroad liens, especially the more speculative descriptions. Missouri Pacific issues were notably weak as were Southern Railway, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Rock Island.

Rally Near Close.

Most of these securities, however, rallied moderately at the beginning of the final hour, along with the rest of the market.

Notwithstanding the Nickel Plate receivership petition, officials of the carrier are going ahead with their refunding plan which involves a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation sufficient to pay 25 per cent of the 6's in cash. Latest reports placed the deposits at approximately 71 per cent of the $20,000,000 outstanding.

Other groups were easier. The absence of any selling relieved the situation somewhat.

Steel Utilities Lower.

Steel issues were under pressure despite the further encouragement afforded by the steel reviews today. National Steel, Wheeling and Gulf States steel were off about a point each.

Selling in fair volume took its toll of International Telephone and Telegraph led by the 5s and 4½s. Other utilities were fractionally lower.

United States government loans were quiet and firm throughout the day. The foreign list developed a mixed trend.

Commodity Price Index Up Fourth Month in Succession

Bradstreet's monthly commodity price index increased 1.4 per cent from Sept. 1 to Oct. 1, standing at $7.3753 on the latter date. This makes the fourth consecutive monthly gain since June when the low for the depression was reached.

General Cable.

Will you please give me information on General Cable corporation? Thank you.—D. E. T.

General Cable company was originally incorporated in 1902. The company manufactures all kinds of copper wire and cable. It also produces tubing and copper rods. Expansion from 1925 through 1929 was rapid. With the exception of one plant on the Pacific coast and one in Alabama, manufacturing facilities are confined to the northeastern section of the United States.

Adverse business conditions and continued low copper prices have resulted in substantial losses in the last two and one-half years.

Net loss of $864,000 in the second quarter of 1932 brought net loss for the first half to $1,715,000, against loss of $1,274,000 for the first six months of 1931.

Net loss for 1931 was $5,272,000, against loss of $2,068,000 for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $4,709,000, against net income of $3,888,000 for 1928.

In 1931 inventory losses were $2,052,000, and loss and reserve for obsolescence were $620,000. Inventory losses in 1930, after application of $2,175,000 reserves, were $1,525,000.

The company has maintained a strong current position, although net working capital shows a marked reduction from previous years. On June 30, 1932, current assets were $10,718,000, and current liabilities were $692,000. Cash alone was $3,273,000. There were no bank loans. Working capital was $10,026,000, against $11,572,000 on Dec. 31, 1931, and $21,785,000 on Dec. 31, 1930.

The decline is the result of operating losses, inventory losses, payment of unearned dividends, reduction in funded debt, and, in 1931, the transfer of $4,555,000 of securities from current assets to fixed assets.

Funded debt at the close of 1931 was $14,888,000. There were outstanding 150,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock (par $100), 398,768 shares of no par class A, and 487,700 shares of no par common. The class A is preferred over the common as to noncumulative dividends of $4 per year. Each class A share is convertible into two common shares at any time.

No dividends are being paid on the preferred. The preferred is speculative and the class A is more so. The common is entirely speculative.

Central Indiana Power.

I would appreciate it if you would rate Central Indiana Power company 6s, due 1947, for me.—O. C.

They are a business man's risk.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—Today's stock market proved a disappointment to those traders looking for a brisk recovery, the list working moderately but generally lower in the dullest session since summer. The turnover was barely above 1,000,000 shares. Selling dried up in the last hour and lifted the list above the day's lows, and net losses for the most part ranged from fractions to a little more than 1 point.

The shorts who were forced to cover just before the Jewish holiday on Friday apparently returned this morning to put out new lines where they left off. These operations probably accounted in good part for the dullness and lower price range.

Nickel Plate Jolts Rails.

The market, railroad issues in particular, received somewhat of a jar in the court action of a Nickel Plate bondholder asking appointment of a receiver for the road. Wall street, however, was not inclined to take the action too seriously in the view of the large increase of deposits under the plan for recapitalization.

Nickel Plate common preferred eased off a couple of points on a few sales. Other carrier shares such as Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Lackawanna, New York Central, and Southern Pacific, among the more active ones, showed setbacks of 1@3 points before they recovered in late trading along with the rest of the market.

Utilities Resist Selling.

Utilities for the most part showed good resistance to selling, although volume was light. Consolidated Gas held its loss to a fraction, as did American and Foreign Power, while Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Gas recorded fractional gains.

Reports of declining automobile sales affected the motor section little. Chrysler ran General Motors a close second in volume and both dipped a fraction. The general run of independents were also soft. Lack of volume in this section as in others obviated a guage of strength.

Opportunities

The wide upturn in recent months in prices of investment bonds still leaves many unusual opportunities, due to inequality of prices with relation to intrinsic values.

Municipal bonds, free of all Federal Income Taxes, range to yield as high as 5%; Public Utility and Industrial bonds to yield 7.50%, or more.

We will be glad to make recommendations of issues suitable to your investment requirements.

PRICES IN GRAIN PITS SAG; CORN AND OATS AT LOWS

July Wheat Quoted First Time; Closes at 59⅞c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The Grain market again failed to develop a definite trend, although prices averaged lower, with the December futures of corn and oats selling at new lows for the season to date. The break in stocks, combined with a lack of aggressive buying, was largely responsible for a decline of 1¼c in wheat early to 52¾c for the December, but the aggregate trade was not large and the market easily influenced.

Buying against bids absorbed the surplus in the wheat pit and caused a fair rally, with the finish at intermediate prices, with net losses of ⅞@⅞c. December finished at 53⅛@53⅝c and May at 58⅝@58½c. The July delivery was officially quoted for the first time yesterday. It opened at 59⅞c, sold down to 59c, and closed at 59⅜c.

Await Hoover's Speech.

Owing to the drastic advances and declines which have frequently occurred following political speeches, the grain trade was not inclined to get far from shore yesterday and awaited with considerable interest President Hoover's speech scheduled to be delivered at Des Moines, Ia., today.

There was nothing in the news to cause any enthusiastic buying or selling and the bulk of the day's trade was around 53¼c for the December, with individual operations limited. Winnipeg showed relative firmness, receiving good commission house support on the minor dips, and the close was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with December at 51⅛c in Canadian funds, a figure at which the market is generally believed to be "pegged."

Liverpool reported Canadian and Argentine wheat was firmly held, and futures in the English market were ½@⅝c per bu higher, with the December closing at 56⅛, or 3½c over the same future on Chicago at the time. Statistics attracted little attention. An increase of 1,591,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply, with the total 187,521,000 bu, against 233,109,000 bu last year.

Corn Market Easier.

Corn showed an easy undertone, with the December selling 27c, a new low for the season, and the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of ½@⅝c. May closed at 32c, and the July at 33⅝c, the latter being traded in for the first time this season. Country offerings of cash grain to arrive were only fair, with purchases of 111,000 bu, while the east bought 25,000 bu.

Scattered selling developed in oats, with the December selling at 17c early or a new low for the season, and closed at 17¼c, with a net loss of ¼c. May was 19⅛c at the last. The decline was in the face of shipping sales of 136,000 bu, the largest in some time. Rye closed unchanged to ⅜c lower with December, 35¼c, and May, 38⅛c. Trade was largely of a local character.

Chain Store Leases.

Financial Editor: Finally the boomerang of chain store policy is completing its vicious circle. With its merchandising plan to offer goods at cost and below cost prices in order to lure the public from the independent merchant who retails his items at prices providing for a reasonable margin of profit, the chain store now asks the landlord to lower their rents.

Every other means to secure a profit in the face of cost and below cost selling have been tried. Wages have been reduced, other articles have been sold at excessive prices to make up for the ones sold at less than cost and operating expenses have been reduced to the minimum. In conclusion the policy has been found false. But does the chain store management recognize this? Not at all. Rather than make an about face and renounce the pernicious practice of price cutting, violating sound business principles, the chain stores turn to the landlord for relief.

In the first place, the chain stores have brought themselves face to face with disaster by their own tactics. Is it the landlord's place to stave off ruin brought on by a ruthless disregard for everything that is upright and honest? Furthermore, how can the landlord, who is already excessively burdened by increased taxes and mounting maintenance costs be called upon to shoulder the burden of reduced rentals?

Would it not be fairer and more upright if the chain stores would change their tactics and do an honest merchandising business based on a reasonable profit and make an end with this terrible advertised feature of offering goods at cost or below cost? Any fair minded person must admit that this feature can be honest neither in its intent nor its purpose.

Clearly the remedy must come from the chain stores and they cannot expect real estate to bear the burden of their folly.

It appears the public has learned the fallacy in the policy that business can afford to sell any merchandise at cost. A reasonable profit must be realized on every article to cover overhead expenses, including wages, rent, insurance, advertising, interest, and incidentals.

The public must begin to distrust a concern which advertises its less than cost articles, for in order to make up that loss the concern must make an exorbitant profit on other articles.

The only salvation for the chain stores is the inauguration of honest and proven fundamentals of business.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the REDUCED RATE is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
